REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, MARCH 24, 1894.

IT would naturally be supposed that the Reform Board of Aldermen would display some alacrity in seeking to recover as much as possible of the public plunder carried off by their thievish predecessors. It is with some surprise, therefore, that the public has noted that no effort has yet been made to repeal the ordinances by which the last Board of Aldermen gave away to paper corporations, in which they were themselves the chief stockholders, valuable street railroad franchises. Some of these franchises have already been defeated in the courts, and it is promised that none of them shall be allowed to realize upon its plunder without running the same gauntlet. In that assurance there is some hope that the venality of the last Board of Aldermen will defeat itself. But would it not be a measure of safety and of moral if not legal benefit, for the present Board of Aldermen to repeal the ordinances by which the franchises were sought to be conferred upon the Coffey-Flynn syndicate?

The Reorganization of Erie.

THE opposition that is growing up against the Directors' plan for the reorganization of the Erie property, or rather it should be said increasing the mortgage lien on the property because the plan does not really contemplate reorganization in any acceptable definition of the term, is doing a great deal of good, inasmuch as it is educating bondholders, not only of the Erie road but of other properties also, to a knowledge of their rights. We have several times drawn attention to the high-handed way in which controlling interests in great properties go to work when readjustment of obligations becomes necessary. Hitherto they have been encouraged in their acts by the sheepish acquiescence of bondholders who have done what they have been ordered to do simply because they did not take the trouble to find out what were their rights in the premises and how they could best secure for themselves the terms to which they were entitled. In this way the men in control have been enabled to make a great deal of money by purchasing certain securities which they could favor in reorganization at the expense of some others in which they had no interest, unless it was on the short side of the market. Any one can see that in the way of snaps this can have no equal. Without asserting that this was the motive in the case of Erie, it can be said that the disregard of the rights of the Second Consol. bondholders reached probably a height never attained before in railroad management of the last twenty years.

It is less than ten years since Erie was taken out of the hands of receivers and turned over to the management of Mr. John King, despite whose executive ability it has created a floating debt of about $9,000,000 and car-trust obligations of $6,000,000. In addition to these amounts $4,000,000 of earnings over fixed charges, according to the company's reports, and $10,500,000 proceeds of bonds have been expended in the improvement of the property; these expenditures accompanied very large increases in both gross and net earnings. The result of all this being bankruptcy, the security-holders might very well ask that the next reorganization shall be made on a basis that will give permanence to the value of their holdings and that the stockholders shall help to bring this about. What they are offered is something that, reading the future by the past, will soon repeat the old story. Interest charges are increased and the provision for future betterments would last only a few years. At the same time the holders of the one security chiefly affected by the Directors' plan, the Second Consol. bonds, are impudently told in effect that they are powerless to do other than accept its terms. Fortunately there are among the holders of Erie Second Consols some people who are acquainted with their privileges and determined to make a stand for them. They have obtained the opinion of eminent counsel assuring them of their mortgage rights until foreclosure. The strength of their position lies in the fact, not yet properly understood, that no reorganization not effected by means of foreclosure can deprive any body of non-assenting bondholders of their rights under the mortgage securing their bonds. Until that mortgage is satisfied, and while one bond is outstanding it cannot be satisfied, it stands as a lien prior to any other that may be upon put the property.

One of the arguments used to urge the deposit of Erie Second Consols is that the mortgage cannot be foreclosed until six successive coupons have been defaulted. That may occasion delay in effecting a settlement, but such delay cannot affect the bonds more injuriously than would the acceptance of a plan so obviously temporary in its effects as is the one now offered. It is even a question whether the courts would, in the face of the fact that the company has declared its inability to maintain its part of the contract, insist on the lapse of three years before granting the relief demanded by the nature of the case. The Erie case, besides involving a very large amount of money, also involves a very important principle; shall a company be held to its contract with its bondholders? And as there are now in default in this country railroad bonds representing many millions of dollars whose treatment is likely to be modified by the results in the Erie case, its progress will, of course, be watched with the greatest interest.

Obituary.

Mr. Edward Murphy, who has for some twenty years past held positions of prominence in the office of the Registrar of Deeds for Kings County, died Thursday afternoon of valvular disease of the heart, accelerated unquestionably by over-exertion. His latest employment as index clerk involved extraordinary and incessant labor and patience, unduly taxing his physical and mental energies Mr. Murphy was retained and trusted by the succeeding administrations, and when Col. Richards was Registrar he was practically the head of the office.

Building Trade Notes—Brooklyn.

Hommel & Harnden is the style of the firm which has succeeded to the extensive North River Bluestone business of the late C. F. Hommel, at Grand street and Morgan avenue, Brooklyn. Mr. James H. Harnden was connected with Mr. Hommel's business for nine years, and for a year past has had the entire management of the business for the estate. He has since formed a partnership with Mrs. Hommel for the continuation of the business under the above name. As an indication of the extent of their business, we report the following contracts which they have in hand, for the laying of sidewalks:

Cement has grown into more extended and varied use in these later days than would have been expected of it a few years ago, and wherever used with intelligence and skill, it has fulfilled every demand made upon it. Thus, as employed in the construction and manufacture of cement sidewalks, wash-tubs, copings, sills, factory floors, driveways, stable floors and watertight warehouse floors and cellars, by Wm. C. Owen, they never fail to give satisfaction. Mr. Owen is proprietor of the Keystone Cement Works, at 90 and 92 Eldert street, Brooklyn.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—Since the recovery of tone noted last week the market for Common Hards has been somewhat steadier, and that really seems to be about the best that can be said for it. Receivers too admit that it was not so much demand as an agreeable disappointment in matter of arrivals—the predicted rush of Up River makes failing to materialize through which the tone of the market was supported. There was, however, quite as much stock as desired, because even with some of the finest weather ever known at this season and the frost all out of the ground, the wants of consumers have not increased to anywhere near the usual extent. We find on quotations about former rates named, pretty much all receivers agreeing that $5.25 is an average top rate, unless buyers insist upon having some pet make, and on Pales $2 remains a quotation with business done at less money. Syndicate talk is still in the air, and it looks as though manufacturers might be having some quiet fun over the situation. It is said that one combination was formed and quickly went to pieces and that another is on trial, but as a rule the trade does not show a liking for the Trust idea.

CEMENT.—In one way or another there should be a pretty good demand for all kinds of cement by this time, and especially with the open weather experienced, but decidedly contrary conditions prevail and thus far it has been an off year. In the Rosendale district, water transportation facilities are fully restored, but the manufacturers have not found it necessary to use them with freedom. A few orders were received from dealers and that is about all that can be expected until building plans take more definite shape and the wintered stocks are worked off. The rates open this year at 85@95c., according to brand, rarely above 90c.; certainly low enough, although cost is less a factor than positively absent consumption as a check upon demand. Foreign grades are also dull, not much local demand prevailing, and the interior trade remaining at a comparative stand still. The condition of business will not justify rail shipments and there is unlikely to be anything go forward until the canals open. Arrivals moderate and mainly on running contracts, and prices range about as before. The Montreal Gazette says: "Since our last report the feature of the cement market has been the sale of 5,000 casks of English brand on Western account, for shipment during the coming season. This is the first large sale made, but as the prospects for work are encouraging the indications are that a good many more of such transactions will take place between now and the first arrivals from abroad. Late mail advices from London say there have been no quotations or inquiries received from Canadian buyers yet, which is very unusual for this time of year, and this is accounted for by the large stock held here. The rate of freight from London is quoted at 7s 6d per ton for shipment by first vessel. On the whole the feeling has ruled steady here and values show no change. We quote: English brands, $2.05@2.15, and Belgian at $1.90@2.00 per bbl."

HARDWARE.—This month's business has been at a gradual gain, yet that does not mean a great deal when the narrow starting base has been taken into consideration. In fact, as a whole, operators have much fault to find with the situation and think a great deal of time has passed which should have been devoted by small jobbers and retailers in more thoroughly filling and rounding up the assortments they had allowed to run very low. All classes of custom, however, continues exceedingly conservative in handling goods, partly because of a natural tendency to caution growing out of the times, and partly because a great many buyers have discovered that they are objects of much solicitude to manufacturers who are cutting the large jobbers out in many cases on their anxiety to secure custom. Builders' specialties are in the general boat and only small quantities of thoroughly staple goods find custom. No regular line of quotation is attempted, and on pretty much all deals the price is special. Collections are said to be fairly satisfactory, except from localities where labor has been unemployed for a long while.

LATH.—The market has not done quite as well as hoped and the comparatively common experience of finding the sanguine predictions of receivers neutralized is encountered. It seems to have been a case of a little too much stock and disappointment in calculations upon the wants of dealers. There was nothing in the way of direct and serious pressure to sell, but, after taking a look around, receivers came to the conclusion it was a good time to secure customers when they could be found, and rates were made more attractive in furthering that end. The latest business we learn of was at $2.10 for slat, and $2 for round wood, with matters about steady.

LIME.—Business is without any new or startling features and seems to be moving along fairly from day to day, making a reasonably good balance against current offerings. Prices have also kept about steady, and we repeat former quotations. About all the offering has been of Eastern make, but some of the State and other products were available, with intimations that more would come along if needed.

LUMBER.—Scarcely any new features have developed in the market since our last, and indeed in all essential particulars the conditions are the same as they were weeks ago. Because of more open weather a slight increase of consumption is taking place, but even that is in part upon work suspended during the winter, and for which supplies have long been under engagement, new deals proving light and backward at all localities in this district. Nor is there any special effort to seek trade at the moment. Our local dealers have pulled the late financial unpleasantness with a remarkable freedom from disaster, but many of them appreciate how great the struggle was, and they feel well disposed to continue cautious methods so long as there remains a doubt in regard to the stability of builders and contractors and especially the speculative class. Failing then to distribute goods they naturally are disinclined to purchase renewals except as matter of necessity and bulk offerings have very little natural demand at the moment upon which it would be worth while to waste much time in attempting negotiations.

Disagreeable as may be present showings, however, the market never was in better shape to afford an immense business the moment a fair start upon a confident basis can be assured. Even the slow dribble of winter and early spring trading has made an impression upon accumulations that were unusually small to commence with, and a trip among the yards will disclose a remarkable condition of light and broken assortments in the great majority of cases. The exceptions are the same as they were last summer, fall and winter, and confined to a few big houses with usually plenty of credit, and if captious sellers object to credit, with facilities for reaching hard cash, they would be in the procession of buyers, too, and give additional solidity to the movement. Another feature favorable for improvement is to be found in the ruling line of values, which nine buyers out of ten will admit to be as low and in some cases possibly lower than justified by cost on primal points, and, therefore, there is practically nothing to overcome in matter of price. Lumber is simply in the position of dozens of other staple commodities, awaiting the end of business-prostrating legislation, and ready to revive the moment danger of further financial and commercial perplexities is removed.

Some of the yellow pine people entertain quite hopeful feelings for the present season. Stocks in dealers' hands are said to have become unusually low here and at localities ordinarily buying through this market, and there is a great deal of work planned out that will absolutely require just this kind of stuff. Prices are somewhat uncertain except as to the feature of being too low apparently for further decline, and advices from the South indicating that manufacturers feel more like making an effort to get something in the way of profit out of their production. Of Carolina pine there is somewhat irregular selling, but on the whole the tendency seems toward an improved movement, as this is not only one of the descriptions of stock for which it is claimed there is "always a demand," but new sources of custom are opening up with progress of the season which makes sellers a trifle independent of this market. Offerings are plenty enough and can be increased, and sellers have made no objection to acceptance of former rates with now and then an indication that list figures are cut slightly. Hemlock has fair attention from interior buyers and get a little more local demand with no admission made that any changes in cost have occurred.

White Pine had best be considered somewhat nominal at the moment. There are stories about some agents who have come into the market and made secret deals, but nothing tangible can be traced, and most dealers disclaim any necessity for negotiating beyond moderate lines of ordinary grade. There is a pretty good stock of shippers available, because large amounts were due on last year's contracts, from which no release could be obtained, and they have gradually accumulated in consequence of disappointment over the export trade.

The opening of the Hudson to Albany will not make much, if any, difference in the supply of State Spruce, as there is poor accumulation to draw upon. For Eastern Spruce the tone is somewhat steadier, upon impression that the severe rush of supplies has passed and, while more stuff is expected along, receivers talk as though they calculated upon placing it without further shading on value. Indeed, the concerns with big bank accounts, who mostly absorbed the recent cheap offerings, are now carrying many piles of spruce, to which no present additions are required, and custom that expects "time" will have to pay accordingly. One encouraging feature is to be found in some increase of the specials offering, and agents say they are getting for them pretty nearly the same rates as last year for similar specifications.

Hardwoods continue dull. A large percentage of the buildings "projected" and "permitted" will eventually afford consumption for a considerable quantity of hardwoods and no other kind, but the period is so distant that makers of trim feel in no hurry and abstain from placing orders for stock. The market, however, is fortunate in having no direct or general supplies pressing upon it and while there are many resident agents and some travelers looking for custom they are as a rule careful in developing desires. It is supposed that rates are generally steady and "quotations" are made very much the same as for some time, but as already noted in the case of poplar, there are frequent and rather deep cuts before negotiations of an extensive character can be closed. Advices from primal markets are without much interest at the moment.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

From Chicago Northwestern Lumberman we take the following:

In the white pine field a somewhat peculiar condition prevails. In the wholesale trade there is a great desire on the part of holders to unload stock carried through the winter, and the tendency is to do this at yielding prices, especially for common lumber. At the same time there has been a short log crop in contemplation, and the end of that even has been foreshortened by a sudden coming of spring weather. But there are logs in mill booms ready for starting of the mills to the amount of over 1,000,000,000 feet, and a dull market confronting the manufacturers. A factor in the log situation is the present predicament in regard to the drives. The snow has vanished, the water has run out of the streams and the drives have not been started. Many of the logs are left in the woods on skids. The drives will have to wait until spring rains shall afford a sufficient stage of water. Altogether the condition of the log crop favors a stronger market. The mills are likely to delay starting as long as possible. In the meantime the holders of lumber at the mills will be watching the market. As yet the dealers and manufacturers are apart in respect to prices. The dealers seem determined to defer purchasing until the mill men yield. The manufacturers seem equally determined to stand out against a further decline. This makes almost a deadlock in the cargo market around the lakes.

It is stated in a Toledo paper that the cut in lumber rates from Saginaw Valley points eastward has got the competing railways into a squabble. It is delineated in this way: The Saginaw lines first asked the Central Traffic Association to sanction a cut from a basis of 23 to 21 cents to New York. The committee sat down on the proposed cut. The Saginaw lines thereupon appealed to the freight committee and were again denied. Then the Saginaw lines took the bit in their teeth and announced a 21-cent rate to New York. The Toledo lines made an emphatic kick at this. The Lake Shore, Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio managers said they would not accept a 21-cent rate unless the Saginaw lines would stand all the cut. The matter caused much trouble in freight circles, and this week the difficulty came up in a meeting of the Central Traffic Association in this city, with what result has not been learned. The Saginaw shippers felt much elated because they had secured lower rates, but their cup of joy may be dashed to the ground ere they get a good draught of it.

If there is any kind of lumber in America occupying a stronger position than another it is poplar. Good stock is not over plentiful and is being held firmly, especially in the west. There is a call for wide, clear lumber for manufacture, for wagon box boards and for squares for turned work, especially at northwestern points. Recently there has also developed a considerable inquiry for common and cull, and the yard trade in such lumber is rising. Stocks at leading Tennessee and Ohio river points are being held firmly, and, though the eastern demand is not as strong as could be wished, there is little disposition to unload on a forced market.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

The logging season of 1893-94 is just about over. Way up in the poplar regions of Minnesota and Wisconsin there may be a little more work done, although it is doubtful. The warm weather and the heavy rains of the past two weeks have played hob with the sleighing, and the roads soon became bare, although it is said that there is more or less snow still at the sides of roads. Some short hauls, where it pays to shovel snow into the roads, are still being carried on, but nearly all the camps have now broken up and the men have gone to the larger cities. The log crop on the upper Mississippi will not be as large as was thought it would be a few weeks ago. It will aggregate between four hundred and four hundred and twenty-five million feet, however, which, with the three hundred and fifty to four hundred million feet left over in the river will give a fair amount of logs for the mills the coming season. Over on the Wisconsin rivers, however, there was a large falling off on the log crop which will not average more than 50 per cent on some rivers, such as the Chippewa, to 60 or 70 per cent of last year's cut on others. But on the whole there were enough logs banked this winter in the white pine district as the trade the coming summer will demonstrate. The Wisconsin mills and those dependent upon logs from that State will probably not have logs enough to run through the season. A little scarcity of lumber, if such a thing should result next fall, would be a good thing.

By far the most important event which has ever occurred in the history of lumbering in the Northwest is the great pine transfer by which some two hundred and twenty-five thousand acres of the choicest pine timber in the State of Minnesota has passed into the hands of five of the largest lumbur companies of Minneapolis and one Clinton, Ia., firm. It is the last pine timber deal of magnitude that will probably ever take place in the Northwest, as no other such body of pine exists within the limits of the white pine belt if the quality and quantity be taken into account.

While the general business of the country has not shown a great improvement during the past seven days, it can probably be said that the lumber trade has assumed a little more healthier aspect, although it may be but temporary. The reports received from the various lumber manufacturing and distributing points indicate a somewhat better feeling, and in one or two cases a decided improvement in the demand. On the other hand prices are still weak, and the desire of mill men to clean up their yards preparatory to the commencement of sawing induces some sacrificing, without which the market everywhere would be firmer. The retailer as well as the wholesaler is benefited by a steady and firm market, which is much preferable to a market vacillating such as the lumber market does at present. It is encouraging a habit of waiting and holding off, not only on the part of the retailer but also the large consumer.

NAILS.—Demand has irregular development and evidently not so much volume as hoped for. Operators incline to talk with considerable expression of confidence, especially regarding wire nails, but there are indications that in some cases a little stretch of imagination is indulged in and buyers do not allow themselves to be coaxed into investments beyond probable natural trade requirements. There has been no trouble obtaining all the supplies called for. We quote Cut at $1.00@1.10 per keg for car lots and $1.15@1.20 per keg for parcels from store for iron, and add 3c. per keg for steel; Wire, $1.10@1.15 for car lots, and $1.25@1.30 from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Changes are so light and unimportant, the market does not require much of a report. There seems to be some gain in trade as a reflection of the unusually early spells of spring weather, and demand from a few localities has also been increased by modification in rates of transportation. Still jobbers, manufacturers and importers all insist that the movement is not what it should be, even allowing for the times, and there is a very large grumblers' club in the market. Supplies and assortments continue ample and prices unsettled, although list rates are generally named on leads as a starting point for negotiations. Corroders' quotations stands as follows: Lead in oil in kegs and dry lead in kegs in lots of less than 500 lbs., 6½c. net; in lots of 500 lbs. to 5 tons at one purchase, 6c.; 5 tons to 12 tons, one purchase, 5.94c.; 12 tons and over, one purchase, 5¾c. Lead in oil in 12½ lb. tin pails, add 1c.; in 25 and 50 lb. tin pails, add ½c.; and in 1 to 5 lb. tin cans, assorted (100 lbs. in case) add 2½c. per lb. to keg price. Terms on lots of 500 lbs. and over, note or acceptance at sixty days, or 2½ per cent discount will be allowed for cash paid within fifteen days of invoice date. To make either of the above required quantities any assortment of packages of white lead, red lead and litharge may be counted. The above quotations are free on board cars or boat at corroding point. Linseed Oil of first-class quality remains about steady, but the more ordinary grades develop occasional irregularity, and of which alert buyers can secure some advantages. We quote at 48@49c. for Western, 52@53c. for City from domestic seed, and 58@60c. for do. from Calcutta seed. Spirits Turpentine remains in rather an easy position, and is fractionally lower, with indications that larger quantities could not be moved except on further shading. We quote at 31@31¼c. per gallon, according to quality, quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Demand has been somewhat irregular, but on the whole fuller in volume as a considerable portion of dependent custom desires a small addition to working assortments. First hand offerings are under very good control and held for steady rates. We quote Tar at $1.75@1.80 in pine or Wilmington bbls., $2.25@2.30 in pork bbls., and $3.25@3.30 in oil bbls.; Pitch $1.50@1.70.

THE effect of the veto of the Seigniorage Bill on the stock market has been very small. On its announcement there was some realizing and considerable short selling, but twenty-four hours showed both to have been misjudged, as the market closed quite strong, with the prospects in favor of still higher figures. The terms of the veto message, especially the intimation that the seigniorage might, under certain named conditions, be coined, justified an expectation of a fall in prices, but their influence was more than offset by the buying movement which set in at the close of last month and which had not expended itself. This buying is largely of bonds, in which March makes a better record than has been made by any one month for some time. The gilt-edged issues passed long ago out of the reach of the speculative buyers, and now with the improvement that is seen in general business and the lessening of the loss of earnings on the railroads, their attention is turned to the cheap bonds with the result that even the least esteemed of this class have appreciated in price. When activity in these securities is accompanied by rising quotations it is a distinct sign of returning confidence. If there is a weak point in the prospect it is that foreign buying has largely helped to bring about this result, and so long as our currency laws are a bundle of expedients maintained beyond the period of the emergency they were intended to meet, foreign buying of our own securities will be speculative only and our market liable to be disturbed and progress checked whenever foreigners stop to take profits. Business outside of the stock market, taken as a whole, is not quite as good as it was a week ago. The inclemency of the weather may have had something to do with this, and sunshine may bring with it better news. The reports of the results of the cold weather on the crops have to be sifted down so that it can be seen what damage has been done and meantime orders may be held back, but the ultimate opinion will probably be that damage should help prices, and what is lost in one way will be made up in another. The iron trade is not so active that a strike at Connellsville can do it much damage, provided it does not last very long. The shoe trade seems to be the brightest spot in the commercial prospect just now, for not only are factories busy but one in Philadelphia has voluntarily raised wages 25 per cent in one of its departments in consequence of the good business it is doing. In this, as in other lines, merchants have been doing business on a hand-to-mouth policy for a long time, but it is the first to experience the benefits of a change, and from now on similar results may be expected from other departments of business. The veto of the Seigniorage Bill raises a prospect that has a very important bearing on the movement of stocks, as well as of general business, and that is whether the increased antagonism it creates to the administration and administration measures may not end in the defeat of the Tariff Bill. In view of the already great opposition to this measure such a result is quite probable, and in its event, or even if there is anything like a general conviction that it will happen, the buying movement would receive large accessions of strength, especially in such securities as have been depressed because of the Tariff Bill, for instance, Sugar, National Lead, Cordage and others.

THE improvement in business in Great Britain has not yet affected the iron and steel trade as a whole. While there has been a demand for shipbuilding and engineering iron the total output for January and February was lower than in the same months of the previous three years. Even the shipbuilding interests have been dampened by the cancellation of orders for eighteen ships placed in the Clyde. The English strike statistics of 1893 contain the following interesting figures: Total persons involved, 602,668; successful, 390,854; partially successful, 134,864; unsuccessful, 68,934; result not known, 8,026. The report of the condition of the Bank of England while removing the suspicious circulated against it has only intensified the demand for the reform of its management; it is very properly contended that in the case of the agent for the Treasury and the custodian of the reserve of the country such an occurrence as that which brought about the dismissal of the late chief cashier should be made impossible. The French press has raised a vigorous protest against the proposal of the Egyptian government to reduce its interest payments by conversion; it cannot admit that what has recently been successfully done with a portion of the French debt can be done with the Egyptian. The tonnage passing through the Suez Canal continues to show an increase over that of corresponding periods of last year. France is increasing her imports of manufactures largely, while her exports in the same class show declines. Reports from Germany indicate the approach of a period of recovery in general business. The acceptance by the Reichstag of the commercial treaty with Russia failed to interest the Bourse, except to induce realizings. An official report states that there is a growing demand for silver coins in the German Empire. The Imperial Bank held of them, May 1, 1892, 96,045,000 marks, and on December 31, 1892, 84,353,000 marks; besides the amount of this decline 3,000,000 marks had been coined and added to the silver circulation. At the close of last December, to which date the silver circulation had been further increased by 8,000,000 marks, the silver stock of the Imperial Bank had declined to 82,720,000 marks. Branch offices of the Imperial Bank had asked for an increase of their silver stocks by 84,494,000 marks, of which only 9.1 per cent could be supplied. This demand is for the larger silver coins. Austria-Hungary proposes, too, to increase the amount of silver in circulation. The Austrian government has also under contemplation plans for extensive development of the railroad system of the Empire. The Brazilian government despite its difficulties made no default on its obligations in the last half year. As these sell on a basis of 7½ per cent on the investment, their holders naturally expect a rise in the quotations. But as Brazil, with a population of fifteen millions, mostly half breeds and Indians, has a national debt, including guarantees of about seven hundred and fifty millions of dollars, of which it is calculated England holds one-third, and moreover as factions there are many and their spirits very high, the country will have to prove itself equal to the financial burden it carries before its securities can appreciate or its credit be extended. According to Australian political economists the troubles of their country arose entirely from the iniquitous and reckless way in which money was loaned to it in London.

THE attention of our readers is particularly directed to the statement which our correspondent at Albany makes in another column concerning the fate of the Chamber of Commerce Rapid Transit measure should the public of this city continue to manifest a cold and imperturbable indifference as at present. A prominent real estate broker, who has just returned from a tour among other cities, said recently: "What strikes me very forcibly upon getting home to New York is the complete absence of the least public spirit. I have been living for several weeks in different cities in an atmosphere positively vibrating with public spirit. Each individual apparently has lively sympathy and concern for the advancement of the community in which he lives. The New Yorker, on the contrary, strikes one as dead indifferent to the city's welfare. There is no spontaneous co-operation. We are like a lot of prairie dogs, we have each got a hole and that and our own particular personal interests are all we have any concern for." This indeed seems to be the case, when at so critical a moment as the present, when such enormous public interests are at stake as in this matter of rapid transit, not a voice is raised, not a meeting has been held to support a measure, the failure of which must result in handing over the solution of the rapid transit problem to private individuals, who are little likely to give extreme consideration to public interests. If the Chamber of Commerce bill be killed rapid transit will be delayed, to say the least, another year. But of more consequence than delay will be the encouragement that defeat will give to politicians and private interests to push forward their schemes. The elevated roads will be emboldened to grab for such streets and avenues as may suit their dividend-making plans, quite irrespective of the general interests of the city. It is even not improbable, for such has already been hinted at, that effort will be made to secure favorable legislation concerning damages to real estate arising from the erection of new elevated structures. The politicians will work con amore with any such plan for the spoliation of the city, for their interests, as is the case with all private interests in dealing with rapid transit, are in a measure opposed to those of the city at large. If this should happen, real estate men will have no right to complain. They have not uttered a word to support the present bill which protects all the people's interests involved in rapid transit and secures ultimate ownership for the city of the most valuable franchise in the world. A community so indifferent as ours richly deserves to be exploited. The real estate interests are particularly delinquent. They have more at stake than any other body. Yet the Exchange has not moved a step either to support or condemn the Chamber of Commerce bill. Surely one way or the other it should be concerned. One might imagine rapid transit was some distant affair in which only the Sandwich Islanders are interested.

Private Property.—III.*

PRIVATE PROPERTY DEFINED.

By Richard T. Ely, University of Wisconsin.

THE careful treatment of private property requires us to discriminate between free goods and those goods which fall under the right of private property. Free goods are those which are not under control, but which are open to all for use and enjoyment. Free goods constantly change in number and importance and the tendency of advancing civilization is to confine them within narrower and narrower limits. The air and sunshine and great bodies of water are free goods still. The land was once in many parts of the world a free good, as well as the wild animals which found sustenance on the land. Wild fruits and herbs have very generally been regarded as free goods. The objects over which the right of private property extends are taken out of the mass of free goods and encroach steadily upon the latter. They are brought under the exclusive control of a person and this exclusive right we call property. If the control is vested in a private person then we have private property, but if in a public body then we have public property. What is essential in property is exclusiveness. If the property is public, then the exclusiveness has reference to other political units and to a determination of the use of the goods over which the right of public property extends, although the primary aim must be the promotion of the public welfare. We may define private property then as the exclusive right of a person to control an economic good, and public property as the right of a political unit (city, State, nation, &c.) to control an economic good. One legal writer defines property thus: "Property is the right and interest which a person has in land and chattels to the exclusion of others."

Goods over which the right of property is exercised have value and they must be capable of appropriation. If the air which is now free were capable of an appropriation exclusive in nature, it might, perhaps, become private property. It must be noticed as a characteristic of private property that it carries with it the right to control the actions of others with respect to the good in question, and this control is exercised with the assent and assistance of the State. To quote words found in Holland's "Jurisprudence:" "One attribute which is tacitly assumed throughout all discussions of economic goods is legal appropriability. This is the social relation characterized by the term, 'private rights of property,' and consists in the capacity residing in one man of controlling, with the assent and assistance of the State, the actions of others with respect to the economic good in question." This statement at once brings before us most important considerations. If we observe what is passing about us in society, we see men organized in such manner that the actions of some are controlled by others. One says to his fellows, "Come," and they come; "Go," and they go. Most men pass the larger portion of their lives in doing the bidding of others. This authority to command others, moreover, is not generally political, but is as a rule economic. Restrictions upon freedom of movement for the most part exist outside of government. We pass our lives in conformity with the will of others, but it is seldom that we do so because laws directly and immediately command us. Private property is the chief source of the authority exercised in society. The chief point at issue in Socialism is this: Will authority be more wisely exercised when it finds its seat in government than when it finds its seat in private property?

While private property is, however, exclusive in its nature, it is not absolute; it always has its limitations. Not only is private property not absolute, but it never has been and it never can be absolute, for an absolute right of property would result in the dissolution of society. Definitions of property found in celebrated codes of law carry with them limitations upon the right of the private person to control things which are his property, or these limitations are found elsewhere in the code. The Roman law definition of property is: "Jus utendi vel abutendi re." This means the right to use or to consume a thing; but it has often been erroneously translated, the right to use or abuse, that is to say, misuse a thing. This definition of the Roman law affords a strange illustration of the power of a single word, even when misunderstood. Some have supposed that the Roman law designed to carry with it the right to misuse a thing, and this has caused many subsequent erroneous conceptions of private property.

An important definition of property is that which is found in the great Prussian Code of the last century. The code defines the proprietor and consequently property. The code reads as follows: "The proprietor is that one who is competent directly himself, or indirectly through an agent, to exercise control over the substance of a thing or a right to the exclusion of others." We might suppose, if we stopped at this point, that no limitations were recognized by the great Prussian law-givers who framed this code; but reading on further we find the additional statement: "No one may misuse his property to the injury of others."

The Napoleonic Code, in Article 544, reads as follows: "Property is a right of using things and disposing of them in the most absolute manner." Should we stop at this point we would think that here at last we had found granted an absolute right; but, following the words "in the most absolute manner," we find this: "provided that one does not make a use prohibited by the laws or the ordinances." Now, of course, this second clause opens the way to restrictions without end to the right of control, because there is nothing which cannot be prohibited by the laws or ordinances. Laws and ordinances conceivably, indeed, might contain provisions virtually annihilating private property.

The truth is there are two sides to private property, namely, the individual side and the social side. The social side of private property is illustrated by many laws and institutions generally received. Two of the most important are the right of eminent domain and the right of taxation. If private property were absolute there could be no such thing as eminent domain. One may reply, "under the right of eminent domain compensation must be given for private property taken for public uses." It is unquestionably true that the laws and institutions in all modern nations provide for the indemnification of a private owner when his property is taken by public authority. But while this is so, the limitation upon the private right is none the less real, and this limitation represents the social side of private property. I have a piece of land which the State wishes. The State offers me a price for this piece of land. I reply: "I have no desire to sell this land; it belonged to my father and my grandfather before me and I am specially attached to it. I have never put it on the market and do not propose to do so; it is my desire that it should belong to my children after me. No money which can be paid me is an equivalent." This is well said, but the State gives no heed to my desires; and if I will not voluntarily turn over the land to the State the State takes possession of it by force. If this is not a limitation upon my exclusive right to control the land it would be difficult to conceive of anything which would amount to a restriction and limitation of my right of control.

The right of taxation may be variously viewed; but the current opinion that taxation is payment for services and thus justified is not one of the views which can be possibly maintained. All those laws which apply to payment for services fail to hold with reference to taxation. Payment for services is based upon private contract definite in its provisions. It is voluntary and not involuntary. The right of taxation is based upon no contract. To be sure, it is true that we have in times past heard much of the Social Contract and this has been brought forward in justification of taxation. But this social contract, of which so much has been said, is no contract at all. Any contract resembling its vague and indefinite provisions would not stand in a court of law for a moment, and, moreover, the social contract theory has been relegated to the great mass of exploded political doctrines. Services received by the citizen are forced upon him and the payment is likewise forced. There is nothing resembling bargaining in the transaction. Protection is afforded, it is said, to the owner of property; but the owner may accept the protection unwillingly. He may protest against the protection and proclaim that it is not real. He may declare: "I prefer to protect myself and my property; I am able to hire a sufficient force and I ask no aid in this matter from the public authority. All that I wish the State to do is to leave me alone." Arguments like this have, indeed, as a matter of fact, been advanced against the payment of taxes, but they have never been considered valid. Taxation in truth represents the social side of private property, and is a partial ownership on the part of the State. It diminishes by so much the value of property to the private owner. If a tax on a piece of land, for example, is $50 a year, that sum capitalized represents the reduction of the value of the land to the private owner. If the tax is removed the value of the property increases. Whatever else it may signify, taxation stands for and represents the social side of private property.

These rights restricting private property and representing the social side of private property are not to be viewed as something exceptional. Private property is not to be defined in such a manner that it implies an absolute right of the proprietor and then the rights of the public as something constituting an exception. These rights of the public are an essential part of the institution. The individual side and the social side of property exist together, and if either one is removed the right of private property must cease. The social side which limits the individual side is always present, and always must be present.

Legislation at Albany.

ALBANY, March 30.—Why does not the Chamber of Commerce push its rapid transid bill here? Neither Senator McMahon nor Assemblyman Sheffield, who introduced the measure, can do anything effective with it unless the members of the great commercial body mentioned agitate vigorously for the bill in New York, send committees here and generally disclose the fact to the members of the Legislature that public opinion in New York is behind the measure, as it is behind this or any genuine rapid transit measure.

There is need of speedy action by the Chamber of Commerce and others interested in the bill who live in New York, because the Legislature is beginning to think seriously of adjourning without day in three or four weeks. Last year the Legislature adjourned upon April 20th. It is probable that the session of this Legislature will last until April 27th, but that will leave less than four weeks in which to pass the bill. Delays are especially dangerous, because such a large number of bills accumulate upon a Legislature's hands that bills which are introduced late in the session are necessarily impeded in getting advanced by those earlier introduced, and which have the precedence. The opponents of the measure, of course, would take advantage of every device to delay action upon it; and one of their chief methods would be to insist upon bills being considered in their order of introduction. But with public opinion aroused in New York in favor of the bill, the leaders in the Legislature would find means of getting it to the front and of obtaining a vote upon it. That favor, however, must be palpably manifested.

It will be a great pity if the people of New York have to wait another year before any legislative step is taken to provide them with a true rapid transit road; and if the travelers by the elevated railroads, who alternately bless and curse that system of journeying about New York, did but know it they have a Legislature in Albany just now of exceptionally high character, one that would give them a rapid transit bill if it were pushed vigorously by the people of New York. More by accident than by design perhaps the present Legislature has a larger proportion of honest, able and patriotic men than for many years past. The political cyclone of last fall seems to have bowled over many a legislative bird of ill reputation and sent here a better breed of legislators—both Democrats and Republicans. This being the character of the Legislature, the citizens of New York who may push any rapid transit bill would have less to fear from the corruption of Senators and Assemblymen by the present elevated railroad corporation than they would ordinarily have to fear. Will this improved state of affairs in the Legislature continue next year? The writer fears not, for there will surely be a new Assembly, and changes are dangerous. Now there is "the accepted time" when a rapid transit bill should be pushed.

Assemblyman Lawson has undertaken a new line of work this week, namely, that of compelling the Department of Docks, of New York, if possible, to do most of its work by contract. He has introduced a bill to compel the Dock Commissioners to let out its work by contract. Mr. Lawson says that a large proportion of the Dock Department work goes to favorite contractors without any one having an opportunity to bid for it. There was an argument upon the bill before the Assembly Committee on Cities yesterday afternoon. Assistant Corporation Counsel Blandy opposed the bill as circumscribing the liberty of action of the Dock Commissioners, while E. W. Whittaker made an argument in its favor.

Mr. Lawson's bill, which is a short one, is given below, the matter in brackets, being old law, to be omitted:

"To amend Section 714 of Chapter 410 of the Laws of 1882 as amended by Chapter 567 of the Laws of 1887.

"Section 714. Construction of wharf structures, etc.—In executing the plan or plans mentioned in Section 712 the Department of Docks shall proceed according to said plan or plans to lay out, establish and construct wharves, piers, bulkheads, basins, docks or slips in the territory or district embraced in such plan or plans and in and upon or about the property owned by the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, without interfering with the property or rights of any other person, except so far as may be necessary to insure the safety and stability of the wharves, piers, bulkheads, basins or slips so to be constructed. And said department may commence and carry on such construction in sections of said territory or district, from time to time, so as not to seriously incommode the commerce of said city. The work of such construction under said plan or plans, [unless ordered to be otherwise performed by the affirmative votes of all the members of the board] shall be performed as follows: The said board shall prepare full and minute specifications for such work, and advertise for proposals for doing said work under said plan or plans, and according to such specifications; proposals therefor shall be signed by the bidders for said work and be sent to said board within the time specified in such advertisement, accompanied by a bond of the form set forth in said specifications, duly executed. The said board shall open said proposals on a day to be specified in such advertisement, and shall examine them, and shall award the contract for said work to the lowest responsible bidder complying with such plan or plans and specifications; such contract shall be executed by the said board on behalf of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and shall always contain provisions as to the time of commencing and completing said work, and for the retention of at least one-fourth of the contract price until the completion of the said work, as security for its performance and for the forfeiture of said contract for nonperformance of the terms thereof. Said board may, upon the forfeiture of any such contract, [proceed to complete the work thereunder without contract, or may] readvertise for proposals to complete said work and award a new contract therefor in the same manner as provided herein for awarding the original contract; but no bidder under this section shall be entitled to a contract until his bid shall be approved and accepted by said board.

"Sec. 2. This act shall take effect immediately."

There was quite a contest this week before the Committee on Cities on the bill increasing from $5,000 to $7,500 the salary of Superintendent Brady of the Building Department. Ex-Assemblyman Ellison appeared in behalf of the bill and argued that Mr. Brady was entitled to at least $7,500 a year, as he was an architect and a practical builder. Mr. Lawson opposed the bill on the ground that Mr. Brady was receiving a sufficient salary. The committee reported the bill favorably.

The Assembly ordered to a third reading, on Wednesday, Mr. Lawson's bill prohibiting the display of a foreign flag or emblem on a public building. This bill is intended to put an end to the demands for the display of the flags of foreign nations on certain days of the year.

Governor Flower this week signed a bill introduced by Assemblyman Herman, of New York, prohibiting the erection of bank buildings at a greater cost than 25 per cent of the surplus.

The Senate passed the present week Assemblyman Sheffield's bill authorizing the city of New York to expend $2,500,000 in the purchase of a site for and the erection of new buildings for the College of the City of New York. This bill has been opposed by Mayor Gilroy, on the ground that the city had better employ its spare cash in building new public schools rather than in building new college buildings. It is to be feared, therefore, that he will persuade Governor Flower to veto the act.

The Senate has passed Senator Cantor's bill extending the time of the Corlears Park bonds.

Senator Lexow's bill to abolish the present Board of Police Commissioners of New York and putting in its place a new Board of two Democrats and two Republicans was to have been considered in the Senate yesterday, but at the request of several Republican Senators who have been heretofore opposed to the bill a vote upon it was postponed until Tuesday next, they hinting that by that time they possibly might support it. Apparently these Senators will vote for it on Tuesday next and the bill will be passed. After its passage by the Senate the Assembly also will probably pass the measure. What will Governor Flower do with it? From present indications he will sign it, since Richard Croker is said to desire to have the Republican party assume half the responsibility for the management of that much-criticised department, the Department of Police of New York.

The Senate passed yesterday Senator Ahearn's bill authorizing an appropriation of $200,000 to complete Corlears Hook Park, New York City. Senator Guy's bill authorizing the repairing of Avenue A, Senator Ahearn's authorizing an appropriation of $50,000 a year for three years in New York City for fire hydrants, and Senator Ahearn's bill providing for the publication of notices of the purchase of land by the City of New York.

The Assembly passed yesterday by a practically unanimous vote Mr. Butt's bill, of so much interest to those who live north of the Harlem, providing for a continuous ride over both the Manhattan Elevated and the Suburban road for 5 cents. The Tammany Hall members can pass this bill in the Senate if they will.

Assemblyman Roche introduced a bill yesterday authorizing the issue of $50,000 in bonds by New York City to extend the parade ground at Van Cortlandt Park.

Assemblyman Trainor introduced a bill to-day providing that New York City police surgeons shall receive $3,000 salary yearly.

The Assembly has ordered to a third reading this week, after a long debate in which the Tammany Hall members opposed the bill, Mr. Sheffield's bill authorizing the Mayor of New York to appoint the heads of any departments in New York within sixty days after coming into office. The intent of this bill is to centre responsibility in the Mayor of New York.

Assemblyman Lawson has introduced a bill permitting the building of a railroad through West 110th street. There is a law forbidding the construction of a railway through this street.

The Senate has passed Assemblyman Sheffield's bill incorporating the Provident Loan Society of New York. This is the millionaire's pawnbroker society, limited.

How High Buildings May Injure Real Estate.

One of the many ways in which the erection of a high building can be injurious to adjacent property has just been brought to our attention. The case briefly is this: The occupant of a house on 44th street, between 6th avenue and Broadway, found himself the neighbor of a thirteen-story apartment house, the Gerard, and simultaneously his domestic comfort was rudely trespassed upon by the draught of the chimneys of his house being cut off. The instance was one in which the usual remedies could not be applied. Various experiments were tried, these even going to the extent, notwithstanding its unsightliness, of bringing the flue-pipes over the sidewalk and curving upward and outward, but without avail. The lessee of the Gerard, we are informed, admits the hardships of the case and extends his sympathy, but can do nothing more. The result is that the complaining occupant of the injured property has no alternative at present visible but to abandon it. There are no doubt many other similar instances of injury to property from a want of legal restriction of the heights of buildings according to the circumstances of the site and the at least tacit rights of the owners of contiguous property. We invite correspondence on this question, which is of such vital importance to property-owners in this city, and suggest that wherever possible it should be accompanied with practical illustrations of the effects of high buildings on other interests. A very little thought will show how property all over the city will be injured if high buildings can be erected any and everywhere with no other consideration than the pecuniary result to be produced out of one particular site and without any regard whatever to the rights and privileges of the owners or residents of the thoroughfare in which it is to be placed. If this is carried much farther people will naturally hesitate to make investment purchases in any locality where such a visitation is probable, and as a consequence values, hitherto of the most stable nature, will decline.

The University of the City of New York.

The plans of the University of the City of New York for removing the University College for Undergraduates to the up-town site beyond the Harlem River, are now in very practical shape. The plan for the new building which is to displace the old one on Washington square has been accepted and arrangements are being made to do very considerable work this summer on University Heights, as the region in which it has been decided to establish the Up-town University is called.

It is a good many years ago since the question of the advisability of moving the University farther up town was first brought up for discussion. It was always admitted that it would be a good thing for the University if it could make some investment use of the very valuable site it had on Washington square, and do its work on cheaper land; but there were advantages in its down-town position for doing the work it had to do, that could not be overlooked. "But," as Chancellor McCracken said in speaking of the matter to our representative, "we had no rooms with good ventilation or at all wholesome in which to lodge our School of Law and School of Pedagogy, they were badly ventilated, badly lit and badly everything." The solution of the difficulties of the case, which has since been adopted, was suggested in the report of Dr. McCracken, the Vice-Chancellor, to the Council of the University, in November, 1890, which was to build a commercial building, retaining in it accommodations for the work of the purely professional branches—the School of Law, the School of Pedagogy and the Graduate Division—and to carry the undergraduate work to an easily accessible and residence neighborhood.

A committee was appointed to carry this suggestion into effect, consisting of George Munro, David Banks, William Havemeyer, Francis A. Palmer and John H. Inman; the last two did not serve, though they have assisted the work in a substantial way. President of the Council, Charles Butler, and Vice-Chancellor McCracken were ex-officio members of the committee. It was proposed to raise half-a-million of dollars to meet the University's needs, including the purchase of from five to ten acres of land in the upper part of the city for a University Undergraduate College. Finally the H. W. T. Mali homestead, situate near 200th street and extending from Macomb's Dam road to the Harlem River, was purchased for $581,000, and is now all paid for excepting $120,000, which stands on mortgage. A hall was donated by Dr. William Allen Butler, and besides the gentlemen mentioned A. D. Juiliard, Chairman of the Building Committee, and the council and committees of the University have done earnest work. The names of the subscribers to the required fund, including individuals who have contributed from $100 to $25,000 and known as the "Founders of University Heights," form a list of about a hundred thoroughly representative New York people.

The new building to be erected on Washington square, from plans of Alfred Zucker, will be in classical style and consist of ten stories and basement and sub-basement, with a frontage of 180 feet on Washington square, and 100 feet each on Waverley place and Washington place. The building is to be strictly fire-proof, of stone, brick and terra cotta. The basement, first or store floor and six floors above will be occupied by the American Book Co., who have taken a twenty-five years' lease from May 1, 1895, when the building is to be completed. The top floor will be particularly adapted for the University and arranged with high ceilings, etc., specially for its purposes. The other two floors, so far as they are not used by the University, will be to rent, but only for such purposes as are in character with university work, for artists' studios, and anything in the educational line. A separate entrance for the three upper floors will be in Waverley place, entirely disconnected from the rest of the building, and having private stairs and two express elevators that will not stop until they reach the eighth floor. The details of the plans will soon be completed and bids taken. The estimated cost is from $600,000 to $700,000. It is expected that the first and perhaps the second floor of the new building will be inclosed by October next and the work of the School of Law, the School of Pedagogy and the Chancellor's office carried on there during the building. The accepted design was chosen from a number sent in from well-known architects, among them Mr. George B. Post and Messrs. McKim, Mead & White.

Out in the country the grounds have been laid out in some measure. University avenue on one side of the property has been graded at the University's own expense and connecting with Aqueduct avenue and Sedgwick avenue, and a proposed street that is to run into Cedar avenue. This summer it is proposed to erect, from plans now being prepared by McKim, Mead & White, on University Heights, four buildings, the library, the laboratory, the gymnasium, and the building to contain the steam apparatus, etc. In addition to this work the old Mali mansion standing on the grounds will be converted into the hall, which will contain some dormitories. Opposite the University gates and on either corner of Andrews avenue, Zeta Psi and the Psi U (Greek Fraternity Societies), have bought plots of ground, 100x100, and will erect houses in which students can room.

For a New Building Trades' Exchange.

Despite the hard times in the building trades the project for the organization of the builders and building tradesmen and the building of a new Exchange building has made such headway that the success of the enterprise seems assured. At a meeting held at the Building Trades' Club on Wednesday week, Secretary S. M. Wright, who is chief promoter of the enterprise, reported that the one hundredth subscription of $1,000 to the building enterprise had been reached, assuring a fund of $100,000 to start with. The subscribers were all responsible men, who had not signed their names without due consideration of the matter. Neither did they sign until they had assured themselves by due investigation of the probable success of the undertaking. Of the value of the main object to be achieved—the organization of the builders and building trades into a compact and influential body, that would dignify the profession and secure it the public recognition its importance among the industries deserves—they were also fully satisfied. The report was the subject of interested discussion which ended in the call of a meeting of the subscribers, to be held at the Building Trades' Club, No. 117 East 23d street, last Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Since the meeting above referred to the subscription list has received eleven more names, making the amount of subscriptions up to yesterday $111,000.

The Speedway Contract.

The Park Commissioners yesterday opened bids for building the second section of the Speedway. As there are thirty separate items in the bids which have to be tabulated before the lowest bidder can be ascertained no award could be immediately made. The bidders were: John J. Hopper, J. C. Rodgers, James D. Leary, Thomas Nevins & Son, Flynn & Ryan, Isaac A. Hopper and Broadhead & Hickey.

Personal.

Broker R. Westbrook Myers, of 195 Columbus avenue, who fell and broke his knee cap some ten weeks ago, has so far recovered as to be able to be at his office daily.

Messrs. Benton & Aarons have made Herman's Theatre one of the best "continuous" houses in the city by always providing an attractive and varied programme. Their latest improvement in this class of performance is in providing a full orchestra to take place of the piano.

William E. Uptegrove, of the National Mahogany Company, is at present in London and will return on the Campania, which leaves on April 9th, arriving here about April 15th.

Real Estate Market.

The auction market has been the centre of real estate activity this week, but even there the results have been of no very encouraging character. The offerings were chiefly job lots and under foreclosure, and the prices, except in two or three "protected" sales, ruled very low. Manifestly, the conditions of the market do not encourage voluntary sales at auction. On the other hand, the auction market offers every inducement for the attention of the intelligent, discriminating investor. As sales have gone thus far this spring, nearly every week has seen valuable property slaughtered. Two or three courageous operators have made profits of from $50,000 to $100,000 on single transactions. On smaller properties the opportunities are still better.

House rents, that should be at their best now and for the next two or three weeks, are flat. And house sales are scarcely better. The generally inclement weather has had something to do with this, and the large auction offerings something more; but when all excuses are made, the fact remains that the market is very dull for this season. Investors there are in large number, but they don't invest. The stock explanation is that there are no bargains. One of the largest of this class of operators was asked what definition he gave to the term "bargain." He said: "Well, a good piece of property that can be bought at something less than its intrinsic value." On the other hand, a seller's definition of the same term was, "Gold dollars at eighty cents apiece." This expresses the situation in the real estate market; the holder thinks his property is stiff as gold dollars, and the investor wants it only at twenty per cent off. In such difference he is a skillful broker who can bring seller and buyer together to consenting terms.

Two valuable corners are booked to be sold at auction next month pursuant to court orders. The first is the northeast corner of Liberty and Nassau streets, 12.8x71x13.7x70.4, belonging to the Manice estate. This small lot adjoins the Brooklyn Life building, and its sale will be watched with interest. It was sold at auction in October, 1856, for $36,100. Anticipating objections that no building of great height could be built thereon we give the dimensions of a lot on the northwest corner of Pine and William streets, 16.3x57.5, where a nine-story office building was erected by W. De F. Manice. The other plot to be offered is on the southeast corner of Grand and Allen streets, with a frontage of 64 on the former and 100 feet on the latter street, with an extra jog, 20x23.6 on the rear end. This corner forms part of Ridley's East Side Emporium, and the annual rental until 1902 is $14,824, taxes and water rates.

A GIGANTIC DOCK SCHEME.

At yesterday's meeting of the Sinking Fund Commission the Dock Board scheme for the improvement of the North River water front, from Charles to 23d street, was approved. De Lancey Nicoll, representing the Hoffman and Livingston estates and other owners, argued against the scheme as involving a large expenditure of city revenue at a time when rapid transit was the supreme public necessity. Mayor Gilroy excitedly declared that the rapid transit question had nothing to do with the case. The Commission agreed with him and authorized the work. This is the scheme which was defeated by Comptroller Myers last fall. The cost of the contemplated work is variously estimated at from $20,000,000 to $50,000,000. Mayor Gilroy says it will be done within the annual appropriation of $3,000,000.

Over one hundred and sixty leases of Sailors' Snug Harbor property in this city expire this year. The leases of this corporation are made for periods of twenty-one years. On Tuesday the trustees began to consider the terms upon which the expiring ones will be renewed. The most important properties of this estate lie along Broadway in the neighborhood of Astor place. It is said the rentals of some private residence lots were increased and that some improvements were decided upon.

Smyth & Ryan will offer, at absolute sale, in the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, on Tuesday next, a piece of ground on the southwest corner of West End avenue and 68th street, 100x100.5. As this land stands high and in a neighborhood which is being steadily built up with a good class of property and is ready for immediate improvement it should attract bidders at the sale. The same auctioneers will, on the same day and at the same place, offer at peremptory sale in one parcel an especially attractive piece of property, being the corner piece of ground on St. Nicholas and Edgecombe avenues, at their juncture with 155th street and directly opposite the southern end of the new Speedway now being built, and adjoining the new viaduct leading to the station at 8th avenue and 155th street. On the Edgecombe avenue side it looks into the new Colonial Park. Its large frontage of 319.10¼ feet and its admirable surroundings makes this site remarkably well suited for a public or semi-public building, a hotel, a club or an apartment house.

Richard V. Harnett & Co. make a number of announcements of auction sales of important pieces of property for the coming week. On Tuesday next they will offer at the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room, No. 59 Liberty street, No. 896 3d avenue, a five-story basement and cellar brick tenement, 25x62x95, situated 25.5 feet north of 54th street, consequently only a little more than a block away from an elevated railroad station. Liberal terms will be accorded to the buyer of this building. The block of which these two pieces of property form part is bounded by Broadway and Trade Notes.

AN UNTIMELY STRIKE.

A struggle for the control of some of the building trades' unions began yesterday morning with strikes on the Mutual Reserve and Manhattan Life buildings, and lock-outs on the Postal Telegraph and Home Life buildings. On Monday the Board of Walking Delegates demanded that two non-union wiremen be discharged from the Mutual Reserve building. When this was refused the Walking Delegates ordered all union men to strike. Most of them did, but the members of the Enterprise Association of Steam Fitters, the Brotherhood of Carpenters and the Elevator Constructors' Union repudiated the authority of the Board of Delegates and continued at work. Then the Walking Delegates demanded the discharge of the members of these organizations on the three other buildings named. Their demand was conceded on the Postal Telegraph and Home Life buildings and rejected on the Manhattan Life building. It is said that the plasterers, painters and marble workers have determined to repudiate the Board of Walking Delegates and join forces with the three independent unions above named, which are averse to strikes. If this is so the strike will doubtless be quickly ended.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

NEW YORK, March 29, 1894.

The mechanic's lien for $6,950.43 filed against us by John H. Deeves & Bro. on March 28, 1894, against premises 239 and 241 South 5th av, was filed because the owner denies the performance by the lienors of certain work sub-contracted by us to them and against which a large sum is held back by said owner. The lien was intended to preserve the rights of said lienors while the disputed question is being settled.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, MARCH 31, 1894.

Brooklyn's Street Franchises.

ANOTHER corporation has arisen to ask for the use, forever, of 100 miles of Brooklyn streets for trolley railroad purposes. There are, moreover, franchises enacted for as many more miles of trolley railroad that have not yet been built—franchises that were granted with prodigal liberality by the late lamented Board of Aldermen to themselves and their political pals, and to which Mayor Boody was an accessory after the fact.

It seems an appropriate occasion, in view of these facts, to direct attention to the subject of Brooklyn's public franchises, and to inquire whether it is not high time to conserve these for the benefit of the city, present and future. In the recent public discussion of the city's financial conditions the politicians who felt called upon to explain and apologize for them, made much of the fact that New York is rich in public franchises, of which Brooklyn is poorer than any other large city in the country.

But the explanation was disingenuous, and the people gave their verdict upon it by turning the explainers out of power. It was a notorious fact, which the efforts of the politicians to keep in the background only made more conspicuous, that they had been squandering particularly this class of the city's properties. That fact was one of the main points in the indictment against them. They had furthermore allowed the annual charges against one of the larger franchises to accumulate to the amount of several hundred thousands of dollars and then compounded with the company for a much smaller sum. (It would be well for the reform administration to inquire into this deal, and quiet or justify the suspicions of the people that it was effected by gross bribery and corruption.)

If Brooklyn is ever to have any considerable income from franchises it must be from privileges conferred to use the streets, and the chief of these is their use for railway purposes. Franchises of this class are very remunerative now and their value in the future must be immense. The city is growing rapidly in population and will continue to grow until the water confines are reached at the Narrows and the Atlantic, and then will continue to grow toward the east. All the vast population of the future will be tributary to the roads already in existence as well as those which are to come and will operate to swell their incomes unceasingly.

Why should such franchises be given to private corporations? Without the street privileges the corporations could have no practical existence. The use of the public highways is the property of chief value in the assets of all such corporations. Being of value to the private corporation it must be of at least equal value to the municipality. Franchises of this class are invariably interminable, under our usage, and are natural monopolies. In giving them to private corporations the public functionaries are giving away the estate of the people beyond recall. Even if a small percentage of the gross (in practice generally the net) receipts from the operation of the franchise is required, the effect of the contract is to give away something of value for nothing. Such franchises invariably take from the many to give to the few, and forever after make the many tributary to the few.

Brooklyn has but little of this class of property-of-the-people left to give away, and in this fact is a double reason for retaining what she has. The course of traffic converges toward the New York water front. Time may change this somewhat, but for very many years it will continue to be as it now is, and the establishment of traffic and transit lines in conformity with it will tend to keep it so. Nearly all the available thoroughfares tending toward that water front have already been given over to the street railroad companies. If for no other reason, then to be able at any desired time to counteract the habitual extortion of such monopolies, the city should retain all such avenues of approach to the water front as it now holds.

It is, furthermore, notorious that the corporations exercising these franchises contribute in but an insignificant proportion to the maintenance of the thoroughfares they use, or to the government that protects them, and yet they impose larger burdens of expense upon the municipality than any other class of persons or properties. The natural antipathy felt by all classes of people against such corporations, and which is overcome only by applying plasters of stock or bonds to the inflamed spot, is the expression of the intuitive protest against all such forms of tyranny and oppression. The citizen and taxpayer feels that as such he has a proprietary interest in the streets of his city; he feels that their invasion by a private corporation is an invasion of his rights, and that the insolence and extortion of any such corporation is an addition of insult to injury. This is because it is a private corporation, in whose welfare he has no direct interest. His property has been wrested from him by faithless public functionaries and given to a few men to give them existence as a corporation, and his money is daily taken from him to support and protect the corporation and give wealth to its owners. And this, he realizes, must go on forever—under our law.

When, as occasionally happens, the operatives of a street railway revolt against its acts of oppression, it is quick to call upon the government to give it police protection; more prolicemen are required for the protection of street railroad property and for the maintenance of order around and guarding of the street crossings about it than for any other purpose or for any other kind of property. Its tracks monopolize a large section of the thoroughfare, to the exclusion of common vehicles, thereby preventing the even and general use of the street surface, and forcing the wear of the pavement in ruts. This necessitates the relaying of the pavement at least twice as often as would otherwise be the case. In these two particulars alone the street railroads of this as of every other city require and receive more from the municipality than they ever pay for.

It is the assertion of ignorance that there is any form of private property, in reality, in such properties. People would never put their money into them if they did not feel satisfied beyond all doubt that they were going to get it out again with large profits. Large profits, be it understood; for no miserable little 6 or 7 per cent ever satisfies your investor in street railways. He must have a 5 per cent mortgage first, and then a bonus of stock of equal or greater amount. Thus, the people who pay the fares are the real builders and supporters of all such roads. Their property is taken to make a way for the road; they pay the interest on the bonds, the dividends on the shares, the high salaries of the executive officers, the pittances of the slavish operators, all the costs of maintenance and operation, and, if ever a sinking fund is provided, they ultimately pay the first cost of construction of the road.

Why, then, should they not own, construct and receive the benefits from these roads themselves? It is the stock objection to this argument that it is no part of the business of the municipality to conduct a railroad business; but that is the answer of blind, bigoted dogmatism where it is disinterested, and can never be the answer of an enlightened and humane person. Any public service that requires or involves the creation of a natural monopoly, like the exclusive use of the streets, is a proper function of municipal government—is an improper subject of private control and profit. The builders and operators of any such system of public service as the gas, water, electric and transit supply systems, the sewerage and public highway service, should be public servants, and the benefits of their service should accrue to the public.

But if it be argued, as it sometimes is, that there is too great inducement to fraud in public position in trusting the operation of street railroads to public officials, it may be answered that there are many practicable ways of overcoming this difficulty. The city may build and own the roads and lease their operation for long periods of years to private corporations, under fixed conditions regarding the hours of service, the rates of wages of operatives and the character of the service to be rendered to the public. Or, it may assume its franchise to be of equal value with the cost of construction of the road, and let that value be expressed in stock, the cost of construction being expressed in bonds, or other form of stock; then agree with the constructing company or firm to share equally the net profits of operation. Or, as under Mayor Hewitt's plan for rapid transit for New York City, it might contract with a company or firm to build the desired road, and to operate it for a term of years, the city to pay the cost of construction and the corporation to pay the city a percentage of the gross receipts sufficient to pay the interest on the cost of construction and to provide a sinking fund out of which the cost should be ultimately liquidated, the property to revert to the city at the end of the first term of leasehold and operation.

By any of these methods the property of the people would be preserved to them and Brooklyn would ultimately grow rich in the class of productive franchises, of which she is now so envious of the metropolis. Then the sentiments of the people regarding these systems would undergo a change; the sense of proprietorship in them would be their safeguard and police protection would not be needed. The people would not begrudge a little semblance of humanitarianism in the treatment of the operatives—living wages might be paid them and time enough allowed them out of the hours of labor to cultivate the social and intellectual graces, of which they stand so much in need.

That would be less costly than is the debasing and degrading system under which they are at present employed. The profits of either of these systems of municipal proprietorship might be applied in reduction of taxation, or the rates of fare might be so far reduced as to lighten that charge upon the resident of the city. In either way the benefits of the system would accrue to the whole people instead of to a favored few; settlement within the city would be encouraged and property would advance in value.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—Unfortunately the market for Common Hards has not been able to retain sustaining force, and rates are again off all around, with some irregularity and tendency to weakness at the close. Conditions noted were the result of pressure from the selling side. Of Haverstraws arrivals were comparatively light, and from Up River not as many as expected, but the transfer seemed to be that every load coming in here was for sale just as quickly as custom could be found, and on some lots the orders seemed to be to force an outlet, making the necessary concessions to secure prompt business. As result of such action it is understood that some of the very best Haverstraws have sold inside of $5, and that rate is now reported as extreme by most of the leading receivers, with other grades in proportion, some of the poorer Jerseys going very low. The general average run of quality on Hudson River stock has been good, unusually so for the season, and that has proven of some benefit by inducing dealers who had convenient and available storage room to take care of some of the offering which has constantly exceeded any present consuming ability of the position. Pales have not found many friends and patterned after hards in taking a downward turn, some sales going at $1.50 @ 1.75, although best goods are held a trifle higher. It is understood that manufacturers have been in conference endeavoring to fix a time for resuming work, but we were unable to learn that a decision had been reached.

CEMENT. Conditions in a general way remain much the same as last advised, and the market as a whole may be accounted an unusually dull one for this season of the year. There has, however, been some little increase of demand and further expansion is to be expected as the structures upon which work will commence are of a cement-consuming character. The Canadian operators seem to be getting a good share of attention and reports down to close of last week are in substance as follows:

"The cement market has been fairly active, there being a better demand on both local and Western account, consequently a fair amount of business has been transacted for this season of the year. The fine open weather which has prevailed helps matters considerably in this line, as it enables contractors to go ahead with outside work. The feature is the auction sale of 3,000 barrels on account of liquidation, and was bought for local account at $1.68 per barrel. Three other lots, which amounted in all to 1,800 barrels, was sold in the regular way on Western account at $2.05 to $2.15."

LATH.—All things considered, it has been a pretty steady sort of market and we find values again named at $2.10 for slab and $2 for round wood. Quite a number of the latter have come to hand but found comparatively prompt sale, and all the better quality was at once wanted, some receivers claiming they could have sold a greater amount if promptly available. Dealers, however, are not particularly anxious and handle only enough for present wants.

LIME.—Operators generally report nothing new and no change in price. Arrivals coastwise have been small, but quite as much as wanted in the face of limited demand, and the offerings of State stock as well as goods from West Virginia both of which have favor. Superficially the general market looks steady, and we shall on reports received from leading operators repeat the former line of quotations, but there is just a zephyr-like whisper floating around that something is under way that may result in breaking up or at least modifying the power of the Eastern combination.

LUMBER.—The present current of local business continues slow, indeed very slow compared with what is ordinarily found at this season of the year, and with what might fairly have been calculated upon under the influence of the remarkably early spring, had other conditions been normal. It is, however, useless to expect a healthy improvement in the general lumber trade any more than in other lines of business until the gigantic intellects now struggling with financial and commercial problems at the National Capitol extricate some sort of a solution from the tangled mass of suggestions, and put an end to the alleged legislation under way. Business men have pretty generally come to the conclusion that almost any decisive and final action on the part of Congress and the Senate, upon tariff and other measures over which they are wrangling, will be better than the perplexing course now pursued, because a base will be offered from which plans can be calculated. Until such result is attained trading in the great majority of cases cannot be expected to reach beyond the limits of most imperative necessity, nor is it proper to draw deductions regarding the chances of the future without keeping that feature constantly in view.

When matters do come about in healthy and vigorous shape, however, we still hold to the opinion that there is no market on the coast calculated to give all staple descriptions of lumber a better lift than the one embraced within this district. There is unquestionably going to be a considerable measure of disappointment to some of the ultra-sanguine in regard to the revival of actual consumption for both building and manufacturing purposes, but just as soon as dealers muster up the necessary courage to open up demand their wants will be found liberal, both as to quantity and assortment, even though they do nothing but secure a balance to the great draft they have been making upon their reserve stocks. How soon such development will act as a stimulus to values it would be unsafe to predict, as much depends upon the manner a revival in demand is met. Thus far the offerings have, with one or two exceptions, been carefully and moderately made, but there are some evidences that the certainty of securing custom would draw out a larger line of sellers and possibly a competitive struggle to secure a place for goods under which buyers must retain advantage for some time.

We have already had occasion to record a serious break on Eastern Spruce under the somewhat sudden appearance of a large offering of random stock, and although the market has since swung back into somewhat better form, it is by no means solid as yet, and receivers are not anxiously looking for additional arrivals. There is also considerable demoralization on West Virginia Spruce timber, at prices away off from those asked only two or three months ago, and instead of $16.50@18 it is said that $14.00 will buy anything up to 20-foot stuff and $15@16 gets 24 to 25 feet sticks, sellers being willing to take almost any order as to dimensions, and ready to contract for half car load up to an entire train if called for, the desire to secure custom ruling paramount. Even upon the favorable terms noted, however, there is less demand attracted than might be expected, which is somewhat singular if the yard rates are sustained as generally claimed. Those rates range at $19@21, and form a fine margin to retailers apparently, yet there are whispers floating upon the spring breezes that means are found to throw a great deal of advantage into the hands of desirable custom. Regulation prices, it is said, are charged all right enough, but as there is no restrictive agreement upon rates for other kinds of stuff, dealers can throw in enough hemlock, yellow pine or whatever else they may have, suited to wants of customers at a nominal figure or give it away entirely and by that means materially reduce the cost of spruce. Even more open evasion, however, has of late taken place on bids for about one million feet for public work. As the story goes, several dealers and one of some prominence in particular went down to the "organ" repository and wanted to know, "don't cher know, whether a fellow couldn't, ah, just take off a little discount in view of the size and public character of contract, my deah boy." He and others were informed that absolutely no shading would be allowed, and immediately thereafter an undated circular lacking official signature was sent around to the trade stating that Association rates must be rigidly adhered to. When the bids were opened, however, one house that had not bothered itself in asking questions was found to have made a tender at a slight percentage off and got the contract. Then there was a howl and threats of all sorts of penalties to be visited on the offending firm, but as the concern happens to be a big one and feel in an independent mood enough to express thorough confidence in ability to manage its own affairs it is not likely to worry greatly. Furthermore there are others intimating they are ready to follow the same course if opportunity offers, and altogether the dealers' combination looks a little shaky at the moment.

Other descriptions of stock present no salient features at the moment. White pine is slow of sale in a wholesale way although a few contracts are understood to have been made for coarser grades and exporters have been favored with inquiries of a tentative character that inspires them with hope of some addition to foreign trade at an early date. Yellow pine is counted as having a steady position, with some tendency toward an increase of strength. Carolina pine and hemlock remain without unusual features and cost about former rates it is said.

Hardwoods are practically in the same quiet and nominal position as for weeks past. Now and then some odd orders are picked up, but buyers generally seem to be as careful and indifferent as ever and confine investments to positive necessities. Offerings are a trifle more plentiful, not altogether from old sources but in consequence of an increasing attendance of agents, and, as that suggests competition, values cannot be said to have gained support.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

From the Northwestern Lumberman we glean the following:

The call in the eastern cities is mainly for cheap inch lumber, and several sales of considerable lots of western product to go eastward have recently been made. In the Saginaw valley the wholesale yard trade is reviving, and dealers and consumers there are making some effort to secure stocks, while prices remain at a low range. Lake freight rates from Lake Superior promise to rule moderate, which tends to induce eastern dealers to buy in the Ashland and Duluth districts, though few sales in those regions have as yet been reported. It is said that charters have been made from Ashland to Tonawanda or Buffalo at $1.75 a thousand.

An attempt was made in several of the logging districts to prolong operations after the general thaw and breakup early in March, but comparatively little was accomplished, and a total abandonment of hauling to bank on ice roads resulted about March 15th. It is variously estimated that the early suspension of work in the woods has curtailed the intended input of logs from 10 to 20 per cent, which estimate, of course, pertains to localities depending wholly on teams instead of partly on railways. It is insisted by manufacturers that this shortening of the log crop must have the effect to strengthen the market for lumber before the end of the year is reached.

It is evident that the Eastern markets are powerfully pulling for Green Bay lumber, and that the quanity of product to come from that district to this and other markets will steadily diminish. Thus is the scramble for white pine becoming intensified, and the time is hastening when the last fight for supremacy in the markets will take place far to the westward of the old centre of supply.

At Chicago the premonitory symptoms of revival of cargo trade are shown in the fact that two or three large loads have already arrived, and several charters have been made to bring in lumber at a future date. Two tows to go to Lake Superior have been chartered. Several sales of Manistee short piece stuff, cross piled since last fall, have been made at $10.50 a thousand, and that is what short dry piece stuff is being held at across the lake. The yard men are making rather more inquiry than a short time ago, but they are manifesting no special appetite for lumber. There is some inquiry about shingles, but no sales are reported.

At the yards, there is a general shortage of long wide joists, including those 3 inches thick. There is an especial lack of 28 and 30-foot joists. Prices on such lumber have advanced $1 or more. Local building causes an urgent call for 2x12—22, but it is said that the demand for 2x10 of that length is light. Short 2x6 is of slow sale at weak prices, and short 2x8 and 2x10 are not doing much better. Short piece stuff of the sizes named are most in demand for the country trade. Since that is less urgent than usual the result is seen in the demand. Eighteen and 20-foot stuff is also somewhat neglected.

Stock width boards, especially 12-inch, are good property. Thick selects are moving fairly at firm prices as a rule, though there are different reports on that point. Good strips would be in better local demand if it were not for the competition of excessively cheap yellow pine.

Demand for poplar is steadily improving. There has been a large increase in the number of orders received, and these inquiries are not feelers, but from the people who want the lumber. Prices are firmer. Nearly all the stock at the smaller mills has been picked up, and it is much harder for buyers to get concessions on round lots than it was a month or two ago. Logs are again beginning to be scarce at the mills. The supplies received on February tides were not as large as had been expected, and several of the larger mills have been compelled to shut down. There are plenty of logs in the streams, but very little water to bring them out.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

Up in the Northwest the white pine logging season is practically at an end, being from several weeks to a month shorter than usual. In the far north there is some snow left and work on a small scale is being carried on, but the season is over and loggers are waiting for the opening of the streams and rivers to commence the drives. The snow melted away so gradually that it has not left a surplus of water in the natural reservoirs and there is fear that trouble will be experienced in driving unless there is a heavy rainfall this spring. The local rains of the present week have encouraged lumbermen, and it is hoped that they have been general in extent.

Although the logging season was short and the white pine input will be less than last year's, at the same time the result will be beneficial to the trade. There are usually reports of a short log crop every spring without much foundation, but this year they are true owing to the fact that a curtailment was planned on the start and the season was cut short.

At the head of the lakes an unusual state of affairs presents itself this spring. But little lumber has been contracted for, for eastern delivery, as yet, although a few weeks ago there was a little spurt in this direction. Some remains over on the

THE underlying cause of the strength and advance in the stock market is undoubtedly the growing prospect of the defeat of the Wilson Tariff Bill in the Senate, if not by direct negative vote at least by some piece of parliamentary tactics, or by additions that will render the measure unacceptable to the House, or throw it into the way of a sure veto. If the Democratic party managers were blind to the warning they received in the elections of last fall, it need not follow that the Senate is of equally dim vision or will pay as little regard to the significance of the utterance of Rhode Island and other places that have favored the Republican candidates this week. In fact the Capitol has all along been the farthest point north at which any interference with trade conditions has been desired since the financial disturbances of last summer, and the impression is now every day growing stronger that even that point is beginning to understand or is being taught that the wishes of the country ought to have some weight in deciding whether a tariff measure is now timely or not, notwithstanding a thousand Chicago platforms and any amount of party managerial obstinacy. With the signs that Congress is at last becoming susceptible to reason and the conviction growing that there will be no interference with the tariff this year at any rate it is not surprising that the Industrials have led the recent advance; as that conviction becomes stronger they will advance further. The recent decision of Judge Gibbons in the Whiskey Trust case under ordinary circumstances and in times of high prices would have been a serious set-back to these stocks because the principle there laid down might be extended to every one in this class. The decision of Judge Caldwell in the Union Pacific labor case, arbitrary as it may appear to be, is more generally considered as likely to create so good an impression in labor circles as to make the settlement of wage disputes more easy. While Wall street is buoyed up under the influence already referred to and the great accumulations of idle money, general business shows no greater improvement than was recorded some weeks ago and unfortunately the lateness of the season does not encourage the idea that it can show any considerably greater activity for some time to come.

AS the English governmental year draws to a close it becomes apparent that the deficiency of receipts will not be more than $7,000,000 instead of $10,000,000, the estimate of sixty days ago. The Chancellor of the Exchequer will, however, have to provide not only for that deficiency, but also for about $21,000,000 estimated increase of expenditures for 1894-5. The government shares in the Suez Canal will begin to draw regular dividends this year, which at the rate of last year, 20 per cent, will create an income of more than $3,500,000, already pledged, however, for the redemption of a loan. Reports of railroad earnings are not discouraging. In India, too, the deficiency for the year will be less than was anticipated, and if railroad earnings have any value as an indication of the condition of trade, matters are not so bad in that country as we have been led to believe. The railroad revenue last year increased by about $3,000,000. Advices from Germany are that the opinion that general business will improve has not been so widespread and intense for fifteen years as now. This opinion gives strength to the values of shares of manufacturing companies, and is supported by reports from the iron, coal and building trades, in all of which there is renewed activity. The French government is endeavoring to bring its colonial affairs more to the front, which affairs are thought to be of sufficient importance to justify the creation of a ministry for the colonies with a seat in the cabinet. Hitherto this department has been an adjunct of some other ministry, generally the Marine. This policy is calculated to have a direct and beneficial influence on French trade. From 1876 to 1893 the commerce between France and Italy fell off $115,000,000, shared between them at $57,500,000 and $55,500,000 respectively. These losses, while attributed wholly to the disturbed commercial relations between the two countries, were partly due to the same causes that have diminished the trade of the whole world. It being probable that the Italian Minister of Finance will be able to carry through his proposals to meet the pecuniary difficulties of the country, Italian securities have advanced in the foreign markets and commercial relations with that country give promise of improvement. The fall of Don German Gamazo, the Spanish Finance Minister, is a blow to good government in Spain. His policy of compelling retrenchments in all departments from the throne downward and his insistance on an honest collection of taxes without regard to political affiliations promised more for the finances and political morality of the country than that of any minister of recent years. South American affairs are the least assuring of any, though, in the present low condition of the business of the world it must not be supposed that interruptions to trade and defaults can have as far-reaching effects as they had a few years ago.

SO far as we can see, the annual spring opening of the rapid transit farce at Albany is drawing to a close. The threads of the somewhat complex plot of the play this year are gathering together and now it is apparent that we shall have to witness at the close the old, stale, unprofitable termination on which the curtain has fallen year after year for many years. The entire business is a sickening exhibition of popular imbecility. From any point of view it is that. Surely if New Yorkers wish to retain their reputation for common sense they should either cease to deplore their sufferings on account of inadequate rapid transit or they should do something. We know what we have to choose from. All the pother in the world will neither add nor subtract from what is offered to us. We can either extend the present elevated system, or build new elevated roads or run trains through the block upon arches or around the city water front, or we can build underground. Moreover, we can commit the work either into the hands of private enterprise, or turn it over to the city authorities, or adopt a middle course upon the line proposed in the Chamber of Commerce bill. With the foregoing we exhaust the category of possibilities unless we can have some aerial road with flying machines. Why, then, if the city needs rapid transit, if people really object to be packed like a parcel of hogs on the top of one another, breathing and puffing each other's breath, for a space of time, no matter how short, that should be enough to sicken decency, why don't we make some decision, even if it be only the hopeless decision that the Fates are against us and nothing desirable can be done. Why beat the air any longer? Why not pack off the Steinway Commission to private usefulness; cease agitating ourselves and "ring the bell," as the phrase goes, upon anybody who mentions Rapid Transit. This would be logical, intelligible; but to keep on talking, to pursue an interminable discussion without ever moving an inch towards a decision, to appoint commissions for the purpose of exhibiting the impotency of a few individuals, to prepare bills and elaborate schemes which we will neither support nor treat with hostility, surely this is to make for Rapid Transit through Bloomingdale. But the action the city won't take, others will. As our correspondent elsewhere says, the schemers are already at work at Albany, and there is no manner of doubt the city is fated to be sold out, lock, stock and barrel. It will serve us right if our streets are invaded by elevated structures, if our avenues are bespoiled and franchises of enormous value frittered away for the traditional song. Real Estate owners particularly will suffer from this. Their rights will be invaded, and then, perhaps, we shall have a wonderful awakening and protesting and petitioning which will be as futile as the hubbub that was made when the elevated roads were built through the narrow streets down town. Public opinion that will not assert itself intelligently and at the proper time deserves to be trampled on.

SENATOR CANTOR has put forth a bill at Albany, this week, prohibiting in New York City the erection of a stable within 100 feet of a church. The bill should be passed. But what the Legislature should do is to proceed to formulate a comprehensive system of regulations for the protection of localities against similar nuisances. Not only does there exist to-day a set of thugs who gain a piratical living by purchasing lots contiguous to fine residences and then threatening the alarmed property-holders with the erection of stables or factories unless they stand and deliver, but there is also a scarcely less reprehensible class composed of wealthy citizens who manifest an exasperating indifference to the comfort, and, if one may say so, extra-legal rights of others. A notorious example of this lack of social amenity is furnished in the case of John Jacob Astor, with his stable on 65th street and Madison avenue. This gentleman apparently has determined to build upon the spot he has chosen despite the requests, protests and even the financial offers of persons living in the neighborhood, including the officers of the adjacent church. There are surely plenty of lots in the city where a millionaire like Mr. Astor can build without causing great inconvenience, annoyance and loss to his neighbors. It can make no difference to him whether his coachmen has to drive a block more or less north, south, east or west. The telephone carrying his orders would reach one street quite as speedily as another. The determination to build at all hazards, though trespassing upon the comforts of others, is an exhibition of arrogance which may suit the character of a bloated millionaire, but hardly that of a courteous gentleman. There is no law, at present, that deals with a case like that furnished by Mr. Astor's conduct, but neither is there a statute prohibiting any vulgar disregard of the comforts of others, be it in a drawing-room, street car, or public thoroughfare. We have to reply for safety in these places upon the common decency of people, and it is this common decency which should protect the community from offenders of Mr. Astor's stamp. As to the thugs and pirates with their blackmail, their case demands the police.

Private Property.—IV.*

By Richard T. Ely, University of Wisconsin.

PRIVATE PROPERTY IS ESTABLISHED AND MAINTAINED FOR SOCIAL PURPOSES.

IF private property exists for the sake of the individual and of society equally, it is not clear what must be done in case of a conflict between society and individual interests. Plainly, either the individual or society must yield, and which shall it be? This brings us to the next step in the development of our line of reasoning, which is—and it is unhesitatingly asserted—that private property is established and maintained for social purposes. The reference is not to its historical origin, but to the idea of the institution. Private property can historically be frequently traced to fraud and violence; but it has been able to maintain itself on account of the general belief that it promotes the welfare of society. Even its historical establishment in newer countries is to some considerable extent the result of this belief generally held.

The actual facts, present and historical, of our social life furnish abundant proof of this statement. Let us begin with the simplest illustration, namely, that afforded by landed property in the United States. This landed property, now for the most part private, was once for the most part public property. It was our public domain. Why was it made private property, and why do the United States and our various commonwealths still continue to transform public into private property? There can be no doubt in regard to the reason. It has been and still is believed by the vast majority of Americans that private property in land promotes more effectively the public interests than public property. One has only to read the debates and discussions upon the subject of the public domain to be convinced that this thought underlies the legislation which has brought about the change named. The hypothesis that public ownership is less beneficial to society than private ownership has of late been called in question. But undoubtedly the vast majority of Americans still accept it as true. Should a different view of the workings of private property in land come to prevail we would witness changes. As a matter of fact, the discussions concerning landed property which have been going on for a generation or more have produced slight changes in this country and still greater changes in other countries. If the general opinion in this country has not undergone a change, it is at least inclined to favor a slower transformation of public into private property in land. Many are beginning to feel that with respect to the public domain we may have moved too hastily. This explains legislation and constitutional provisions in the Northwest which are calculated to make the sale of public lands, especially school lands, a slower process. Provision is found in this part of the country that school lands must not be sold until they reach a certain price, but that they may in the meantime be leased. In many instances, this price is considerably beyond the market price of lands and is calculated to produce delay. In Australia and New Zealand, the change in public opinion with respect to land has been still more marked, and is resulting in a general policy which favors leases rather than sales of the public domain. Germany began to sell her landed property some forty or fifty years ago, and this action was due to the influence of the English school of economists; but owing again to changed opinion, a halt was called and it is probable that recently the German states and cities have bought more land than they have sold.

Still more important is the line of argument adduced in defense of private property when it is attacked as a whole, or when any particluar sort of private property is called in question. No one under such circumstances seems to find any other argument of value than the public welfare. Let one take up the discussions concerning the proposals of Mr. Henry George to take the value out of private property in land by taxation and thus practically to transform it into public property. The opponents of Mr. Henry George all attempt to show that this would not promote the general welfare but on the contrary would be productive of great injury to society. As a rule they tacitly assume that the ultimate decision must be based entirely upon the influence of private property in land upon the general welfare. It is assumed, by implication at least, that private property is established for social purposes. Mr. Henry George and his followers, on the other hand, of course, attempt to show that what they propose is socially beneficial. Socialism proposes to go still further in the substitution of public for private property, as we have seen. It maintains that the public welfare demands that all the material instruments of production should belong to the people as a whole, and not to private owners. Those who defend the existing order, on the other hand, virtually admit that socialism must come with all that it implies if it will benefit society as a whole. They claim, however, that the change will produce social harm, and they attempt by their arguments to refute the claims of socialism precisely on this account.

But the laws and institutions of the present day certainly assert the superiority of the claims of society over those of the individual with respect to private property. Whenever the conflict of interests is clearly perceived, the individual has to yield his claims. The right of eminent domain has already been noticed. Sanitary laws are equally unmistakable in their implication. Sanitary disinfection and quarantine regulations may be especially noticed. The laws passed to prevent cruelty to animals assert the superior claim of society. "May I not do what I will with my own horse?" Society asserts: "No; if what you will is regarded by us as cruel, we will punish you for doing what you will with your own." It cannot be urged in reply that this is only a manner of regulation of the use, for the principle once admitted no other limitation to private use than that found in the social welfare can be in the end maintained. The regulations regarding marriage, which very generally influence private property, serve as a further illustration. These regulations are designed to benefit an important class in society and are held to benefit society as a whole. It is frequently asserted that the right to do what I will with mine own proceeds from the right to my own person. But attention has been well called to the fact that I may not do what I will with my own person. Society asserts a superior claim over me. The laws restrain me, in so far as they are able to do so, in attempts to take my own life, and make an unsuccessful attempt a criminal offense. But while I may not take my own life, I must yield up my own life for my country when the laws command me to do so. If this does not reduce to an absurdity the claim that I may do what I will with my own, it is difficult to imagine any provision which would make this claim absurd.

It is strange how little attention has been given to what may be termed the philosophy of law, or what was called by the great French writer, Montesqieu, the "Spirit of the Laws." English and American text books are particularly defective in this respect, although here and there we may trace an improvement in recent years. One of the greatest jurists of the century, Professor Rudolf von Ihering, has, however, attempted to go down below the surface phenomena into the underlying causes. Perhaps he is best known as an authority on Roman Law and he has written a book called "The Spirit of the Roman Law." But still more interesting to the social philosopher is his work called "The Purpose of the Law." His examination of private property has brought him to conclusions identical with those which are here elaborated. He uses these emphatic words in the discussion of property in the last named work: "It is therefore not true that property, according to its idea, carries with it an absolute right of control. Property in such a form cannot be tolerated by society and never has been tolerated. The idea of property cannot carry with it anything which is contrary to the idea of society."

This theory of property, which has been elaborated in the present article, and to which the other articles in this series have led up, is called the social theory of property.

THE controversy between the American Institute of Architects and the Secretary of the Treasury has come to an abrupt and unpleasant termination in the refusal of Mr. Carlisle to hold any further correspondence with Mr. Burnham "on this or any other subject." As a matter of official etiquette, the Secretary is right enough. No head of a department can expect to bear being told that his objections to the enforcement of a law are frivolous, and that the law is unworkable only because he refuses to put it into operation. Probably Mr. Burnham intended to close the correspondence by freeing his mind. It is related that the late Jeremiah Black, before he delivered his famous philippic against the electoral commission, told his associates that as they were sure to be beaten he could do the cause no harm by saying his say. That is also true of Mr. Burnham. The larger moral is that there is no use in passing laws, at all events merely permissive laws, that are in advance of popular appreciation and intelligence. There is no doubt that the law relating to competitions for the public buildings, even as it was passed last year, and much more as it was introduced, if it had been enforced would have raised the standard of our public architecture. That the standard needs raising is so clear to Mr. Burnham and his associates that they think it must be equally clear to everybody else, and that whoever obstructs the execution of the law, or refuses to execute it, must be actuated by interested or otherwise unworthy motives. But this is not the case at all. Congress may goodnaturedly pass a law for the architects, "because of their importunity," but Congress does not care a straw about the subject. So far as members of Congress think about the matter at all, they think that the government architecture is very satisfactory. Otherwise Congress would have made a change of its own motion. Doubtless Mr. Carlisle thinks it is very satisfactory, or he would have put the law in operation of his own motion. Certainly he would have chosen for the place of Supervising Architect the best man he could get to take the place. That the state of the public architecture is so bad as to constitute a national disgrace is vividly perceived by architects and persons intelligently interested in architecture, but it is so far from being perceived by the persons appointed to make and administer the laws that these persons have not the faintest notion of the truth. When any question that involves culture gets into Congress, such as international copyright (which involves moral culture as well as intellectual), as the free admission of works of science and art, or as the government architecture, it is seen how very far the politicians are below even a very moderate standard of civilization.

Western Union and Its Competitors.

PERIODICALLY there arises a doubt whether Western Union can protect its business against competition so as to retain the investment value of its stock. Hitherto this doubt has proved to be baseless, but it has recently arisen again with greater force than ever as a result of the rapid growth of its rival the Postal Telegraph and of the enormous development of the telephonic system. There are many people who imagine they see telegraphy wholly superseded by telephony in the not very distant future, especially as a result of the success of the long distance telephone. The case as made out against the Western Union Co. now is this: That it will show declining revenues for a long time, and that the price of the stock will suffer accordingly. Stockholders always refuse to recognize at first when a turn has taken place in the affairs of a Company in which they are interested. But that the Western Union has come to this is the opinion of longheaded speculators, who are paying a big daily premium for the use of the stock to sell short. Holders are fooling themselves into the belief that the bad returns made for the last quarter and the quarter before have to do with the slackness in general trade, but the fact is, it relates to a transition state in telegraphy and its use caused by business adapting itself to the telephone which now reaches many of the large cities and also to the steadily growing business of the Postal Telegraph Co. with its more modern equipment and quick service. The pool-room business also, which formerly brought in an income equal to 1 per cent per annum, or say $1,000,000, to the Western Union, is dead beyond resuscitation, and the current quarter which showed earnings of about ¾ per cent on Western Union's capital of $100,000,000, instead of being exceptional as stockholders are hoping will prove in all probability to be a better showing than the three remaining quarters of the current year.

Over-capitalized, and with an antiquated plant, the management nas a serious task ahead to earn the large sum required to pay on guaranteed stocks, and interest on bonds, and have something over to divide among stockholders. The popular notion that it is a safe investment stock for small savings is erroneous.

Such is the case in favor of a decline in quoted values. While it is not possible to say to what length the development of the telephone will go in the next ten or a dozen years, a good many considerations arise to reassure the holder of telegraph securities. There are difficulties about the use of the telephone which do not present themselves in the telegraph. In the first place it requires two people to be always at the wire, one at each end; any two persons are always connected by the telegraph. Before this one and main difficulty can be overcome many millions of dollars must be expended in wires and poles and other requisites of a telephonic service, and the investment of large amounts of capital is always a question of time. The use of the telephone in connecting branch offices and factories and different cities may be said to have taken away a great deal of business that would have gone to the telegraph companies, but it is more probably only the increase of facilities for carrying on business absolutely necessary in a country that grows as rapidly as this does. It is very crude thinking to suppose that any new facility means the abandonment of the old, the contrary being rather the case, the new increasing the uses of the old.

The situation of these services to-day appears to be this: The chief Bell patents having expired the prospect of many other telephone companies entering the field for the manufacture and supply of telephones and the building of independent lines by private individuals has increased. The Western Union Company and the Bell Telephone Company have a contract which expires in 1896, under which each company respects the other's field of labor. The Western Union and the Postal Telegraph Company have an agreement to charge equal rates to competitive points. The Bell Telephone Company has applied to the Massachusett's legislature for authority to increase its capital from $20,000,000 to $50,000,000. With this power obtained it is likely to be more than a match for any new competitor in its own line. Should it enter the field of the telegraph companies, their splendid equipment in poles, wires, stations and working forces, the unprotected condition of the telephone apparatus by patent as well as the adaptability of the telegraph equipment to telephonic purposes would, in view of the reprisals that could easily be made, make such an experiment dangerous. The high dividends and premiums of the telephone stocks would be imperiled by a conflict. The simultaneous growth of these two services tends to confirm the supposition that they are equally necessary to the commerce of the country. The telephone service is as much the competitor of the Postal as of the Western Union. From January 1, 1886, to January 1, 1893, the Bell Telephone Company increased its total length of wire from 114,046 miles to 307,791 miles. In 1886 the Western Union had 489,607 miles of wire, and in 1893 769,201 miles. The Postal Telegraph Company has now 145,000 miles of wire, almost all created since 1886. The proportionate increase shows that the necessity for new telephone lines is greater than that for new telegraph lines, but when it is remembered how the former are concentrated in cities, it will be seen that the area covered is immensely in favor of the telegraph wires. The relative cost of the uses of these two services also shows that from the economic view the telephone has much to overcome. Five minutes' use (the minimum allowed) of the long distance telephone to places between this city and Chicago costs from 35 cents to $9, the former being the charge for Yonkers and the latter that for Chicago; the telegraph rates for ten words are 20 cents and 40 cents respectively. With such a disparity in cost it is obvious that the need for direct communication must be very great when the telephone has the preference over the telegraph, by which eleven written messages can pass each way between New York and Chicago for the price of five minutes' conversation on the telephone. Undoubtedly the direct conversation has advantages over communications passing through several hands; so has a carriage and pair over the street car, but the latter will always, for obvious reasons, be the most popular means of travel.

In regard to the opposition offered to the Western Union by the rival company it has not yet developed into dangerous proportions. Creditable as has been the growth of the Postal Telegraph system it has not grown as rapidly as the older one. In 1886 the Postal Telegraph system consisted of a line over the Canadian Pacific and down through Washington and Oregon to San Francisco and one to Chicago; since then it has reached out to Denver, to New Orleans (whither it has now two routes) and many other important places, and this summer it will complete its southern route to San Francisco along the line of the Atchison railroad. But with all this it has only 35,000 miles of route compared with 189,936 miles of the Western Union; 145,000 miles of wire compared with 769,201 and 3,500 offices compared with 21,078 operated by the older company. The Postal Telegraph Company has expended between $800,000 and $900,000 per annum in increasing its plant, half these expenditures in the past three or four years being made out of profits and the balance being furnished by owners of its stock and principally by Mr. Mackay, and which has yet to be provided for in some way. In fact the Postal Telegraph has not grown yet beyond the condition of a feeder to the Commercial Cable lines, of which the third will be completed this coming summer. In the same time the Western Union Company has expended wholly from profits and largely capitalized over $1,000,000 a year in the enlargement of its plant outside of its purchase of rival companies. No one need be surprised that it has not made much money in the last six months, considering the condition of general business; it is a good evidence of its profit-making power that it has earned anything and has a good prospect of earning 5 per cent on its stock for the current fiscal year before its close. Looking over the whole ground, and having in view the tendency of the times, the greatest prospect of change lies in the direction of combinations. If the Bell Telephone Company, for instance, acquires the Postal Telegraph system a very serious blow would be struck at the security of Western Union. A similar combination of the latter with the Telephone Company would be fatal to the Postal. A combination of all three would assure the permanent value of all three.

Rapid Transit at Albany.

ALBANY, April 5.—There was a hearing to-day in the Senate Chamber on the New York rapid transit bills before the Legislature which was highly illuminative of certain political and financial conditions in this State at present.

Early in the session of the Legislature a bill was introduced by Senator Lexow, Republican, and by Assemblyman Butts, Democrat, which had been brought to Albany by an alleged representative of workingmen's organizations in New York. The bill provided for the submission to the people of New York in November next of the question of whether or not the city authorities should build a rapid transit railroad. The labor representative, who was a lawyer, brought with him a petition which he said had been signed by 55,000 workingmen in favor of the bill.

This measure, ostensibly in the interest of the workingman, slumbered into the Senate and Assembly until the Chamber of Commerce drew up and announced its bill providing that a private corporation should build a rapid transit road upon money furnished by the city. Then Senator Lexow and Assemblyman Butts woke up and pushed their measure. It is a sad confession to make, but it must nevertheless be said, that few members of the Legislature examined the bill; and therefore the Assembly on Tuesday night of the present week passed it by a unanimous vote. The Senate also ordered the bill to a third reading. To-day Mr. Butts' bill arrived in the Senate from the Assembly and Senator Lexow tried to have it substituted for his bill on the order of third reading, the bills being precisely similar. Ordinarily his request for a substitution would have been granted, but the Senators had grown suspicious of the measure and Senator Coggeshall, the chairman of the Senate Railway Committee, objected, and the bill went to a committee.

Senator Lexow, however, took up his bill on the order of third reading and attempted to pass it, but Senators Mullin and McMahon objected, pointing out that the Committee of the Chamber of Commerce was to be heard upon its rapid transit bill this afternoon. Senator Lexow declared truly enough that the Chamber of Commerce had been "lazy" in sending its bill here and therefore was not entitled to consideration. Senator McMahon, who is an experienced city politician, rather astonished people by frankly declaring that the proposition to entrust the building and operation of a rapid transit road to the city authorities was a "most dangerous suggeestion," and therefore he was opposed to the rapid transit bill. Senator Lexow then consented to the laying of his bill upon the table.

Matters were in this shape when ex-Mayor Abram S. Hewitt arrived here from New York with a delegation of members of the Chamber of Commerce, consisting of Hugh N. Camp, John Bigelow, former Secretary of State; H. H. Cammann, Fordham Morris, Jacob Wendell, Logan C. Murray, Henry R. Beekman, Constant C. Adams, William H. Robertson and Stephen R. Lesher.

Mr. Beekman and Mr. Hewitt soon after their arrival inspected curiously the Lexow-Butts bills and discovered,that it evidently had been drawn up in the law office of the Manhattan Elevated Railway Company. They therefore listened with interest later in the day to a speech by Senator Lexow in favor of the bill. Mr, Lexow was firmly of the opinion that the voters of New York should decide whether or not $50,000,000 should be expended. He thought that Mayor Gilroy must be trusted to appoint the Rapid Transit Commissioners. Mr. Lexow expressed the opinion that the Chamber of Commerce bill was unconstitutional, since it named the Rapid Transit Commissioners in the bill. Assistant Corporation Counsel Blandy stated that the authorities of New York were "inflexibly opposed to the bill of the Chamber of Commerce" while they did favor the bill of Mr. Butts and Senator Lexow.

Mr. Hewitt smiled while these speeches were being made. He then took up the Lexow-Butts bill and called attention to its careful provisions giving the Manhattan Elevated Railway Company a monopoly of the streets of New York south of 129th street. He pointed out that no other elevated railway lines could be built except by this company under the bill and that even cross-town lines were authorized. In defence of the bill of the Chamber of Commerce he declared that it was constitutional to name the Rapid Transit Commission in the bill and cited the first Aqueduct Commission, which was named at Albany. He also pointed out that Governor Flower had just signed a bill extending the Subway Commission, which was named in the bill. "Let Governor Flower take the responsibility of vetoing the bill on this ground," he declared.

Mr. Hewitt declared himself as irrevocably opposed to the granting to the city authorities of New York authority to build and operate a rapid transit road. In his judgment politicians would control all the positions of those who worked upon the road or operated it. "It would be a gigantic, never-ending Court House job," he said, "with millions for politics yearly. The Chamber of Commerce will wait for rapid transit for a generation before it accepts rapid transit under such conditions. Spare us that horror."

Ex-Mayor Hewitt's speech made a great impression, and it probably has killed the Lexow-Butts bill. But it is also doubtful if the Chamber of Commerce bill will be passed. In the judgment of many of the leading members of the Legislature no rapid transit bill will be passed this session, as no agreement will be reached upon them. The question of rapid transit should be fought at the polls in New York and elsewhere upon such platform of principles.

A large number of the heads of the departments of the New York City Government have been here the past week to look into legislation. Thus Corporation Counsel Clark has been here quietly working to pass the bill increasing the salaries of the President of the Department of Taxes and Assessment from $5,000 to $8,000, and of the other Commissioners of the same department from $4,000 to $6,000. This bill is now before the Senate and was debated and offered this week by Senator Saxton in the Senate. The Tammany Hall Senators favored the bill on the ground that it was merely permissive to raise salaries. Mr. Clark also is working hard to pass the bill increasing the salary of the Superintendent of Buildings and to prevent the passage of the bill depriving the Sheriff of New York of his fees and putting him upon a salary of $15,000 a year.

Dock Commissioner White has been here most of the week opposing the passage of the bill which declares that the docks and piers of New York shall be built by contract and not by day's work. There was an argument before the Assembly Committee on Cities on this bill this week and Assemblyman Lawson appeared in favor of the measure, showing the greater cost of the construction of docks by the present system as contrasted with the contract system. Assistant Corporation Counsel Blandy appeared in opposition to the bill on behalf of the Dock Commissioners.

The Senate Committee on Cities reported favorably to-day Senator Robertson's bill abolishing the present Board of Park Commissioners of New York and substituting a new Board of two Democrats and two Republicans. The Republicans have made this a party measure.

The Senate passed this week Senator Lexow's bill abolishing the present Board of Police of New York and substituting a Board of Police of two Democrats and two Republicans. The Republicans also have made a party measure of this bill and undoubtedly will pass it in the Assembly, but it is now said that Governor Flower will veto the act.

Senator Cantor has introduced a bill prohibiting the erection of a stable within 100 feet of a church.

The Senate has passed Mr. Marvin's bill providing for the recording of legal documents in the annexed district of New York. Senator Guy's bill permitting the construction of a railroad in 110th street.

Assemblyman Lawson has introduced a bill extending the system of having boards to examine plumbers as to their qualifications (the boards to be appointed by the mayors of cities) to New York, Brooklyn and Albany. These cities were exempted when the bill creating these boards was passed a few years ago.

The Assembly has passed Senator Cantor's bill transferring from New York City to the care of the State St. Mary's Nautical School.

Assemblyman Lawson has introduced a bill providing for the sale, at public auction, of contracts for filling in portions of parks in New York.

Better Times in Prospect.

VERY ENCOURAGING REPORT BY A RECENT BUSINESS TRAVELER THROUGH THE MIDDLE AND WESTERN SECTION.

There has been sent to THE RECORD AND GUIDE a copy of a letter received on Wednesday by the Joseph Dixon Crucible Company, of Jersey City, from the editor of Business, who, as he says in his letter, had "just returned from a ten days' trip through the Central Belt, undertaken principally for the purpose of confirming the impressions derived from correspondence, that trade is on the mend, and that outside of the large cities business is improving much faster than in them."

Of special interest and value to our readers will be the following observations upon building, the more particularly because the writer is not directly connected with the real estate or building industries, and may, therefore, be presumed to be a disinterested observer:

"Building interests in general are looking up. Many new structures are being planned, and architects are fairly busy almost everywhere. Low rates for money, cheap materials, reduced prices for labor and distrust of ordinary investments are causing many persons to turn toward building operations as being the safest form of business for them for the present. This bids fair to cause an active building season.

"Chicago issued more building permits in February of this year than during any other February in the history of the city, with the single exception of the year when the World's Fair structures were projected. Other cities show a fair degree of activity. I found a number of manufacturers, who are at present employing less than one-third their usual force, busily engaged upon plans of new buildings and new equipment, which they propose to complete before business fully revives, in order to be ready for the demand that is bound to come. A list of 479 manufacturers (covering all lines) specially investigated by calls and by letters, shows in every case a steadily improving trade, and fair profits now being earned. They report that the corner is turned for them, and all say they are driving forward with the full assurance of an early return to the usual measure of prosperity. Their secret is accepting the new order of things, and going ahead under prevailing conditions instead of waiting for old conditions to be restored."

New Corporations.

The following companies have recently filed articles of incorporation in the office of the Secretary of State at Albany:

Mercantile Laundry Construction Company of Brooklyn; capital, $80,800. Directors: Fred. C. Wendell, Frederick E. Evans and Charles Wendell, of Brooklyn.

Kingsland Land Company of Brooklyn; capital, $40.000. Directors: Seth L. Kenney, Robinson Gill, Rufus Resseguie, of Brooklyn, and others.

Pottier & Stymus Company, formed to succeed to the business of "Pottier, Stymus & Company," to manufacture cabinet work and furniture in New York City; capital, $100,000; and directors: William J. Stymus, Jr., Frank R. Pentz, and Adam Markel, of New York City.

The William G. Tucker Manufacturing Company, to manufacture cements, paints, oils and varnishes in New York City; capital, $50,000; and directors: John Brown, Edgar W. Vandervoort, I. M. Tucker, Henry L. Rogers and Charles H. Thompson, of New York City.

Paris and New York Contrasted.

HOW THE FRENCH CAPITAL DEALS WITH SOME MUNICIPAL PROBLEMS —PUBLIC RESTRICTIONS UPON PRIVATE PROPERTY—THE HEIGHT AND CHARACTER OF BUILDINGS—THE ASH BARREL NUISANCE—ADDRESS BY GEO. S. LESPINASSE BEFORE THE WEST END ASSOCIATION—OF INTEREST TO ALL OWNERS.

An informal talk, which ought to be but the beginning of a widespread discussion, was the principal event in a meeting of the West End Association, at its rooms, No. 167 West 81st street, on Monday evening. Mr. George S. Lespinasse, the speaker, showed that he had been a keen and intelligent observer of municipal government during his sojourn in Europe—more particularly in Paris—in 1892-3. President Cyrus Clark was in the chair and introduced the speaker.

The subject was Legal Restrictions upon the Use of Private Property. Mr. Lespinasse laid the basis for his subsequent argument in the declaration that excepting Chicago he knew of no large city that presented so untidy and slovenly an appearance as New York. The condition of the streets even at their very best and the irregular manner in which houses are built, were disgraceful. A spasmodic effort was occasionally made to clean the streets, but no orderly system was observed, such as might be, to thoroughly cleanse them and then keep them clean. About the use of private property there was no limit upon what a man might do if he was so disposed, beyond the general laws governing the subject of public nuisances.

For the purpose of clearly defining the subject the speaker read a number of extracts from the municipal regulations of the city of Paris, which he described as the most perfectly governed, the tidiest and most wholesome large city in the world. Its laws or ordinances, governing the use of private property, and the streets and public places had their beginning as early as 1607, so the regulations could not be called experimental.

One of these requires that wherever there are trees on any avenue or street any one undertaking to build must place the doors of his structure so as not to interfere with the trees. This, Mr. Lespinasse said, was but one example of the fostering care exercised by Paris towards her shade trees, and the result of which was that a view of the city from any of the adjacent heights showed a vast architectural panorama, relieved and brightened by frequent touches of verdure, that were always pleasing to the eye and that made an appropriate setting for the buildings.

Another ordinance governs the height of buildings bordering on the public streets. It requires that upon streets of 7.5 metres width the houses shall not exceed a height of 12 metres; on streets 9.75 metres wide they shall not exceed 15 metres; on 18-metre streets, 20 metres, and on streets or boulevards of not more than 20 metres they shall not be more than 20 metres high. The speaker gave it as his conviction that this was one of the most important of the Parisian ordinances, and that it was high time something of that character should be enacted for New York City. Under our present liberty-run-to-license policy one was at any time liable to have a fifteen-story building run up alongside of his house, to the inevitable ruin of his property.

Still another ordinance prescribes the proportion of vacant area that must be allowed for every building lot. Houses of 15 metres height are required to have a vacant yard space of at least 40x5 metres, and houses of other heights in proportion. These dimensions might be enlarged, frequently were, but they could not be diminished in either direction. The regulation secured to the city its park-like aspect. Yet another ordinance prescribed the style, color and weight of the numbers to be used in numbering the houses on any thoroughfare. They were different for different classes of streets and were intended to secure legibility and harmony in the numbers and to prevent vulgarity in their expression.

Again, there is an ordinance dealing with the character of the improvements facing on public squares and places, designed to prevent the construction of buildings and their use for purposes that would degrade the property and pleasure places of the public, and to develop their native beauties. "New York," said Mr. Lespinasse, "has few parks and public squares and places, yet all sorts of mongrel structures are allowed around them." At the circle, at 59th street and 8th avenue, there had been opportunity for creditable, artistic, architectural effort, that would have blended and harmonized with the art spirit represented in the park. But the adjacent owners, being under no restriction, had done all they could apparently to debase and degrade their own and their neighbors' property by the construction of all sorts of ramshackle structures, and people who would have prevented such vandalism if they could found no support in the law. Paris prevents all such vulgarity by her general regulations of improvements in such cases. She allows no meat shop, or liquor store, or other objectionable shop or factory to occupy premises fronting on any such park or boulevard, avenue or public place. If the owner does not like the restriction and consent to it the municipality will condemn his property and pay for it and sell it again, subject to the restrictions. This was done as long ago as 1601, with reference to the Place de la Victoire, afterwards in establishing the Champs Elysees, and as late as 1886, in laying out the Place de la Concorde—in the latter case compensating the owners for possible losses and encouraging a high order of improvements, by exempting their property from taxation for a period of twenty years. An auxiliary provision of this ordinance requires that the property shall be maintained in good sanitary condition and appearance, and if the annual inspection shows that the owner is not fulfilling the requirements of the law, the authorities will make the repairs and make the owner pay for them. When an individual buys a piece of property under these circumstances, he knows he is safe from nuisances or the location of trades, occupations or tenements that would be injurious to his property. The owner is required to keep his property in repair not only for himself but for his neighbors' interests as well.

Finally, Mr. Lespinasse said, Paris had banished ash barrels from the streets over fifteen years ago. In New York they are still counted among our sidewalk ornaments. The law of Paris forbids any one from throwing sweepings or garbage into the streets and requires the landlord to provide a common receptacle for the use of all the occupants of any building, and into which they are required to deposit all the sweepings and litter of their premises. This ordinance is of such a comprehensive and enlightened character that it is given here in full, as it was read by Mr. Lespinasse:

Works Department of the City of Paris. 2d Division. 3d Bureau. Regulations for the Removal of House Garbage. In view of the Resolution passed by the City Council on the 22d February, 1884, inviting the Administration to modify the terms of the Regulations of November 24, 1893.

Considering that the application of the Order of the 11th September, 1870, concerning the deposit and removal of house refuse has shown that it is not convenient to allow each householder to put out a receptacle containing such refuse.

Considering that it is consequently necessary to require each landlord to provide one or more common receptacles in which all the tenants can throw their garbage, which receptacles shall be taken back into the house immediately after the passage of the carts.

Considering that these receptacles can be placed at the disposal of the tenants without danger to the public health if they are closed with a movable cover, which shall be taken off before the receptacles are put out on the road.

Considering that the method of loading the carts by means of a windlass necessitates that the receptacles be of certain dimensions.

NOW, THEREFORE, the Prefect of the Seine directs:

Section 1.—It is absolutely forbidden to throw upon the public way, at any hour of the day or night, household garbage or sweepings coming from the interior of any private property or public establishment.

Section 2.—From the date of the present Order, the landlord of every inhabited house shall cause to be deposited each morning, either outside on the sidewalk or just inside the entrance, at a spot perfectly visible and accessible, one or more common receptacles of sufficient capacity to hold the house refuse of all the tenants or occupants.

The said receptacles must be put out at least one hour before the time fixed for the removal, which is between half-past six and half-past eight o'clock in the morning in summer (that is to say, from the 1st April to the 30th September), and between seven and nine A. M. in winter (that is to say, from the 1st October to the 31st March).

The receptacles must be taken back into the houses in a quarter of an hour at most after the cart has passed.

The janitor, if there be one in the house, will be personally held to take care that the receptacles are so put out and taken in again, but the landlord shall nevertheless be legally responsible.

Section 3.—The common receptacles, whatever may be their mode and form of construction, must comply with the following conditions:

Each receptacle shall have a maximum capacity of 120 litres (27 gallons) and when empty, shall not be heavier than 15 kilograms (33 lbs). If it is of circular form it must not be more than 55 centimetres (21 inches) in diameter. If its shape is rectangular or elliptical it must not be more than 80 centimetres long and 50 centimetres wide (31 inches by 19 inches). It must not in any case be deeper than it is wide.

The receptacles must be provided with two handles on their upper part. They must be painted or galvanized and bear on one of their lateral faces the name of the street and the number of the house, marked in clear characters. They must be clean and in good order, both inside and out, so as not to give off any bad odor when empty. These receptacles shall be kept by the landlord at the disposal of the tenants from 9 P. M. until the time when they have to be put on the roadway.

Section 4.—With the exception of the cases hereinafter mentioned in sections 5 and 6, no house refuse shall be thrown elsewhere than into the common receptacles provided for that purpose. If the common receptacle is not available or is insufficient, the tenants must either leave their own receptacles temporarily in the place of, or near, the common one, or wait for the passage of the cart, so that their garbage can be thrown directly into it.

Section 5.—It is forbidden to throw into the common receptacles any refuse belonging to either of the two following categories, namely:

I. Soil and rubbish of any kind resulting from building operations or taken from gardens.

II. Residues and waste products of every description arising from the exercise of any trade or industry; which must be removed at the expense of the person concerned.

The only exception to this prohibition is as regards the garbage of hotels and restaurants.

Section 6.—It is also forbidden to deposit the following articles in the common receptacles: Broken glass, crockery, pottery, etc., which the department undertakes to remove, but which must be placed in special receptacles alongside the ordinary ones.

Section 7.—Rag-gatherers are forbidden to strew the garbage on the public way; they can turn it out on to a piece of sacking and examine it there, but must afterwards put it back into the receptacles.

Section 8.—All the provisions of the present order are applicable to houses situated in courts, passages and alleys and other places having the character of private property. In these cases the common receptacles must be deposited at the point where these places open on to the public way.

Section 9.—Infringements of the preceding Regulations will be taken note of and the parties prosecuted according to law. For violations of the Rules relating to the putting out and taking in of the common receptacles, proceedings will be instituted against the janitor and the landlord, or against the janitor or guardian only, in the case of a building belonging to the State, the Department, or the County.

Section 10.—The Orders of September 11, 1870, June 14, 1871, June 4, 1875, and November 24, 1883, are canceled in so far as their provisions are contrary to the present Order.

Section 11.—The Chief Commissioner of the Works Department is charged with the execution of the present Order, which shall be made public by means of placards throughout the whole of the city of Paris.

Done at Paris, the 7th March, 1884. Signed, &c.

In conclusion, Mr. Lespinasse said the ash-barrel nuisance had been abolished in every city of Europe, and could be here if the people would require it and would show as much interest in the subject as they ought. All these regulations in the laws of Paris were the expression of the popular sentiments—the majority sentiments of its people, and they made of Paris the finest city in the world, an example of exalted civic pride and an object-lesson in municipal government and cleanliness.

The thanks of the association were unanimously tendered to Mr. Lespinasse for his address.

Mr. F. R. Houghton opened the general discussion which followed, remarking that the principle upon which the Parisians proceeded was a little different from the American idea, which seemed to be that an owner had the right to do as he pleased with his property without regard to the effect his action might have upon public or other private interests. He felt, as a property-owner, that the suggestions in Mr. Lespinasse's address were of vast importance to New York City, and he urged that the West End Association, as the only organization of property-owners in the city, was the proper and the only body that could give those suggestions the consideration due to them and extract from them the practical benefits they contained. He urged that the subject be continued for further discussion.

President Clark said he had read in THE RECORD AND GUIDE, as he had no doubt they had all done, a description of property rights which would meet the approval of all right-minded people. The subject was being discussed in that journal in a series of enlightened articles, and in the last the writer defined private property as the exclusive right of the owner to do as he pleased with what belonged to him so long as he did not encroach upon the rights of other owners and the public. Certainly the suggestions from the Parisian municipal code were in harmony with that principle. In THE RECORD AND GUIDE he had also read the report of an instance where the construction of a new building had wrought serious injury to the adjoining property; the building had been built so high that it changed the currents of air and in the adjoining private houses the chimneys could get no draft. That was an instance where the law should have intervened to protect the adjoining owners, though how or to what extent would be a nice question.

Mr. Richard Deeves asked if in New York the regulations referred to could be secured by local ordinances, or if it would be necessary to go to the Legislature or the Constitutional Convention to secure them. Lawyers whom he had consulted thought the restrictions could not be obtained without amending the constitution. He believed that it was high time the public sentiment on these questions should be incorporated in the law and given practical effect, and he therefore presented a preamble and resolution providing for the further consideration of the matter and the maturing of plans to secure the desired amendment of the laws or constitution as might be deemed neccessary. The resolution was adopted without a dissenting vote.

The Architectural League and High Buildings.

"Is it or is it not desirable that a law should be passed restricting the height of buildings?" was the question propounded for discussion by the Architectural League at its monthly meeting this week, as a result of the hint dropped by its President, Mr. George B. Post, at a previous meeting, and which brought out the discussion that has been carried on in the press, and particularly in these columns, on the consequences that will follow if the city should be built up with buildings as high as it is now become the fashion to build them. The importance and interest of the subject attracted a large gathering of the members of the League and their invited guests, and the views of two eminent Chicago architects, D. H. Burnham, the President of the American Institute of Architects and Chief of Construction of the World's Fair, and Dankmar Adler, the architect of the Transportation Building at the Fair and of the Chicago Auditorium, added to the value of the discussion that followed the presentation of the question by the President.

Mr. Post took the affirmative of the question and elaborated the views he has already presented through THE RECORD AND GUIDE. He was not only in favor of the restriction of the height of buildings by law, but believed that that height should be regulated by the width of the street on which they are erected, and should be restricted to three times the width of the street, so that structures in streets 35 feet wide, as are most of them in the lower part of the city, should be not more than 105 feet from the sidewalk to the cornice. He thought the time had come to act before the high building should become a nuisance to the community.

Mr. D. H. Burnham took a non-committal view, believing that certain conditions of operation and cost would tend to limit the height of buildings, while Mr. Adler was directly opposed to restrictive legislation, though favoring restrictions on narrow streets from a sanitary point and the limitation of height in proportion to the width of the street. He incidentally threw out the suggestion that in order to meet the objections to high buildings that they might be built in receding stories or terraces, so as to retain the air and light. The discussion was maintained by Alfred Stone, Secretary of the American Institute of Architects, Thomas Hastings, Edward H. Kendall, Warren R. Briggs and Charles L. Berg, Secretary of the League, who as a whole maintained the view that while high buildings might become objectionable the thing from the nature of the case would regulate itself.

However, as the subject was of so much importance and deserved deliberate treatment no decision was arrived at, but on the motion of Mr. Berg the President of the League was empowered to appoint a committee of five, of which he should be Chairman, to consider the question and report.

North Side Happenings.

The central section of the new official map of the 23d and 24th Wards was considered in the offices of Street Commissioner Haffin, No. 2622 3d avenue, on Monday last. It includes the district bounded on the north by Gunhill road, on the east by Webster avenue and the Harlem River, on the south by 161st street, and west by Jerome avenue, Mosholu Parkway and Van Courtlandt Park. It will be submitted to the Board of Street Opening April 20th.

Commissioner Haffen has explained to the property-owners interested in the proposed concourse that the bill before the Legislature provides for one-fourth of the amount being levied on the property benefited and the remaining three-fourths to come out of the general fund. North Side property-owners express the opinion that if the concourse is made as proposed it will give a big boom to real estate in the district through which it will pass.

The contract for the sewer in Tiffany street has been awarded to Jones & Brosnan at $160,000. This sewer is of considerable importance, as it will drain all through the centre of the eastern section of the 23d Ward, known as the Leggitt's Creek water shed. It covers an area of about 900 acres.

At the Department of Street Improvement it was said that as the Governor had signed the bill, giving permission to erect a suitable building, on the corner of 177th street and 3d avenue, in Crotona Park, for their use, steps would be taken at once to build. The cost of the building is placed at $100,000.

The work of paving 3d avenue was started by William Kelly, the contractor, on Tuesday last, at 138th street, and will be carried on to completion.

Questions and Answers.

CRITICISM OF THE KIND THAT HELPS.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

I heartily agree with you remarks in regard to the lack of public spirit in New York. To mention some of the smaller facts which impress one constantly, take the careless manner in which householders fill ash barrels with loose papers, which could be burned in-doors, but which are blown all about the streets in a most unseemly manner. Another case in point is the condition of certain crossings, notably 117th street and 7th avenue, a prominent thoroughfare where there is absolutely no cross walk of any kind, so that in bad weather people must wade through the mud and slush, yet this they do with untiring patience. I am told nothing can be done until spring to remedy the difficulty.

I suppose our people will continue to accept crowded and uncleanly elevated cars until the crack of doom. Their apathy in regard to rapid transit seems amazing.

In conclusion let me add a word upon the present tendency to build excessively high buildings. An artist friend of mine says that a visitor from the West remarked as he looked down on the narrow streets from his fifth story studio that they were like Colorado canons, and the people diving in and out of the houses seemed like coyotes. As a sanitarian I can testify to the bad effects of our lofty buildings, particularly on narrow streets, in fostering dampness, in darkening the windows of adjacent houses, and lastly in creating raw and dust-laden drafts which endanger everybody's lungs and throats. I never pass through Wall street, near Broadway, or the vicinity of Nassau and Spruce streets without noticing how piercing and harsh the wind feels in these places.

On the æsthetic side one must deeply regret to see how the city appears from the ferries in consequence of the hideous structures that have recently been put up. Until a year ago the effect of the Produce Exchange, the Field Building and half a dozen other lofty edifices was rather picturesque. But this has been destroyed by the new structures and the general effect as seen from Governor's Island or either river, resembles a monstrous factory, and when soft coal is allowed to be burned without stint, as it probably will be, the beauty of New York will be destroyed. CHAS. F. WINGATE.

BUILDING LAW.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Please inform me in your next issue if in your opinion the law would compel a party to remove an extension put up about a year ago without a permit, but with the knowledge of the party then in power?

Answer.—We quote the following provisions of the Building Law: "Sec. 51. The Supreme Court of the State of New York, the County Court of the County of Kings, and the City Court of Brooklyn, shall, upon petition, respectively, have power and jurisdiction to adjudge and decree that any store, storehouse, dwelling or other building that has or may hereafter become dangerous or insecure, or any building erected or altered, or in the course of erection or alteration, in violation of the provisions of this title, shall be taken down and removed, or repaired and supported in a proper manner." "Sec. 57. Any person, persons or corporations, for the violation of the several provisions of the several sections of this title, when the penalty is not therein specially provided, shall severally forfeit and pay a penalty in the sum of fifty dollars for each and every offense." We are of opinion that if your extension was put up in compliance with the provisions of law as to its construction, etc., its removal cannot be compelled but you may be called upon to pay a fine or penalty of fifty dollars for erecting it without first obtaining a permit.—LAW EDITOR.

BROKERS' COMMISSIONS.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly answer the following query: H authorized me as his agent to rent, care for and sell his flat. I advertised it for sale as did H, over my name and business address, from which I received a call from M. I gave him permit to inspect the flat. M did so, returned to my office and submitted an offer of $11,000, which was submitted to H, and which offer was declined by H, he stating that he would sell for $13,000, not less. I notified M, who said he would not pay more than $11,000, of which I informed H, who again said he would not sell for less than $13,000. I again communicated with M to that effect, who said he would let me know, but did not, and I afterward learned that he obtained H's address from the janitor. He called on H relative to the purchase and the call resulted in a direct purchase by M from H of said flat at $12,500 unknown to me, though H gave me to understand that the renting and sale of said premises would be through my agency. Prior to the sale of the flat I called upon H about renting the flat (whole building) to a grocer, when H informed me he was about selling the flat through a certain broker, and if he did not sell would rent, and after a few days wrote me that he had sold; again called upon him and was informed that said certain broker had negotiated the sale. Called on M who said that said certain broker had had nothing to do with the sale whatever; that his attention to the flat was called by the advertisement referred to, but that notwithstanding his calling on me and receiving permit, he preferred to and did buy direct from the owner. Then I called on H with said certain broker, but H claimed that neither he nor myself had anything to do with the sale of said premises.

Under the circumstances am I not entitled to the commission on this sale? A SUBSCRIBER.

Answer.—Yes.—LAW EDITOR.

LANDLORD AND TENANT—GAMBLING.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Can a landlord who has leased his property for a cigar store be held responsible, if his tenant conducts in said store a policy shop or gambles in any way, said landlord being notified by the police to that effect? By kindly answering same, you will greatly oblige H. V. R.

Answer.—Section 333 of the Penal Code is as follows: "A person who lets, or permits to be used, any building or portion of a building, knowing that it is intended to be used for any of the purposes declared punishable by this chapter, is guilty of a misdemeanor." The chapter (VIII.) relates to lotteries and "playing policy." In order that the landlord shall be convicted under this provision his letting or permission with "knowledge" must be proved. Under Section 2,231 of the Code of Civil Procedure, a landlord may remove his tenant "where the demised premises, or any part thereof, are used or occupied as a bawdy-house, or house of assignation for bad persons, or for any illegal trade or manufacture, or other illegal business."—LAW EDITOR.

PARTNERSHIP.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Please answer the following questions: Two partners commence business, each putting in an equal amount and dividing profits equally. After a few years it is agreed that the one should receive a certain per cent of the profis more than the other: (1) On separating does each own half of the assets? (2) In case one should want to sell out, how would the value of his share be calculated?

Answer.—(1) Yes, unless there has been an agreement to the contrary. (2) If they cannot agree upon a plan one or other of them may take the matter to Court. We could not undertake to say how the value should be calculated unless we know more of the details of the business.—LAW EDITOR.

PENSION.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly let me know through your journal when a person who received a pension dies, but was not able to call for the same the last six months, and was due when the party died, can the same be collected, and how should it be done?

Answer.—Some one of his next of kin or his widow should take out letters of administration, and then the administrator should apply for the pension accrued at the time of death.—LAW EDITOR.

LEASE—COVENANT NOT TO ASSIGN.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

A leased to B a building for a term of three years, one of the conditions is as follows: B will not assign this lease, nor let nor underlet the whole or any part of the said premises, nor make any alterations therein without the written consent of A, under penalty of forfeiture and damages. (1) Should B sell his fixtures, good-will, etc., of said premises to C without consent of A, does the lease at once become void? (2) Should B continue to pay or cause to be paid the sum as agreed upon in the lease, could C hold the premises for the full term?

Answer.—(1) An assignment of a lessee's interest, or a subletting or underletting in violation of a covenant not to assign, etc., does not, ipso facto, render the lease void, but it then becomes voidable at the election of the lessor. If the lessor chooses to avail himself of the breach, he can only do so by re-entering as provided by the lease, or by pursuing such other legal remedy as the right of re-entry confers. The tenant or undertenant or assignee cannot be removed by summary proceedings for such breach of the covenant, but an action must be brought by the lessor. (2) Acceptance of rent by the lessor, after an assignment of the lease with his knowledge, operates as a waiver of a forfeiture for breach of a covenant not to assign, and the assignee can thereafter assign the lease. The condition once dispensed with is dispensed with forever.—LAW EDITOR.

Real Estate Market.

Evidences of some improvement in the real estate market have been more plentiful during this week than at any previous time this year. Besides the large evidences in our "Gossip" columns, we have assurances of three separate transactions that have been consummated, one amounting to half a million dollars, another to nearly that sum and the third to over a hundred thousand dollars, the details of which are for the present withheld. Some of the leading brokers report also a larger inquiry for investment property, and some of the insurance companies that were putting the screws on borrowers four months ago are now making overtures for a return to their former relations. These are the evidences of the improved tone of the market, and they promise fairly to result in a material increase in selling, both for investment and improvement.

This does not mean that things are booming—not by a very large margin. It means that there is excellent prospect for an early change for the better. The larger transactions of the current week do not figure to any appreciable extent in this view. One of them, it appears, is little more than an option, and another takes a large piece of property entirely out of the market, probably forever. But there has been some purchasing for improvement, which is of the kind that produces and adds to the wealth of the city, and is of the most desirable kind. The figures for the first three months of the year show that it has thus far been an exceedingly poor season. The number of conveyances was 3,156 against 3,684 for the corresponding period of 1893, which would not be remarkable or particularly depressing were other things equal. But the amounts involved foot up only $42,383,785 against $64,102,757. Of these, the conveyances of North Side property numbered 654, for $2,442,260, against 568, for $2,583,515 in the first quarter of 1893. In the matter of mortgages the apparent decline has not been so great. In the first three months of 1893 they numbered 3,684 and amounted to $45,023,436; of these, 1,599, for $23,887, 327, were at 5 per cent, and 457, for $10,415,544, at less than 5 per cent. In the corresponding period this year the total number is 3,318 for $37,318,282, of which 1,458, for $20,202,704, were at 5 per cent, and 206, for $4,674,790, for less than 5 per cent. But while these figures show a falling off of about 30 per cent in the amount of property bought and sold and of rather less than 20 per cent in the amount of money placed on mortgage, they show also that borrowers were in the end able to refund their loans with but a slight increase in the rate of interest. In many instances, of course, this was only accomplished after a considerable outlay in commissions and attorneys' fees and other charges, which do not show in the figures, but after such a prolonged pinch and so great complaint it is encouraging to note that the gross disturbance was relatively so small. But these are the figures of the past, and they have no greater bearing on the future than to indicate that there is room for improvement. In the auction rooms the sales of the past week have attracted a little more attention than for some time before, and several parcels were taken by investors at prices which were bargains, while they at the same time sold above the amount of the incumbrances.

The following are the comparative tables for New York Conveyances, Mortgages and Projected Buildings for the corresponding weeks of 1893 and 1894.

The West Side property-owners and the Eighth Avenue Railroad Company have formed a conference committee to consider improvements in the service on the railroad. The company promises to deal fairly with the matter.

The West End Association has asked the municipal authorities to pave the circle, at 59th street and 8th avenue, with asphalt.

A movement looking to the extension of Riverside Drive southward, by a narrow street through private property to 70th street, is receiving the attention of adjoining property-owners.

A short time ago the Street Cleaning Department applied to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment for permission to rent the stable on 87th street, near Amsterdam avenue. The property-owners in the vicinity, hearing of this and fearing a depreciation in values from the nuisance, took up the question, and on Thursday last appeared before the Board in so large numbers to protest that it was finally decided to abandon the plan.

STREET OPENINGS.

The Board of Street Opening and Improvement have approved the amended map of the new Edgecombe road and directed the Corporation Counsel ro institute proceedings to acquire property. An agreement between the city and the Convent of the Sacred Heart for an exchange of lands for an extension of St. Nicholas terrace, from 130th to 127th street, was also referred to the Corporation Counsel. It was also decided to acquire title to land for opening Longwood avenue, from Southern Boulevard to Tiffany street, by September 1st next; and to land for the extension of Convent avenue, from 150th street to Avenue St. Nicholas, by August 4th next. It was decided to open Franklin avenue, from 3d avenue to 169th street, and Plympton avenue, from Orchard street to Boscobel avenue. A petition for the opening of 182d street, from Amsterdam to 11th avenue, was referred to the Commissioner of Public Works.

THE NORTH RIVER DOCK IMPROVEMENTS.

An unintentional injustice was done Comptroller Ashbel P. Fitch in our report last week of the approval by the Sinking Fund Commission of the plans for the improvement of the North River dock fronts. The report should have stated that although very great pressure was brought to bear upon Mr. Fitch, he refused from the beginning to give his approval to the entire scheme, just as his predecessor, Theo. W. Myers did, and for the same reasons—to wit: that he would not sanction a sch. me that would add largely to the city's bonded indebtedness without producing a more than compensating income. Finding him immovable from this position, the Dock Board asked and received the consent of the Sinking Fund Commission to build from Charles to Gansevoort street, six piers, instead of from Charles to 23d street, as reported In this action Mr. Fitch concurred, but only after he had received the report of his engineer, Mr. MacLean, that the cost of the work would not exceed $4,700,000; and after he had satisfied himself of the correctness of the statement that the Dock Board had received bona fide applications from steamship companies for the rental of such piers at rates that will produce 7 per cent income from the beginning on the investment, and that the work would be paid for out of the regular annual appropriation of $3,000,000 per annum. If the city can borrow money at 3 per cent and invest it at 7 per cent the Comptroller thinks the taxpayers will hardly be inclined to object.

The Insurance Club will formally open its new club rooms in the Mutual Life Building, No. 32 Nassau street, this afternoon.

Tuesday and Wednesday next Messrs. Richard V. Harnett & Co. will offer at auction a number of valuable pieces of property, to which the attentions of investment buyers should be directed. On the first mentioned day, the 10th inst., Mr. Harnett will preside at the sale of No. 12 East 10th street, a three-and-a-half-story and basement brick dwelling and lot, with two extensions, the dimensions being 25.0½x 48.2 x extension x 92.3. This property is situated 200.1½ feet east 5th avenue, the location speaking for the value of the property; 70 per cent of the purchase price can remain for three to five years at 5 per cent. MORTGAGES.

N. B.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Wherever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, APRIL 7, 1894.

ENROLLMENTS and reorganizations of local politicians are apparently the order of the day—as if political salvation lay that way and every one were rushing in to escape the wrath to come. Even the reformers, having tasted of the fruits of victory, have fallen into the error and have undertaken to organize and enroll and form a political corporation for the purpose of securing and perpetuating to themselves, their heirs, administrators and assigns the political estate of which they made such unexpected conquest. This, we are convinced, augurs ill for the elevation and improvement of our local politics. The adoption of machine methods by the body of independents who wrought the overthrow of ring rule in this city, is a backward step. The victory of last November could never have been accomplished if there had not been a large body of independents who, for the moment at least, renounced allegiance to all parties, and coming spontaneously together, selected the leaders upon the ticket which they afterwards elected. The mistake they made was in being too modest. By conceding so much to the Republican machine they suffered the infliction of Buttling and a Board of Aldermen and Board of Supervisors that are as difficult to keep from pilfering as cages of wild monkeys. If the history of the past is any guide to the future, then the organization of the reform elements in Brooklyn politics marks the beginning of their degeneration. The last victory will ever be their best, and until there is another upheaval there will be none equal to it. The right line of improvement is in cutting loose from political organizations; in holding oneself absolutely free of their influence or complications. A large body of such independents, who refuse to wear the collar of any party, even a reform party of their own making, is the best thing we could have in municipal politics. It is the strongest possible safeguard against municipal corruption. Political parties would be powerless against it, and in the end, as in the last election, would make their nominations subject to the wishes and with design to meet the approval of the independent vote. Party fealty has ceased to be a virtue. The partisan is beneath the independent.

MR. HINRICHS, the Registrar of Arrears, will continue his sale of property for delinquent taxes next Wednesday. Disagreeable as these sales may be to many owners it is better for the city and better for them that the prompt payment of taxes should be inforced than that the city's finances should be allowed to run at sixes and sevens as they have for several years. It was through allowing elevated railroad taxes to accumulate that the conditions arose for the compromise, in which the city lost many thousands of dollars, which the taxpayers had to pay. Politicians should not be subjected to such irresistible temptations. Besides the failure to collect a large proportion of the tax levy makes necessary a corresponding increase in the next levy, which means higher taxes. The evident determination of Registrar Hinrichs has prompted many delinquents to walk up to the captain's office and pay up. The collections of arrearages for March were $294,748.44, an increase of over $183,000 upon the corresponding month of the previous year. Mr. Hinrichs is apparently the right man in the right place. It is not to be supposed that he is stirring up the delinquents because he likes it, but rather that he is acting from a true sense of duty.

Building Trade Notes—Brooklyn.

As the result of a little mixing up of papers in our trade notices of March 24th, the contracts that have been recently awarded to Wm. C. Owen, of the Keystone Cement Works, Nos. 90 and 92 Eldert street, were credited to another firm. These contracts were: Long Island Real Estate and Investment Co., 125,000 square feet; Gascoine & Hornby, 10,000 square feet; Beer & Schaffner, 8,000 square feet; V. A. Klein, 5,000 square feet; Chas. D. Hommel, 4,000 square feet, and many others of less importance. Last year's business amounted to over 500,000 square feet. Mr. Owen writes: "Having placed an advertisement in your paper, with good results so soon, I find it pays to do the same in your valuable paper. My first order was 2,500 square feet. Have on hand orders now over 250,000 square feet and fifty men working, and am pleased to give them work. I have had no agent to solicit work for me, as I have done and do all soliciting myself, thereby saving money for builders and architects, of which they should take notice."

The kitchen will be located in the basement and will be connected with the upper rooms by a dumb-waiter. The cost is estimated at $25,000. J. B. Snook & Sons will prepare the working plans. MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—We find the market barren of positively new or interesting feature, and the most pronounced development is the continued grumbling among sellers over the conditions of trade. The arrivals have shown much the same as last week, no great amount coming from Haverstraw, but "Up River" points furnishing a supply that more than balanced the current demand, and left a surplus offering under which buyers were successful in retaining former advantages. At the close no one seemed to claim more than $5, and some very excellent quality to be obtained at a fractional shading. Indeed there is hardly any premium line of value at the moment, the condition of arrivals keeping up to such a good average as to largely do away with the necessity for making special selection except in very exceptional cases. Some Jerseys are added to the current of arriving supplies and they secure about natural proportionate attention. Manufacturers, according to latest information, were still meeting and endeavoring to fix a date for commencing work, and it is understood that some of them occasionally listen to propositions for forming combinations or trusts. Manufacturers of Fronts are getting some spring orders and maintain former prices on standard goods.

CEMENT.—Business is not active for any outlet but importers find conditions a little more promising. Considerable interior custom has been heard from in a tentative way yet not without considerable promise that when canals are open supplies will be ordered forward. Arrivals are about up to calculations and prices steady, with advices from abroad stating that there is a move among manufacturers to form a combination and raise the line of value. Domestic grades sell slowly and only when dealers and contractors are forced to get a working supply.

LATH.—Pretty much the old story is repeated. Arrivals of round wood stock were a little heavy and it is understood the price struck inside of $2 at one time, but that figure is about as low as can consistently be quoted, and $2.10 is still mentioned for slab. Local custom is inclined to act a little offish, but shows quiet interest at times and the manipulations from outside sources are daily becoming more encouraging, it is said. As a rule, receivers seem confident over the situation.

LIME.—The undertone of the market is unquestionably weak. Quite a large amount of Eastern stock has accumulated here, the State makers are on the alert for trade, and Virginia product is still available, making quite a line of competitive goods and a not over willing market at the moment. Openly no acknowledgment of modified quotations is admitted, but there is good reason to suspect that Eastern product has sold at a small modification from previous figures.

LUMBER.—There is practically no improvement in the local lumber market. Some increase of business may be found, but it is the result of either demand forced by actual necessity, or supplies pushed into notice at rates buyers cannot resist. In fact all hands who are claiming better trade, it is found, do not go back to last year at this time for a comparison, but simply take the dead and alive conditions of midwinter and contrast with what is in reality a mighty poor spring business. Consumption for repairs is less than ordinary, buildings requiring lumber form only a fair proportion of those under way or projected for early commencement, and the wants of manufacturers seem unimportant. As dealers, however, are not receiving anything of importance and a great many of them are steadily wasting their substance by distributing from already small and broken assortments, it would seem that a further vacuum in yard supplies is being created out of which wholesalers hope to coin an excellent trade, the moment business affairs in general return to a solid and substantial footing and investments in staple merchandise are no longer feared.

The export deal does not yet pan out with the freedom and success generally hoped for during greater portion of last month. Calculations it may be remembered were stimulated by the events in Brazil which seemed to indicate that with the return of peace business would quickly be resumed and especially in the line of goods desirable for repairing and renewing property destroyed during bombardments. The orders, however, have not been forthcoming except in a small and broken form, and latest mail advices from that disturbed country indicate a continued want of confidence in ability of present government to maintain power sufficient to warrant investment. Meanwhile there has been something doing on about an average run of West India orders, and fair shipments made to the Argentine, but the latter were in part ventures because of attractive transportation facilities, the shipments including some through lots coming here in place of ports for which originally intended. There is a pretty good supply of shipping grades here awaiting any call that may arise, and some more to order forward if wanted.

There does not seem to be much use going into any extensive detail this week as the various grades stand just about as before. White pine of upper quality has very few friends at the moment, and the coarser grades are only fairly active, although now and then a watchful seller can find opportunity for placing a fair bunch of standard box, provided he is willing to accept about former rates. Yellow pine remains dull, with "predictions" of improvement, although business has been done within a week upon as low a basis as at any time this season. Carolina pine has more or less local demand and some outside business, the latter rather the better of the two, with the old basis of price retained, which is "just a little" cutting from figures agreed upon early in the spring and nominally adhered to, but only for quoting purposes in reality. Hemlock is not particularly in favor here at the moment, and also seems to have less country demand with no feature of marked importance to advise except, possibly, that there is stock enough.

Spruce is without new features of decided character. The Eastern and Northern manufacturers and holders are making as careful an offering as possible, and endeavoring to give the market some tone, but the West Virginian offerings continue free and quite urgent with the old weak tone on values ruling. The trouble over yard rate cutting recently referred to has been adjusted, as the alleged transgressing firm it was discovered by the howlers had full justification for its action. But what a cinch these yard men have at a profit of $3, $4 and $5 per M., or even more, and it is no wonder that well posted buyers insist upon a "chrono" now and then in such form as it can be given without actually billing goods at modified cost.

Poplar is selling to some extent when there is an offering at a pretty good cut from list rates, but not much natural demand at the moment. Other hardwoods are all on the dull list, and there seems no prospect of immediate revival as the dull winter trade has left fair working assortments which dealers and manufacturers will endeavor to get along with until consumption proves more promising. Really first-class walnut could be placed without much trouble with parties holding foreign orders.

NAILS.—Local demand does not vary much, as consumption finds no special stimulus and dealers are content to carry small stocks, and invest in additions from time to time as necessity may arise. The country trade, however, continues to grow a little, owing to seasonable influences tending to broaden the use of supplies, and the large number of storekeepers, etc, throughout the country who, having allowed accumulations to run low, must order renewals the moment custom is heard from. The aggregate business, however, is by no means up to a seasonable average, and values remain about as before. We quote Cut at $1.00@1.10 per keg for car lots and $1.15@1.20 per keg for parcels from store for iron, and add 3c. per keg for steel; Wire, $1.10@1.15 for car lots, and $1.25@1.30 from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—There is nothing that can fairly be called activity shown, yet general business is increasing somewhat and the new month brings a run of orders from sources heretofore backward. The line of operators nearest consumers has pretty nearly exhausted reserve supplies and must get together a working assortment at

The Duty of the Citizen.

It is not enough in a situation of trust in the commonwealth, that a man means well to his country; it is not enough that in his single person he never did an evil act, but always voted according to his conscience and even harangued against every design which he apprehended to be prejudicial to the interests of his country. This innoxious and ineffectual character, that seems formed upon a plan of apology and disculpation, falls miserably short of the mark of public duty. That duty demands and requires that what is right should not only be made known, but made prevalent; that what is evil should not only be detected, but defeated. When the public man omits to put himself in a situation of doing his duty with effect it is an omission that frustrates the purposes of his trust almost as much as if he had formally betrayed it. It is surely no very rational account of a man's life that he has always acted right, but has taken special care to act in such a manner that his endeavors could not possibly be productive of any consequence.

I do not wonder that the behavior of many parties should have made persons of tender and scrupulous virtue somewhat out of humor with all sorts of connection in politics. I admit that people frequently acquire in such confederacies a narrow, bigoted and proscriptive spirit; that they are apt to sink the idea of the general good in this circumscribed and partial interest. But where duty renders a critical situation a necessary one, it is our business to keep free from the evils attendant upon it, and not to fly from the situation itself. If a fortress is seated in an unwholesome air an officer of the garrison is obliged to be attentive to his health, but he must not desert his station. EDMUND BURKE.

THE way the stock market has taken the bad news of the week, the strikes with accompanying violence, the storms and the unsatisfactory condition of general business has been very encouraging to the holders of securities whose confidence was particularly sustained by the strength and advance in the face of the large gold engagements. In fact prices have not yet reached a point where the ordinary bad news can hurt them. It is still not difficult to find in the list stocks and bonds selling at low prices, which, notwithstanding the conditions, give good promise of maintaining the fair return they now make on the investment. While such is the fact the news must be very bad indeed, to drive prices down far. Atchison securities promise to become the immediate feature. It is reported that the plan for putting the company on its feet again is about to be announced. The break in the drought in Kansas is directly beneficial to the company, because it has so much mileage in that State and it is not unlikely that the practical assurance of the crop in that State will be taken as a fitting occasion to restore the company to credit. The most reasonable explanation of the nearly four millions of dollars gold for shipment in one day, is that remitters have been holding back expecting to see a fall in Exchange, and failing that have been obliged at last to ship gold. With the present narrow limits of foreign trade and the absence of other causes that ordinarily tend to equalize balances between this country and Europe, it may be that remittances against travelers' drafts, which promise to be very considerable this year, may cause the export of gold to assume very considerable proportions before it ceases. Foreign buying of our securities, should it assume great proportions, would offset this, but at present this cannot be relied on to check the export of gold. The depression of the world's business is causing the return to London of a great deal of capital, and as a consequence the gold in the Bank of England has increased in the past year more than that of all the other great state European banks put together, and the bank has also an unprecedently high reserve. The development of the Tariff discussion in the Senate still favors the market movements of the Industrials. Secretary Carlisle's sounding of the market on its capacity to take more government bonds, favors the idea that there will be no tariff legislation this year. General business in almost every department can be best characterized by the word slow.

THE issue of new capital in London for the first quarter of the current year exceeded that of the corresponding period of last year by $12,500,000. That is undoubtedly a sign of renewed activity, but how deep is the depression from which emergence is now being made is seen from the fact that notwithstanding the increase over last year the new capital of the first quarter of 1894 is only about one-third what it was in the same time in any of the three years prior to last year. The figures for the five years are: 1894, $51,325,000; 1893, $38,850,000; 1892, $155,620,000; 1891, $153,225,000; 1890, $152,245,000. The new Canadian Tariff Bill is greeted with satisfaction in England as an acceptable break in the protectionist policy of the Dominion. It is reported in connection with the withdrawal of Italian silver coins from circulation in France that the government of the latter country, although it has provided for the exchange of the Italian coins, may increase its own silver currency by from 10,000,000 to 12,000,000 francs. Paris is to be congratulated if it is, as is reported, to have underground rapid transit. This question has always been raised whenever an international exposition has been decided on, but the differences between the State and the City of Paris as to what was required, the former desiring strategic connections with the great lines of railroads of the country, and the city being unwilling to facilitate emigration to the suburbs, as well as the great difficulty of raising the necessary capital have always hitherto proved to be insurmountable. The continued belief in Germany in an early return of general prosperity is strengthening all the markets there, even prices for manufactured iron are advancing. The same remark applies to Austria. Great public works are the order of the day in Europe, among them it is proposed to clear the channel of the Danube, so that in ten years ocean steamers can unload in Vienna. The final official forecast of this year's Indian cotton crop estimates the yield at 2,349,500 bales of 400 lbs. each against 1,913,700 bales in 1892-93. The area under cultivation increased 15.7 per cent. The depression in business has sent the young men of Western Australia prospecting for gold; as a consequence exports of the yellow metal from that province in the last three months of 1893 were $926,600 as compared with $505,200 in the same time in the preceding year, and the prospects for still better results this year are good. Reports of increases of gold production come from so many sources that the world's output in 1894 should pass the record of any previous year.

DESPITE the fact that progress has been made this week, the probabilities that the Chamber of Commerce Rapid Transit Bill will be passed by the present State Legislature are still very small. The city authorities have publicly placed themselves in an uncompromising position of hostility to the measure, and we take it for granted that this opposition will be decisive, in view of the undoubted copartnership that exists between the leaders of Tammany Hall and the gentlemen now in control of the State Republican machine. Were there a strong, emphatic, pronounced public support given to the Chamber of Commerce bill this opposition might be less potent, but with the people of this city as apathetic as they are, there is no impediment to playing the game of "politics" for "all it is worth."

INDEED, why should not the selfish, personal considerations of politicians rule in a matter where the citizens of New York show themselves totally indifferent to the promotion of the larger interests of the Metropolis? We publish elsewhere in this paper a review of the Real Estate Market, which in many particulars is markedly unsatisfactory. It will be seen that in the upper wards on the East Side—on the West Side and in Harlem—real estate is far from being in a flourishing condition. This is partly due, undoubtedly, to the present unpropitious state of general trade, but it is indisputable that the existing intolerable condition of Rapid Transit has contributed not a little to the dullness and the weakness prevalent. The upper part of this island, to say nothing of the great wards beyond the Harlem, into which population should be spreading, is in a state of arrested development. Even if general business were booming it would be quite impossible for there to be in that region really active buying, building or renting. The channels for prosperity are choked. Expansion and enterprise on an important scale are impossible. With thousands of people, the inconvenience and barbarism of the journey up town detracts, to state the matter in figures, fully 25 per cent from the desirableness of residence anywhere above 59th street. There can be no doubt that rather than endure the trip thousands who would otherwise be living in the region around Central Park have established themselves in the central part of the city or have moved into the metropolitan era which is building up in New Jersey and Long Island at a pace with which few New Yorkers are acquainted. An indication of this is afforded by the attention which firms dealing in builders' supplies are beginning to give to suburban trade, to which a few years ago they were quite indifferent. Our weekly lists of building operations within 20 miles of New York along all the great Jersey trunk lines and in Long Island, furnish indisputable evidence of a development which relatively greatly exceeds any progress at present being made on Manhattan Island. To-day, in the suburban region, there are several hundred houses in the course of construction, each of them costing from five to fifty thousand dollars. We omit the cheaper buildings of which, of course, there are a very much larger number. All of these dwellings will be inhabited by New Yorkers, and the investigator has only to move among these people to discover how many of them are leaving New York on account of our inadequate and bestial rapid transit service. Had we an underground system such as that contemplated in the Chamber of Commerce bill a large proportion of these immigrants would be investing their money in upper New York realty, renting houses there and filling our apartment buildings. New York is growing very rapidly, but real estate is not reaping all the benefits of that growth which under ordinary circumstances would be obtained. We wish the Real Estate Exchange would undertake an object lesson for the benefit of the class of which it is the representative head. The Committee on Rapid Transit should station its several members, one at each of the different ferry houses, between the hours of 5 and 7 o'clock any evening, and then report in full their experiences and judgments as to the bearings which what they witness has upon New York real estate. Were this done, we believe there would be a livelier interest taken in the Chamber of Commerce Bill, or in any legitimate measure that endeavors, in the interests of the people, to provide the city with rapider and more comfortable transportation.

Private Property.—V.*

By Richard T. Ely, University of Wisconsin.

PRIVATE PROPERTY A SOCIAL TRUST.

IT is often asserted from the pulpit that private property is a trust committed to us to be used for the advancement of human interests. This view is clearly brought out in the Bible. What has been said in these articles shows that it is true not only in a religious sense that property is a trust, but in an economic and legal sense as well. We have a confirmation of the theological doctrine of stewardship which must be gratifyiug to those who have not known that it found support outside of divine revelation.

This view of private property opens before us a vast field of thought. It gives a point of departure for criticism of existing institutions and for the work of social reconstruction and progress.

There are endless controversies about the right to regulate the use of private property and judicial decisions in regard to its regulation are not by any means harmonious in character. Sometimes the regulation is allowed and sometimes rejected, but when it is allowed the judges often seem perplexed to know how to justify it. The view here presented makes the right to regulate the use of private property a part of the institution itself. There is no abuse which it would not be proper to remove could a way be devised. All laws of private property necessarily give latitude for a great deal of abuse of property, but it is not because the abuse is any essential part of the institutron, but because it is so difficult to remove the possibility of abuse without at the same time interfering with rightful use. What we are now discussing is of course the idea of property. As this has not always been clearly grasped abuse has frequently grown up which could be removed. But the development of property must necessarily tend to the removal of abuses whenever a clear method for this removal is presented which does not at the same time prevent a desirable use. Laws and constitutions must be brought into harmony with this demand if peaceful progress is to continue.

A concrete illustration is useful at this point. The City of Baltimore passed an ordinance regulating the width of houses in a certain part of the city. It therefore became unlawful to construct a house which did not come up to a certain minimum in width. What this minimum was the writer does not remember, but it made it unlawful to construct houses which did not exceed 12 feet 8 inches in width. Now the owner of land having a frontage of 50 feet on Charles street, which was included in this regulated district, proposed to construct four dwellings on it which would give an average of 12 feet 6 inches in width, the widest house having a frontage of 12 feet 8 inches. It was necessary to secure a permit from the Appeal Tax Court and this was refused. But one of the judges of the Supreme Court ordered a mandamus to compel the Tax Court to issue the permit. He took the ground that the Constitution granted to every citizen the right of private property, and that private property should not be taken without compensation. The judge declared that one of the incidents of ownership of property was that the owner should use it as he saw fit, so long as he did not create a nuisance. He decided that to say that the owner should not use it in one way, or only in a particular way. deprives him to that extent of the right to use his property.

This decision was perhaps somewhat unusual, because the right to regulate use in cities has been recognized the world over from time immemorial. When the judge was questioned in regard to his decision, by the writer, it transpired that the attorney for the city had made no argument in behalf of the constitutional right of the city to pass such an ordinance. The judge stated that he would have been very glad indeed to have heard an argument on behalf of the constitutional right of the city, but the arguments were all on one side. This would seem to show strange ignorance on the part of the attorney for the city, for he should have been able to have found some grounds for argument in behalf of the city. When, however, it is clearly recognized that private property exists for social pnrposes, there can be no question about such regulation as will promote the interests of society as a whole. This is altogether apart from the question whether this particular ordinance was desirable or not.

There can be no doubt about the possible lengths to which the principle of trusteeship on behalf of society can go. If property is a social trust, it has been objected that the terms of the trust may be modified without limit, or that the trusteeship may be abolished altogether. Such is unquestionably the case. The superior right of society carries with it the right to annihilate the institution. This is a view so contrary to our ordinary habits of thought that it is desirable to confirm it by most ample testimony. What are the opinions in regard to property which have been held by thinkers who have given careful attention to the subject? We desire the views of thinkers of various classes. What does the religious writer teach us? What has the preacher to say? The ethical teacher? The social philosopher? The economist? The jurist?

It is frequently enough urged against this or that regulation of property which it is claimed will impair the value of property, "Thou shalt not steal!" It is often asserted that the impairment of the value of private property amounts to theft by the State. If what has been said is true, the State cannot steal, so long as constitutional and legal methods are followed. The State may do grievous wrong and injustice, but the term theft is not one which is proper in the characterization of its action. Confiscation is the term which is ordinarily applied to a seizure of property by the State, and this shows the feeling that it is different from theft. It is noteworthy that that great law-giver, Moses, who issued the command: "Thou shalt not steal!" was one to limit as scarcely any other law-giver, the right of private property. He hemmed it in and restricted it at every turn, in order that he might promote the interest of the nation. The regulations of the Mosaic Code would be impossible in the United States to-day without serious modifications of our constitutions.

Quotations of varied character will follow in order to present the views of different persons in their own language. Canon Fremantle, of Canterbury, one of the best known preachers in the Established Church of England, uses the following language in regard to the control of property by the State:

"The nation is the most complete of all the societies of men now in existence. We are necessarily pledged to it with our whole existence in this world, for it has the power of directing and even of resuming all our possessions, and of life and death over our persons."

Professor Friedrich Paulsen, a conservative writer on ethics, gives his opinion in these words:

"If it is true that expediency supports us in our private property, if it is true that we hold it by the consent of society as a trust for the race, the same expediency may finally demand that we surrender it, the same society may withdraw its consent and ask that the trust be used otherwise."*

Benjamin Franklin, whose common sense amounted to genius, states his view of the origin and limitations of private property as follows:

"Suppose one of our Indian nations should now agree to form a civil society, each individual would bring into the stock of the society little more than his gun and his blanket, for at present he has no other; we know that when one of them has attempted to keep a few swine he has not been able to maintain a property in them, his neighbors thinking they have a right to kill and eat them whenever they want provision, it being one of their maxims that hunting is free for all. The accumulation, therefore, of property in such a society, and its security to individuals in every society, must be an effect of the protection afforded to it by the joint strength of the society in the execution of its laws. Private property, therefore, is a creature of society, and is subject to the calls of that society whenever its necessities shall require it, even to its last farthing."

Professor H. von Scheel, a well-known economist of Berlin, argues that it cannot be urged against the social theory of private property that it is absurd because it makes it possible for the State to abolish private property: "For it cannot be denied that this power inheres in the State." He adds that it is scarcely conceivable that the exercise of this power should be desirable, but in regard to the power he holds there can be no question.

Lord Brannwell, an English jurist, uses these words in regard to private property:

"Private property exists of right in such things, and to such extent as is for the good of the community; if it can be shown that the existence of private property is not for the good of the community, then it ought to be abolished."

The Supreme Court of North Carolina, in a decision, uses the following language:

"Is there any reason why the State shall be denied the power to tax a succession, whether it be by gift inter vivos, or by will or intestacy? Property itself, as well as the succession to it, is the creature of positive law. The legislative power declares what objects in nature may be held as property; it provides by what forms and on what conditions it may be transmitted from one person to another. * * * The right to give or take property is not one of those natural and inalienable rights which are supposed to precede government, and which no government can rightfully impair. There was a time, at least as to gift by will, when it did not exist; and there may be a time again when it will seem wise and expedient to deny it." (Pullen vs. Commissioners, 66 N. C., 361.)

OUR investigations—the results of which are published elsewhere—into the condition of the real estate market have disclosed certain facts which we commend to the serious attention of the Rev. Doctor Parkhurst and his society. The crusade that the Doctor is carrying on with so much admirable determination against a particular form of vice is one that in many respects should enlist the sympathy and support of good citizens. In these days when the intelligence and morality of the city are, in all that concerns the good government of the municipality, so exclusively critical and negative, it is especially refreshing to find some one of force and prominence ready to engage in the actual hard work of reform. We wish heartily that it were not necessary to diminish by adverse criticism of any kind the exemplary force of the object-lesson which the Doctor is giving to the community, but it is not possible to be silent concerning the ominous but indubitable fact that the Parkhurst crusade, instead of exterminating, is merely spreading vice into districts of the city where it has not hitherto existed, at least in public form. It is impossible for us to give all the facts in our possession. The most that we can do is to generalize somewhat the information which we have received from many real estate brokers and others. All this goes to show that police activity in the Tenderloin district and elsewhere of late has resulted in a pernicious invasion of respectable localities by disreputable women. This class is now to be found where it would be suspected the least. No amount of care on the part of agents or landlords, it is said, has been quite successful in excluding these undesirable tenants, and it must be acknowledged that in some cases where property has been long idle, and upon which taxes and interest are accumulating, landlords have been wilfully lax rather than scrupulously careful. Surely it cannot be maintained that it is better to scatter the disease throughout the town than to confine it to one lazaretto district. Dr. Parkhurst should have a talk with real estate men.

Legislation at Albany.

ALBANY, April 12.—Rapid transit for New York City is still unprovided for by the present Legislature and apparently will be until it adjourns. The Manhattan Elevated Railway Company will not permit any bill to be passed which would enable New York to obtain an underground road, a viaduct road, or any rapid transit road. That is precisely the situation.

The Manhattan Elevated Railway Company is a wealthy concern, it makes contributions to State political committees, it aids candidates for the Legislature to be elected, it "reaches" the corrupt element in the Legislature. No until some well-defined policy concerning rapid transit has been put forward by a political party, and it has elected candidates upon that issue, therefore, will a genuine rapid transit bill be passed: for even the corrupt members of the Legislature feel bound to vote for bills which have been made "party questions."

Such of the Republican leaders, as Senator Saxton and Speaker Malby, who sincerely favor the passage of the bill of the Chamber of Commerce, naming a new rapid transit commission for New York, and providing for the construction of a road by a private corporation with the city money, are embarrassed in carrying out their programme by the accidental character of the Republican majority. There are eleven Republican Assemblymen, for instance, from the city of Brooklyn. When they were nominated no one dreamed for a moment that more than two out of the eleven would ever go to Albany, and as a consequence men were nominated without any party scrutiny of their moral character or ability to act as legislators. But the political avalanche of last fall came along in Brooklyn and elected these men, and here they are, a set of adventurers, aware that their first term as an Assemblyman will be their last. The unstable character of the Republican majority was revealed in the Assembly glaringly upon Monday night last, when a motion of Ex-Speaker Sulzer was adopted recommitting to the Assembly Committee on Cities the bill of Mr. Sheffield, of New York, authorizing the Mayors of New York hereafter elected to appoint, if they so please, new heads of city departments. The object of this bill was to create a responsible government in New York similar to that which they have in Brooklyn, where every head of a city department is appointed by the Mayor thirty days after he comes into office. One would naturally infer that the Republican Assemblymen from Brooklyn therefore would vote against Mr. Sulzer's motion, which was a motion indirectly to kill the bill. Upon the contrary, eight of the eleven Brooklyn Republicans voted with Sulzer, a ninth ran out of the Assembly Chamber, and only two voted against the bill. At the same time two rural Republicans voted with Sulzer, and one New York "accidental Republican," Robertson. Further, about a dozen rural Republicans walked out of the Assembly Chamber, and thus permitted Mr. Sulzer to succeed in his motion.

This action favorable to Tammany Hall in a Republican Assembly was taken despite every effort by the Republican Speaker, Mr. Malby. The only explanation to be given, and that is given by "practical politicians," is that a certain number of the Republican Assemblymen were bought up with money sent here by the city departments of New York City, which thought themselves put in peril by the Sheffield bill. Political influence also, which crosses all political lines, was also used successfully against the Sheffield bill. Corporation Counsel Clark, who has been here for two weeks past fighting the Sheffield bill, said he had done a great many favors for various people, and now he was calling upon them with reason and successfully to reciprocate by opposing the Sheffield bill. Mr. Clark's term of office might be abridged by the Sheffield bill, if it should become a law, and therefore he has a strong personal reason for fighting the bill.

The Assembly Committee on Cities on Wednesday decided to report favorably Mr. Sheffield's rapid transit bill—that is the bill of the Chamber of Commerce. So far so good; but as already declared the Legislature is largely an "accidental" one, and the same political adventurers who amazed every one by aiding Mr. Sulzer to kill Mr. Sheffield's bill giving the Mayor of New York the power of removing heads of departments may again join him when he opposes this bill of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mayor Gilroy has been here for two days holding a conference with Governor Flower and the leading Democratic members of the Legislature. Undoubtedly Mr. Gilroy has informed Mr. Flower of just what ought to be done with all the bills affecting New York, and especially with the various rapid transit measures. If Governor Flower takes Mayor Gilroy's advice he will veto the rapid transit bill of the Chamber of Commerce, and also that introduced by Senator Lexow and Assemblyman Butts, which provides for the construction and operation of a rapid transit road by the city itself. The chief ground of Mayor Gilroy's objection to both bills is that the City of New York is within $49,000,000 of its constitutional limit of authority to incur debt. This objection is not considered a good one by Senator Saxton and Speaker Malby, they believing that Mayor Gilroy has exaggerated mistakenly the cost of a rapid transit road when he puts it at $100,000,000, and further that the expenditures for the proposed rapid transit road being spread over a large number of years the debt limit might never be reached.

The Lexow-Butts rapid transit bill is now on the order of third reading in the Senate, but there is no possibility of its passage, since the Tammany Hall Senators, under Mayor Gilroy's direction, will oppose it, and most of the Republican Senators were already opposed to it because of its giving the construction and operation of a rapid transit road to Tammany Hall. Senator Lexow, by the way, declares that he will strike out of the bill its provisions giving the Manhattan Elevated Railway Company a monopoly of the elevated railway business south of 129th street.

The Republican Senators held a caucus this week and decided to enlarge the field within which the Lexow Police Department Investigating Committee may operate by including the Department of Excise and the Department of Charities and Correction. Why the Dock Department was not included in this investigation is a mystery. It seems to have a big "pull" here in Albany. Perhaps Dock Commissioner "Andy" White has created it during his stay here the past two weeks. Meanwhile Assemblyman Lawson's bill, providing that the work of the Dock Department shall be done by contract, remains in the possession of the Assembly Committee on Cities. Speaking about Mr. Lawson's bill, Mayor Gilroy said yesterday: "I think the provisions of existing laws applying to contracts should be applied to the Dock Department; where there is any work exceeding $1,000 it should be given out by contract in open competition unless authority is secured from the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. But Mr. Lawson's provision, making the work to be done by contract only $250, I consider ridiculous and therefore am opposed to the bill." This would seem to be a hint to Mr. Lawson to raise the limit.

The Assembly Committee on Cities has decided to report favorably Senator Lexow's bill sweeping away the present Board of Police of New York and substituting a Board of two Democrats and two Republicans. The bill was strengthened in the Assembly Committee on Cities by the conferring upon Superintendent Byrnes of the power to discipline any member of the uniformed force. Before this amendment he could only discipline men below the rank of captain. He also is authorized to make transfers and assignments of policemen.

The Senate has passed Senator Cantor's bill limiting the awards growing out of the depression of railway tracks in the Annexed District.

The Assembly has passed Assemblyman Reilly's bill establishing Fort Washington Park in the 12th Ward of New York; Mr. Sulzer's bill prohibiting the "padrone system" of hiring laborers in New York; Senator Ahearn's providing for the purchase of fire hydrants by the Fire Department, and Mr. Lawson's bill providing for vacations for the doormen of the New York police.

Review of the Real Estate Market to Date.

Under the conditions that have hitherto influenced the real estate business, we ought now to be in the midst of the most active part of the year's business. So far as they have been influenced by times and seasons, people have been accustomed to expect a livelier market, a better general condition in buying and selling, both at public auction and through brokerage, and in renting of houses, offices and small stores in the five to eight weeks preceding the 1st of May than at any other time of the year. It is now but two weeks until the 1st of May, and a serious consideration of the character and amount of business that has been consummated and of the present aspects of the market, frankly speaking, leave much to be desired.

The renting season in the dry-goods district was by all accounts exceedingly poor. The close of the season on the 1st of January left a larger number of stores and lofts unplaced than in any previous season for several years. Brokers and agents encountered one universal complaint, alike from low-tariff and high-tariff men, that business was flat because of the uncertainty of tariff legislation. The domestic manufacturer, threatened by a low tariff measure, dared not make goods, for fear that when they were ready the market would be full of low-tariff goods, and if he had dared he could not have obtained the usual financial accommodations that would enable him to do so. The importer dared not import goods under the prevailing high tariff, for fear that as soon as he had paid the duties the low tariff would be enacted, and his goods would remain on his hands or have to be sold at a loss. There followed, therefore, an inevitable contraction in trade. Business men surrendered parts of their stores, or abandoned them and sought smaller quarters elsewhere, and those who remained sought, and generally obtained, material reductions in their rents. Hence the large number of "To Let" signs in the dry-goods district. Fortunate was the owner whose leases did not expire, but have still a year or more to run, and whose tenants are responsible.

The first of February should have found office leasing at its best also, but in that department also there has been a notable shrinkage in business. It has been a matter for wonder how all the new office buildings rented so readily and rapidly up to about the first of the year. Before the foundations were laid, floor plans of everyone of these buildings were put in the hands of their hustling agents, and by the time the buildings were finished and ready for occupancy most of them were rented. There were some notable exceptions to this rule, however, where owners were slow in yielding to the influences at work on such properties. So long as there were tenants in old style buildings to draw from, it was not difficult to rent offices in the newer, lighter and better equipped sky-scrapers, even at the same and generally at lower rentals. But this source of supply seems to be pretty nearly exhausted, and lately the new buildings have began competing with each other. Of course, there are special cases to which this general movement does not apply. There are occupants of offices in some of the old style buildings who could not move without seriously disturbing the even flow of their business, and these will not change except under great pressure. But all along Broadway, from Fulton street to Bowling Green, and in all the side streets, at least 60 per cent of the buildings are displaying rent signs. Out of eleven buildings on the easterly side of Park row seven have such signs, and the proportion is about the same in all the streets below Fulton street. One of the important results of this competition is that the rents of offices have been considerably reduced. Where a year ago the owners were demanding $2 per square foot and upwards, they have come down to $1.50, and brokers tell of instances where offices have rented at $1 per square foot in the newest buildings, and the owner has paid the tenants' moving expenses.

That these changes have had no serious effect upon values is due to two facts: first, that the values of real properties are not determined by any single year's income, but from the income upon the investment during a long period of years and upon the general tendency of investments; second, that the transformation process now in progress, by which the older buildings of limited capacity are being replaced by new ones of three, four, five and even six times the capacity of the old buildings and by a system of construction costing at least 75 per cent less per cubic foot than the older office buildings, presents a new condition to which the district has not yet adjusted itself. It appears to be certain that the old properties must be improved in accordance with the present prevailing tendency or their fee values will have to be adjusted to their diminished incomes. As to the newly improved properties, for a time it seemed as if the vastly increased incomes from them would be counterbalanced by a relative increase in the values of lots that are susceptible of such improvement. And for some of the choicest sites in Broadway, Wall, Pine and Cedar streets the prices that have been paid for building sites will doubtless always be sustained by the incomes that will be derived from the improved properties, for they have been and are being built in exceptionally favorable building periods. But the new competition, by reason of which the rental incomes from such properties have been materially reduced, has dissipated that prospect, and while the fee values of old properties are not expected to decline, they will be based upon conservative estimates of their income-producing capacity when reimproved in accordance with the tendency of the district.

Business properties off to the east and west of the office districts have held their own fairly well, but some that were not rented in the season may now be had for the balance of the year at greatly reduced rates.

In the matter of dwelling properties there is a universal depression. In the corresponding season a year ago the demand for small houses was far in advance of the supply, and owners were fortunate who rented then to responsible tenants for two or more years. Even the larger houses were in good demand, and owners found little cause for complaint until after the 1st of June. This year the conditions are reversed. Out of a large number of brokers specially interviewed upon this subject, but one firm denied that there had been any reductions in their rents, or that they had failed to rent all their properties. In every other office, in the middle district, below 59th street, on the West Side, along the entire length of 5th avenue, on the West Side above 59th street, and in Harlem, private dwellings were said to be renting very slowly, although concessions of from 8 to 20 per cent were universally offered. Two facts appeared to be apparent in the experience of the brokers: that the remnants of the spring renting market were being transferred to the fall season, and that a good many owners were striving to economize by trying to rent their houses, furnished and unfurnished, they going into apartments or to their country seats. In one of the older offices, out of a list of about seventy-five houses, only thirteen had been rented up to yesterday afternoon. The agent in that case said that the police crusade against houses of ill-fame had resulted in throwing much of that class of property back upon their hands, and until the spasm of ill-considered morality had passed it would be difficult to rent such houses. In other offices the inclement weather of the last week was charged with the poor renting business, but after all allowances were made it was admitted everywhere that houses and flats were in poor demand, and rents were off to an average of 10 per cent.

In the tenement districts the condition of things was quite as bad. It is best reflected by the records of the civil district court, in which, as during last year, the dispossess cases continue to be the principal business of the courts. Nominally, the rents have not greatly declined. But tenants have doubled up and have gone into more restricted quarters, under stress of the hard times, leaving a considerable percentage of their former holdings unoccupied.

In the brokerage business the predominant feature of the business of the last three months has been the trading of equities in large properties. In nearly all these cases effort was made to give the transaction the appearance and importance of a sale, by announcing part of the transaction at one time and part at another, or by giving it currency through the papers as a sale. To those who are familiar with the course of business these transactions have been only evidences of the jaded condition of the market. The fair and accurate interpretation of such transactions is that one of the parties at least is shifting for easier financial conditions. It is not necessary and it would be unjust to refer to particular instances, but the initiated will not be deceived either by the false character or the false figures under which these transactions usually appear.

In and with this, however, is the fact that shrewd operators, who knows something of the tendencies of New York City realty, have made the best of the occasional opportunities that have been presented during this period of depression, and have laid by some choice parcels that have been forced upon the market. It has been a buyers' market for nearly a year, and even now, the man who is content with 6 or 7 per cent net upon his investment, in monthly or quarterly installments, can be accommodated with the property that will insure it to him in nearly every responsible broker's office.

For new houses the market has been a generally disappointing one. If the announcements could always be believed, the sales that have taken place have been at full value, but the brokers universally admit that the figures at which they have been announced were from 20 to 30 per cent higher than were actually obtained. Property of this kind has seldom been classed as investment property, but at present prices it can be purchased at prices which are safe to return from 7 to 10 per cent upon the necessary investment. One prominent broker instanced a house which had cost the owner $48,000, and which was rented for five years to a good tenant at $3,000 a year and water tax and repairs. There is a mortgage of $32,500 upon it at 5 per cent. The owner would sell the house for $42,000. The buyer would thus have to pay $9,500 for the equity. Deducting from the rent $1,625 of interest and $410 of taxes, would leave the owner $965 annual income upon his investment of $9,500. This condition of things could be repeated many times on the West Side, the broker said, and his statement was substantiated in many other offices.

The auction market has presented nothing outside of foreclosure and a few minor partition sales. Responsible auctioneers have advised against offering property at auction during the prevailing depression, and where an effort had been made to discount the spring market it failed, and the sale, on the advice of the auctioneers, was postponed.

For the present the market is best described as very inactive. Owners are not disposed to sell at lower prices than those of last year, and investment seekers are unwilling to buy upon less than a 6 per cent net income basis. Where property is well rented they are ready to take it on that basis, and as to the best property, even on a 5½ or 5 per cent basis. But vacant property would be difficult to sell except at a material reduction. The better informed brokers agree that there is but little business in prospect until the fall renting season opens in September. By that time the tariff legislation will have been disposed of one way or the other, and business of all kinds will have gained an impetus from the short stocks and renewed requirements of the people, and real estate may expect to profit somewhat by it. The course of the market during the last three months and at this time is but another demonstration of the experience of former years—that real estate is the last to be seriously affected by a prolonged period of financial and business depression, and is one of the last to recover from it.

Rapid Transit Matters.

The forces that are working for real rapid transit are concentrating their effort upon securing the passage of the Chamber of Commerce bill. It has been reported favorably in the Senate, and a conference committee has been appointed to see if it cannot be urged through both houses. But little time remains, however, and it is essential to the success of the measure that united effort should be made at this end of the line to put it through. The present commission is practically broken up over the Bushe elevated road scheme. Bushe and Porter have been doing all in their power to rush it through, in obedience to some hidden influence, and they until recently had Mr. Steinway with them. But Messrs. Starin and Inman have refused to be moved like puppets in the hands of the hidden influence, and the scheme has thus been blocked. Mr. Inman said nothing would be done by the present board until the Legislature had acted upon the bill to legislate it out of office. If the bill failed to pass, the present board would doubtless put through the Bushe scheme. He said he could add nothing to what had already been published about the proposition from a private syndicate to build the underground road. What has thus far been made public has been very hazy.

The Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange has called a special meeting to discuss the rapid transit bills now before the Legislature. The meeting will be held on Monday at 2 o'clock at the Exchange Rooms, No. 289 4th avenue. Special interest attaches to it from the fact that President Isaac A. Hopper is an intimate personal friend of Mayor Gilroy and Commissioner Porter.

Personal.

Edgar Williams, for seven years an attache of the Real Estate Exchange, and lately with Peter F. Meyer & Co., has become connected with the brokerage office of John R. Foley.

ORGANIZING AGAINST THE SPREAD OF IMMORALITY.

The Landlords' and Brokers' Protective Association will soon be organized on the Lower East Side by owners and brokers in the 7th, 10th, 11th and 13th Wards. The police activity in raiding and closing disorderly houses has led the occupants to take apartments in tenements. The result is demoralizing to the respectable tenants and their children, who are forced to witness shocking scenes, and disastrous to owners who soon loose the best tenants and are liable for the costs of dispossessing the disorderly characters or to prosecution for harboring them. Such owners as Morris Levy, Jacob L. Lissner and Alex. Haft and Brokers Katz & Co., are very much interested in getting property-owners and brokers to realize the necessity of organization, to take early action against an evil which is at once demoralizing the young and ruining real estate.

A STRAW WHICH SHOWS WHICH WAY THE WIND IS BLOWING.

A resume of the business transacted by the Daily News Savings and Building Loan Association during the first three months of this year, compared with the corresponding period for 1893, shows the following agreeable contrast :

Receipts, 1893, $69,942.18; 1894, $96,191.82.

Loans, 1893, $29,800.00; 1894, $58,383.34.

Withdrawals, 1893, $39,784.93; 1894, $25,280.57.

A better indication could hardly be found that, among the wage-earners, salaried workers and small tradespeople, the worst of the hard times are past.

THE INSURANCE CLUB'S NEW ROOMS.

The new quarters of the Insurance Club in the tower of the addition to the Mutual Life building, at No. 32 Liberty street, were crowded last Saturday afternoon, when the club formally received its friends and dedicated its new rooms. Many prominent real estate brokers were present, and everybody seemed pleased with the arrangements and furnishing of the rooms. The club now has 800 members, against 550 a year ago, and it is expected that 1,000 members will be enrolled by next October.

REMOVAL NOTICE.

He subsequently sold it to a party for $122,500, but the buyer backed out of the trade after having given his check for the earnest money; but they tried subsequently to enforce the deal on an offer from Ascher Weinstein of $2,500 for their contract. This deal, however, fell through.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, APRIL 14, 1894.

Consolidation and Taxes.

ONE of the peculiar phases of the debate on the consolidation question is the apprehension of New York that her taxes will be increased to equalize with a diminished tax in Brooklyn. The New Yorkers point to their low rate for several years, averaging, say $1.90, and to the Brooklyn rate for the same period, averaging, say $2.80, and adding them together and then dividing by 2 to get the average, say: "$2.35—that will be the equalized tax rate, and it means an addition of nearly 25 per cent to our taxes." The figuring is correct, but the premises are all wrong. New York is in no such jeopardy.

If a man owns two pieces of property that are paying him 10 per cent profit per annum, would he disdain a gift of another piece because it is paying only 7 per cent? That, it appears to us, is the exact form of the problem involved in the consolidation question. Why should Brooklyn be considered as a separate entity, with different vital organs and a weaker digestive system than New York? Under consolidation would she not figure in the tax lists, in the annual appropriations and in the apportionment of administration expenses just exactly like one of the wards of Manhattan Island? Will not the new government make the levy and apportion the tax? And is there any great danger that the 900,000 people of Brooklyn will outvote and pillage the 1,900,000 of New York?

But there is another sufficient answer to this apprehension of some of the New York taxpayers: It is eight miles from the Battery to the Harlem River and but seven from the Battery to Bensonhurst, on Gravesend Bay. But the journey can be made quicker and with a greater degree of comfort from the Battery to Bensonhurst or Fort Hamilton than from the Battery to the Harlem River. Limits of time fix the boundaries of residence from the common business centre, which is New York City below 14th street. Those who can most easily reach this centre from Harlem and the North Side, and can afford to do so, will live there. Those, on the other hand, who can find the best accommodations out Brooklyn way, and for less money, will live in Brooklyn. Opening up new lines of transit to Harlem may result in the building up of that section of the city, and may plant a few more people there, but soon the new lines of transit will be choked up as the elevated railroads are now choked up, and then the tide of population will resume its natural flow towards the ocean.

It is because of this natural trend of population from the business centre towards the most easily accessible open spaces that Brooklyn has in recent years grown more rapidly than New York, and will continue so to grow. Of course, the spreading out of population over new territory requires new street improvements, which cost money, but because of that should the incrsase of population be discouraged? Of what value would Wall street or Broadway real estate be if the 3,000,000 population within the ten mile circuit should shrivel to 3,000? To some extent, great or little, every new house, every additional family established on the outskirts of the Metropolitan district adds to the value of all other property within the circuit, and that benefits most from the steady increase which lies nearest to the centre.

Being then identical in interest, why should New York and Brooklyn keep up separate municipal establishments? Why should New York confine her developing enterprises to Manhattan Island? Why should she not accept the natural situation, take Brooklyn to herself and visit upon her some of her developing enterprise? Then Brooklyn realty values would advance to some sort of parity with New York's, and tax assessments might be increased and the tax rate lowered; then administrative expenses would be reduced and less money would be needed and taxes would be further reduced. The equalization of taxes would come naturally that way. But beyond all this New York, being mistress of the entire situation, could levy all the taxes she pleased on Brooklyn so long as the tax rate was equal to her own, and could spend as little as she pleased on Brooklyn. A tax rate of $1.73 on Brooklyn property would more than pay all the fixed charges New York would be under by assuming the debt of Brooklyn, and would leave a sufficient margin for all the necessary expenses of government besides.

Notes Gathered Here and There.

A conference was held in the Mayor's office, on Tuesday afternoon, between Mayor Schieren, City Works Commissioner White and a committee of marketmen from the Merchants' Association of Wallabout Market, with regard to improvements in the market buildings or stands. The buildings now in the market are of various heights, and most of them are of frame, and are very flimsy structures. The idea now is to give some uniformity to the place, and to make it more attractive so that when the newly-acquired lands on the opposite side of Washington avenue are opened it will be a credit to the city. Commissioner White said that it was proposed to have the buildings on Washington and Flushing avenues that are not now three stories raised to that height, and all frame structures would be changed to brick. The fronts would probably be of pressed brick and of uniform design. The Mayor suggested that Commissioner White should have a design prepared for the corner of Washington and Flushing avenues, with the cost of the improvements for each present owner and submit the whole to the committee at another meeting. This was agreed to.

Deputy United States Marshal Biggart served the papers upon Mayor Schieren and Registrar of Arrears Hinrichs on Tues lay last, enjoining the City of Brooklyn from selling any part of the Litchfield estate at public auction for arrearage of taxes. There have been six separate causes of action commenced in the United States Circuit Court in this city to test the constitutionality of the tax sale law. One is brought by Henry P. Litchfield, three by Edward H. Litchfield and one by Grace Denio Litchfield and the other by the Brooklyn Improvement Company. The Litchfield estate is indebted to the city to the amount of about $900,000 for taxes. The papers filed in the case attack the constitutionality of the law and cite Supreme Court decisions against it. Lawyers William C. De Witt and Gen. Benjamin F. Tracy are counsel for the estate.

Charles Infanger who, for the past eight years, has been identified with the builders and investors of the 26th Ward as one of the foremost architects of that section has removed his office from the corner of Atlantic and Van Siclen avenues to the 26th Ward Bank Building, corner of Atlantic and Georgia avenues.

The storage reservoir built at Rockville Centre by Contractor Edward Freel for the city of Brooklyn, costing $1,000,000, is being critically examined by a board of expert engineers. Engineer Van Buren, of the City Works Department, has also been ordered to make a report on the reservoir to Commissioner White. Work was completed last fall, and a test made in February. Water was pumped into the reservoir at the rate of 5,600,000 gallons a day for nineteen days, and at the end of the test there was only a few inches of water in the bottom, the rest having leaked through and submerged farms throughout the neighborhood for which several law suits have been instituted against the city. The specifications required that the reservoir was to be puddled with suitable clay, and instead it appears that mud from a nearby swamp was used. Freel has received about $750,000 on the contract.

Obituary.

SHERLOCK AUSTIN.

Sherlock Austin died on Tuesday evening last at his residence, No. 117 Taylor street. Death was caused by paralysis, brought on through a stroke of apoplexy. Mr. Austin, who was in his sixty-sixth year, was a member of the lumber firm of Cross, Austin & Co., and had been a resident of the Eastern District since 1845.

The Building Material Exhibit.

At this season of the year, when so many have in contemplation the construction or remodeling of buildings, whether in the city or country; when plans are in course of preparation and the selection of all kinds of material is being considered, interested parties will find it to their advantage to first visit the Building Material Exhibit conducted by THE RECORD AND GUIDE, at 276 to 282 Washington street, Brooklyn, a short distance from the Bridge terminal, for the purpose of inspecting the extensive and carefully-selected exhibits of constructive and finishing material there on view. Visitors will find a wide range of material for use in every department of house-building, including not only standard goods, but many ingenious and beautiful novelties in the way of finish, equipment and decoration that doubtless they will be glad to know about. These exhibits, prepared with much care, and classified by sections, may be easily found, examined and compared, and thus a prolonged and oftentimes vexatious search through the open market for goods of which the individual may have little knowledge, be avoided. In fact the exhibition embodies within itself a material market of large proportions, and offers advantages alike to the architect, the builder and the individual not to be found elsewhere in the Metropolitan district.

Brooklyn Real Estate Notes.

Jere. Johnson, Jr., will officiate as auctioneer on Friday next, April 20th, at the Receivers' sale, at the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange, of the properties of the bankrupt firm of Liebmann Bros. Building Trade Notes—Brooklyn.

One of the most significant features of the growth of the building industry is the number of specialties into which it has been divided. There is so much to it now that no single firm, corporation or individual is capable of, alone, doing all the work required on a building of any importance. Which is why, when one has a building to erect, he goes to a mason for his brick and stone work, for his woodwork to a carpenter; for his painting and glazing to a painter, and for his sheet metal work, skylights, tin, slate and tile roofing and corrugated iron work, to D. B. Hilton & Co., of No. 480 Clermont avenue, for they are specialists in that class of work. They get some of the cream of the business, too, along with the universal flow of plain work—as witness the Bijou Theatre, at Livingston and Smith streets; the Berlin apartments, at Broadway and Willoughby avenues, and the sky light work on the Metropolitan Opera House, in Greater New York. Their telephone call is 748 Brooklyn.

Builders—Brooklyn.

It will contain all improvements and cost $2,600; plans for two four-story brick flats, 25x75 and 66 feet, to be erected on the corner of Atlantic and Elton avenues. They will contain all improvements and hot-air heating, and cost $17,000.

A new wing, extending over 100 feet on Greene avenue and three stories and basement in height, with a tower on the corner, and running back toward Lafayette avenue, with a frontage on Thoop avenue. The first story will contain a chapel, audience rooms and other necessary rooms, while above will be located single rooms for the inmates. It will be heated by steam in every hall and room, and will contain all modern improvements. The estimated cost is $60,000.

On the invitation of City Works Commissioner White to architects to prepare plans for an appropriate architecture for Wallabout Market, Architect J. Graham Glover presented plans for a building extending 1,000 feet on Washington street, with arcades at Market and Smith streets. MORTGAGES.

Note.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—It is always an agreeable duty to record a more cheerful market, and there appears to have been a turn in that direction this week. It was not so much force of demand either that stiffened the tone, because the inclement weather has served to reduce the consumption, but sellers found their advantage in the smaller quantity of stock they were called upon to handle. A great many of the barges after returning to the yards failed to take on fresh supplies and come back here as was expected, the result of which could be found in the gradual reduction of local accumulation to a smaller compass than for some time past, so far as the Hudson River product was concerned at least. With the lighter amounts available there came a hardening of tone, and while possibly the bulk of supply would not exceed $5, about $12\frac{1}{2}$@25c. more is quoted at the close for the best run of stock. There still appears to be a great many Jersey made goods coming along from time to time and surprise is expressed at the manner in which they held out. They do fairly well in price because only the best qualities are allowed to come forward; indeed, it is understood that shipment of cheap grades was stopped because of the absence of profit. Pales are selling moderately at about former rates. At the present writing it is not known that any plan of action has positively been decided by manufacturers for the next season. They were, however, holding conferences at one of the river cities, and it is thought likely have come to an agreement looking to a supervision and control of this year's output so far as it is possible to attain that end. During the first three months of the year there was quite a fair call from exporters, but it now runs quite light again.

LATH.—There is not much demand taken as a whole, and few, if any, dealers would care to stock up beyond the immediate want of the moment. A scarcity of slab stock, however, has prevailed all the week, and as such are specially called for they have quite a firm tone with a probability that a few would sell quickly at $2.10. More or less round wood stock has been coming along, possibly as much as really required for use of the market, and although $2 is given out as the quotation, it has really undergone some shading in two or three instances.

LIME.—Reports indicate much the same state of affairs as last week, embodying a slow, uncertain demand and an easy feeling all along the line, through which the buyer is getting advantages he has no particular use for at the moment. Dealers entertain no speculative notions and handle supplies only for positive necessities. Quotations have a somewhat nominal basis, but about 80@85c. for common, and 95c.@$1.00 for lump. Eastern is not far out of the way unless the top figure is too high. There is just a gentle whisper borne on the wind from the Eastward, that if the combination of manufacturers has not entirely gone to pieces it certainly needs coopering, and that pretty quick.

LUMBER.—Even under nominal conditions of supply and demand a succession of reports upon any leading article of merchandise free from speculative entanglements are apt to become a little monotonous. But to get a good, solid chunk of monotony from week to week one has only to tackle the lumber market at the present time. First there is the sanguine run of operators, who raise cheerful expectations by recounting the great improvement in trade and the promising condition of affairs extant, but who, upon investigation it is shown, compare the natural spring increase of orders with the absolute stagnation of winter instead of with last season, and the predictions for the future are based upon so many contingent "ifs" as to be practically valueless. They are like the angler who said, when he caught the fish that was nibbling and two more he hoped to hook, he would have three. Then there is the class which takes a diametrically opposite view—thinks everything is going to the bad and can see no signs for improvement in the general lumber trade for this season at least. And, again, there is encountered the conservative operator, who hits the nail about on the head in stating that the line of trading is extending somewhat as the natural sequence of progress of the season, but nearly all demand one of necessity alone and not likely to change until financial and commercial affairs become more settled. Those are the three regular stories repeated, with slight variation, every week.

The export trade is slow and now thought likely to remain in that condition in consequence of the less promising accounts from South America. That makes rather a poor outlook for shipping grades of lumber especially as there is now here a great deal larger accumulation than ordinary at this season of the year.

White pine is said to have been quietly offered with a trifle more freedom than heretofore, with an intimation that rates were easier than a short time ago, but operators are so shy about revealing their movements it is difficult to obtain positive information. The chances, however, are in favor of the buyer as both Canadian and Western stuff is more freely represented in the first hand offerings, and agents act as though they wanted to sell. Yellow pine is talked of as steady and at certain of the primal markets it would be difficult to place an order, except at the full line of valuation for some time prevailing, but the demand is disappointing, and buyers appear in no greater hurry than a month ago. There is said to be a trifle more treaty over f. o. b. parcels at Southern ports, but not up to the average in quantity for the season.

Spruce continues unsettled, but without any tendency apparent as yet toward a gain of tone. For the Eastern product yard specials are being taken at $13.50 upward to possibly $14.25 except for extra difficult, but very nice cuts available inside of $14, and random might sell proportionately if any one happened to want it. Receivers, however, are hoping to be delivered from the arrival of any important supply of random, because no natural market for it exists at the moment, and attempts to force trading could only lead to a sacrifice, unless sellers were willing to accept a class of custom of which they have for some time been rather shy. The Virginia product, some of the trade think, is not offered with quite so much freedom as a week or so ago, but others claim to find the available quantity quite as liberal and rates in every way as low. If yard rates are sustained as claimed, there ought to be big money in spruce at current cost, although it is asserted that only a few yards can stock up with the Virgihia product to any advantage.

Hemlock still finds only limited demand on local account, even though rates are easy and in some cases considerably below the opening figures of the season. Some of our agents, however, had been scooping in a very respectable run of country orders with further negotiations under way. Offerings are ample, and in some cases manufacturers appear anxious to have orders booked. Carolina pine also sells better on outside orders than to custom in this locality, with supplies plentiful and prices easy.

Hardwoods are without changes of importance, the general demand proving very slow and evidently not to be stimulated by the tender of easier terms. Naturally, poplar has the greatest sale, which is not saying very much for poplar, and it shares the usual irregularity on value. As a rule, however, $32 for inch seems to be about the average top figure and even that is in some instances shaded. Offerings are not plentiful because most manufacturers and their agents are too well posted to burden the market with a supply it has no use for, but an assured better demand would, in all probability, be fully and promptly met. Exporters will negotiate moderately over high grade selections.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

The general market shows some evidence of enlargement, though not in as pronounced a degree as in years of ordinary prosperity. The distributive trade continues to anticipate nothing, but is strictly confined to the current demand for consumption. In several of the larger cities there is considerable building in progress, and this calls for lumber to an extent nearly or quite equal to the amount demanded in the spring season of former years. But in the smaller interior places, and in the rural districts, a close economy of means is restricting consumption on building or any other account. Manufacturers of all classes are also using a limited quantity of lumber, which is minimizing the movement of stocks from market centres.

New lumber will soon come in as a factor in market conditions, but the operators are in no haste to start their mills. The prospect now is, however, that the majority of them will be running about April 15, but there will be little effort made to crowd production by running nights, except in cases where contracts must be filled in a specified time.

Surveying the entire lumber field, the market has but the features of quietude, caution, slowness and confinement to such consumptive demand as is manifest from day to day. There is absolutely no buying of wholesale or retail stocks except as the lumber shall be needed for trade or consumption in the immediate future, or a time so near at hand as to preclude all possibility of loss by the fall of prices. Operators are working along on the safe side of the business, and are venturing nothing on future probabilities.

At Chicago pine yards there is not much life in the demand, and enlargement, if at all perceptible, is very slow. The big storm and cold snap in the latter part of March checked any expansion of demand that might have occurred. It is known that prices have been cut to a degree, and that piece stuff has been sold at figures hovering around $11 to $11.50. In this respect the shipping trade is no worse than the local business, for all dealers are now after both kinds, and the effect is to equalize prices as between both branches of trade.

It is evident that the supply of long wide joists has run rather low. Late last season there was but a slight demand for such stuff, and on the cargo market it was sold at prices almost equivalent to those for short lengths. The result was that such lumber was generally neglected. The mills stopped cutting it and worked the logs into other kinds of lumber. As is usual in such cases, the yard supply was reduced, and now it is probable that long wide stuff will be in better demand than last season, especially should the local building requirement be maintained.

Prices for poplar lumber are slowly but surely getting firmer. Difficulty is still experienced in maintaining the association list, but a large percentage of the smaller stocks has been picked up, and the large holders, as a rule, are in a position to await better prices before moving their lumber.

As has been predicted, a shortage in the log crop has already begun to develop, and unless there are further thaws in the near future, nearly all of the mills depending upon river logs will be forced to shut down. Dry lumber is not plentiful, even with the present light demand, and with the development of spring trade prices are almost certain to advance.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

The weather, ever a factor in the lumber trade as in other lines of business, the past week has not been the most favorable to encourage improvement. While the temperature has been somewhat milder over the Northwest, storms have been prevalent, which have resulted in demoralizing roads in the rural districts where the frost has just come out of the ground, making hauling bad, and tending to delay the long looked for increase in the general demand. However, from all reports, there has been a small increase in the demand for lumber noticeable, and wholesalers and manufacturers feel a little more encouraged in getting ready to start their mills for the sawing season.

The cold, stormy weather has also delayed the going out of the ice from the lakes and streams of the northern parts of Minnesota and Wisconsin. While the middle Mississippi mills are now nearly all in operation on logs left over from last season, farther north in the white pine section, it will yet be from ten days to two weeks before the majority of the mills are in operation. As to the extent of their season's operations, mill men have not yet decided, waiting until circumstances shall point out to them the best course to pursue. With the shortage in the log crop, there would be an indication that there would not be an excessive cut, but when it is considered that a large cut of lumber is not needed under the existing circumstances, a different color is put on the situation.

METALS.—COPPER — Ingot has shown very little animation down to present writing, and few, if any, new features worthy of note. Supplies appear ample for all the calls made and sellers willing to accept former rates. The demand appears from speculation, and coming almost solely from regular sources. On the average range of valuation we quote at 9½@9⅝c. for Lake and 9@9⅝c. for casting brands. Manufactured copper meets with fair average demand and the market on the whole is somewhat steadier, a recent meeting of producers having adjusted list figures so as to overcome the irregularities that have gradually crept in. The paring down is quite liberal. We quote as follows: Sheet, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 14c.; do. 14 to 16 oz., 15c.; do. 12 to 14 oz., 16c.; do. 10 to 12 oz., 17c.; do. 8 to 10 oz., 20c.; do. under 8 oz., 22c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12@16 oz., 2c. for 10@12 oz. and 3c. for 8@10 oz. Sheets not above 36x96 in., 16 oz. and over 14c.; do 14 to 16 oz., 16c.; do. 12 to 14 oz., 18c.; do. 10 to 12 oz., 22c.; do. 8 to 10 oz., 25c. Sheets longer than 96 inches 14c. for over 32 oz. and add 1c. for 16 to 32 oz.; 1c. 14 to 16 oz.; 1c. 12 to 14 oz.; 1c. for 10 to 12 oz., and 2c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz., 14c.; do. 16 to 32 oz., 19c.; do, 14 to 16 oz,, 21c.; do. 12 to 14 oz., 26c.; do, 10 to 12 oz., —c. Sheets wider than 48x96 and longer, 14@17c. for 32 to 64 oz.; 19@22c. for 16 to 32 oz.; 21@27c. for 14 to 16 oz. and —.@—c. for 12 to 14 oz. Bolt copper, ⅜ inch diameter and over, 14c. Circles, segments and pattern sheets, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do do, 4c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 5c. do. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1@2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottoms, 18@24c. per lb. IRON—American pig has few new important features, the general tone of the market ruling weak, yet hardly enough so to admit of buyers obtaining positive concessions. Offerings of stock are ample and it is intimated could be increased were there any assurance that buyers would be in waiting. Some small lots of foreign are occasionally placed on special orders. We quote at $12.50@13.50 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $12.00@13.00 for No. 2 X do., and $11.00@12.50 for Gray Forge; Scotch pig iron, $20@22. Old material has an erratic sort of demand, and, although some very good orders are now and then placed, operators do not appear to consider general results as altogether satisfactory. On average range about former valuations are ruling. We quote at $11.50@12.50 for old iron rails; $10.00@11.00 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $9.50@10.50 for cast scrap; $10.00@11.50 for old car wheels, and $6.00@10.00 for borings, stove plate, &c. Manufactured iron has some demand of a routine character, and there is a slight increase in orders for structural shapes and assortments. The entire deal, however, is much below a seasonable average, and buyers manifest no disposition to aid in changing the conditions. We quote Beams up to 15 inch, 1.75@2c.; 20-inch, 2.10@2.25c. for round lots; Angles, 1.75@1.90c.; Universal Mill Plates, 1.70@1.90c.; Tees, 2@2.15c.; Channels, 1.80@2c, on dock. Steel plates are 1.65@1.90c. for Tank; 1.90@2.10c. for Shell; 2@2.15c. for Flange, and 2.50@2.80c. for Fire Box, on dock; Refined Bars are 1.60@1.90c. on dock, and Common, 1.45@1.60c. Steel rails meet with only a sort of trade demand, and the market is barren of specially interesting features worthy of note. The old rates remain, and are understood to be very well adhered to considering the condition of trade. We quote standard sections $24@25 per ton at mill, with usual advances for delivery at tide water. Pig lead has in the main favored buyers, although at times somewhat irregular, and holders appear to so control supplies as to prevent a weighty offering. The speculative feeling is cautious. We quote at 3½@3.60c. per lb. The manufactures of lead are quoted at 5¾c. for Pipe, 6½c. for Sheet, 15c. for Tin-lined Pipe, and 37½c. for Block Tin Pipe. Pig Tin is in moderate stock, and owners not particularly anxious to realize, which serves to preserve a fairly steady tone. Demand, however, is moderate and careful. We quote at about 19.55@19⅝c. for round lots, and 19¾@19⅞c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plate sells to some extent for future delivery, the custom coming mainly from large consumers providing for natural wants. The demand of the moment is confined to jobbing parcels of average assortment. We quote as follows: I. C. Charcoal, Melyn grade, $6.25@6.30; Charcoal, Melyn grade, crosses, $7.75½; I. C. Charcoal, Allaway grade, $5.40@5.50; Allaway grade crosses, $6.60; Charcoal terne, M. F. grade, 14x20, $7.20@7.25; M. F. grade, 20x28, $14.45@14.50; Worcester, 14x20, $5.70@5.75; Worcester, 20x28, $11.25@11.30; Dean grade, 14x20, $5.20@5.25; Dean grade, 20x28, $10.50@10.60; D. R. D. grade, 14x20, $5.00@5.05; D. R. D. grade, 20x28, $9.90@10.00; I. C. Coke, Penlan grade, $5.15@5.20; J. B. grade, 14x20, $5.20@5.25; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $5.40@—— basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares $5.50@5.55 basis. Spelter sells to extent of a few car loads from time to time, but generally operators complain of a slow sort of trade. Prices remain fairly steady. We quote 3.60@3⅞c. for Common Western, according to brand.

NAILS.—Demand in the aggregate is good, but it has irregular form and it is thought to be getting down more to the boundaries of immediate necessities. Indeed manufacturers are said to be worrying a trifle over the shaping of trade and have become unsettled in valuation even on wire nails, heretofore best sustained in value. We quote Cut at $1.00@1.10 per keg for car lots and $1.15@1.20 per keg for parcels from store for iron, and add 3c. per keg for steel; Wire, $1.10@1.15 for car lots, and $1.25@1.30 from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—More business has been doing of a general character and, so far as it goes, the gain is encouraging. The trouble is that after operators get over the exultation natural when they find orders coming in more freely and make a comparison with what they are ordinarily doing at this season, the showing is poor and then they commence to grumble again. Care is taken to treat all desirable custom with great courtesy, and as a consequence values secure no stimulant. Dry colors have been moving in jobbing lots only of late, but somewhat fuller orders come along for colors in oil and ready mixed paints, the selections principally from lower grades. Whiting, chalk and kindred articles are dull, and inclined toward an easier tone on cost. Of orange mineral there has been larger sales for both domestic and foreign, but not enough to add any strength to line of value. Litharge has found moderate jobbing sale, but quite a good line of orders were booked against low grades for deliveries next month and beyond. Zincs do not find much new demand and there are smaller deliveries on orders. Leads have been delivered freely on old contracts, but new demand is very limited and the old irregularity and weakness of price is revealed on actual sales. Corroders' quotations stand as follows: Lead in oil in kegs and dry lead in kegs in lots of less than 500 lbs., 6½c. net; in lots of 500 lbs. to 5 tons at one purchase, 6c.; 5 tons to 12 tons, one purchase, 5.94c.; 12 tons and over, one purchase, 5¾c. Lead in oil in 12½ lb. tin pails, add 1c.; in 25 and 50 lb. tin pails, add ½c.; and in 1 to 5 lb. tin cans, assorted (100 lbs. in case) add 2½c. per lb. to keg price. Terms on lots of 500 lbs. and over, note or acceptance at sixty days, or 2½ per cent discount will be allowed for cash paid within fifteen days of invoice date. To make either of the above required quantities any assortment of packages of white lead, red lead and litharge may be counted. The above quotations are free on board cars or boat at corroding point. Linseed Oil is without change of importance. Demand varies somewhat, but standard brands find an average outlet and old rates are sustained. We quote at 48@49c. for Western, 52@53c, for City from domestic seed and 58@60c. for do. from Calcutta seed. Spirits Turpentine sells along moderately in small lots as wanted by regular trade, but the supplies are moderate and well under control with a firm tone shown on values. We quote at 30@31c. per gallon, according to quality, quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—A moderately active business taking place, mostly of a regular sort of character and bringing out no really new features. Supplies have been very well controlled and valued at former figures. We quote Tar at $1.75@1.80 in pine or Wilmington bbls., $2.25@2.30 in pork bbls., and $3.25@3.30 in oil bbls.; Pitch $1.50@1.70.

THERE is no break in the dullness of business. In whatever department one looks, whether in stocks or grain or cotton, in goods manufacured or unmanufactured, the story is the same. But the absence of trade is not affecting prices as much as it would had the dullness supervened on an era of large production and extended operations. It is simply a condition of waiting upon all sides, until the decision of Congress on the Tariff Bill is reached, with perhaps a feeling of disappointment that the hopes for the defeat of that measure, aroused a few weeks ago, have not yet been confirmed. In Wall street there have been several bear pools on certain stocks, resulting in discomfiture to the members of the pools. The mistake made was in attempting these operations on a very narrow market. Any movement to either raise or depress the price of a particular stock in such a market as this is liable to come to grief because it cannot find anywhere the concealment necessary to success. Then, too, quotations are still low and do not offer any inducement to holders to part with their securities, especially in a time when money is so plentiful as now. At the same time there is a tendency in financial quarters to take a gloomy view for the moment and, as in such cases is usual, the news in circulation is made to match. If trade improved this tendency would disappear like magic, but with no demand for money in the banks and no customers in the commission brokers' offices the most is made of the condition of the Treasury, the gold exports and labor disputes. Of course these are things not to be lightly passed by, but their influence on prices can only be proportioned to the size of the prices themselves, and these, as we have said already, are not high and in many cases much below values.

SIR WILLIAM HARCOURT'S budget speech illustrates very well indeed not only how rapidly people's views change, but also how quickly actual conditions are modified. Not many weeks ago it was the general belief in England that there would be a deficiency of at least $10,000,000 in the governmental receipts for the year about to close, as well as an inevitable increase of $22,500,000 in the expenditures of the year just opened, for which provision would have to be made. The fact now appears to be that, owing to the improvement in business the actual deficiency is only about $830,000, and the prospects are so good that no special provision in the way of extra taxes will be made either for that or to meet the expected deficiency of the current year; they will be met by borrowing or abandoning the fixed reductions of the national debt. One remark of the Chancellor of the Exchequer is important in view of the continued and erroneous reports of Great Britain's intentions in regard to silver, which was to the effect that the financial system of the country had stood the test of recent commercial troubles so well that any attempt to change the currency was unnecessary. Complaints, too, are arising that the banks are inconvenienced already by the coinage of unneeded silver. The practical settlement of the Baring estate is another matter for congratulation. Liabilities of $105,000,000 have been reduced to less than $15,000,000, with assets sufficient to cover the balance without the guaranteeing syndicate having been called upon to put up a dollar, and meantime the parties who made these liabilities have not been rendered helpless by their insolvency, but have been able to make for themselves a new business, small compared with what they once did, yet by no means insignificant. Notwithstanding the improvement in business, prices in Great Britain have on the whole had a downward tendency, doubtless due to the fact that so far only a small minority can benefit by the change and the majority, who still feel the pinching shoe, are rushing their goods to market to raise needed cash. France, like ourselves, finds that whatever its other advantages, the republican is not the most economical form of government. It is calculated that since 1876 the augmentation of the cost of the public service has amounted to $440,000,000. Suez Canal receipts continue to increase in comparison with the returns of last year. That Paris is now taking the lead in regard to Italian loans is thought to foreshadow an end of the commercial differences between France and Italy. Germany is discounting the speculation that preceded the passage of the commercial treaty with Russia through the Reichstag. Reliable Berlin advices, referring to the recent proposition for the rehabilitation of silver, are to the effect that there is no probability of its producing any practical effect beyond abundant discussion. As a result of the Austro-Russian commercial treaty the Vienna Institute of Commerce has sent an expert into Russia to report on the articles that had best be sent there for sale. Naturally the news from South America has improved the value of Brazilian securities in the foreign markets and will doubtless improve trade in that direction.

Private Property.—VI.*

BY RICHARD T. ELY, UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN.

WHAT MAY I OWN?

THE question in regard to the ethical right to own property of this or that kind is one which is frequently raised. It is indeed a question which is troubling many persons who have sensitive consciences, and perhaps there are few persons having even a normal conscience who would not refuse to own property of some sort or description. The discussions concerning landed property have in particular made some persons uneasy in regard to the ownership of land. The writer met not long since a clergyman of some prominence, and indeed some means, who held that he could not, with his views of landed property, own land. His views were substantially those of Mr. Henry George. This clergyman, on account of his residence near a great city, had had opportunities to make large gains by land ownership, but he refused to embrace these opportunities. Was this clergyman right from his own standpoint? That is to say, granted that the change which he advocated with respect to land ownership was desirable, was he called upon to renounce the advantages of ownership?

We have just seen that private property is a social trust. It is a trust committed to us for the general welfare by society. Society alone can change or revoke this trust. The individual, as such, is powerless to change the institution. Has he then a moral right to refuse to accept the trust when it comes to him naturally? He may attempt to show that private property in land is socially injurious. If he believes that it works decided harm, he cannot, as an upright man, refuse to do this. But, having explained his views in regard to landed property, and having endeavored to convince society of its mistake, has he not done his full duty? His refusal to accept the institution as it exists does not mend it. On the contrary, if he refuses to own landed property it does not cease to be privately owned; but it will probably be owned by some one who has a less sensitive conscience than he in regard to private ownership. He has thus, on account of what seems to be a mistaken view, very likely produced harm rather than good. Should a person feel very strongly on the subject he might accept ownership and use the gains of ownership for the propagation of his opinions concerning the nature of landed property. This would be a consistent course, which could be easily understood.

The same line of argument holds with regard to a multitude of institutions. One may hold, as the writer does, that public gas-works are preferable to private gas-works. Is this any reason, however, why one should not gain all the advantages which he is able to secure from the existence of private gas-works? It would seem not. It is a reason why a man who holds that private gas-works are less beneficial than municipal gas-works should use such opportunities as may present themselves to teach the public what he believes to be the correct view and to induce this public to adopt a sounder practice. Why, however, may not a person who holds to the desirability of municipalization of the gas supply say in effect to the general public: "I hold that you would gain decidedly by the municipalization of the gas supply. I have said this openly and have endeavored to persuade you that the course you are now pursuing is an unwise one. You have not, however, as yet been able to accept my views, and you cannot, of course, blame me if I derive whatever advantages I am able to secure from the existence of a private gas supply. Of course, again, I may employ the gains derived from private ownership to show that public ownership is better. And, indeed, I should do this, unless I see some other way to employ this income to better advantage for all parties concerned, myself and my family included." The further applicability of this view to telegraphs, telephones, railways, etc., is self evident.

It must be remembered in these cases that the question is one of expediency. The use of land must be regulated in some manner or another, otherwise it will not be efficiently cultivated and society will suffer. The case is similar with respect to gas, electric lights and telephones, etc. The country needs telegraphs and railways. Some way or another these services must be provided. If society in its organic capacity as nation, State or city, does not choose to take upon itself the task of furnishing these services, then it only remains for private individuals to do so, and it cannot be denied that private individuals render a public service under such circumstances. If they conceal their views on account of private gains or persecute those who hold different opinions, then their course becomes reprehensible. But this is not the point under discussion. It is: What may I own?

The reader may ask then, are there any limits whatever to ownership when considered from the ethical standpoint? Is it not morally right for me, if this view is correct, to own anything which the law permits me to own? Such a conclusion would be entirely unwarranted. Many existing institutions and practices are not questions of expediency, but simply questions of right and wrong. It is desirable that we should have a gas supply. How to secure this best is a question of expediency upon which society must pass judgment. It is not desirable at all that we should have gambling hells or houses of prostitution. It is not a question in this case whether the supply shall be furnished in one way or in the other. It is socially desirable that the supply should altogether cease to exist. The gambling hell is not to be received as a trust from society, but as a social wrong which all right-thinking persons should use their endeavors to abolish.

There are kinds of property in regard to which there can well be doubt. People of upright intentions and mental capacity hold different views in regard to these kinds of property. The traffic in intoxicating beverages furnishes a very good illustration. Is this traffic socially desirable or not? There are those who conscientiously maintain that it is desirable to have a well-conducted traffic in intoxicating beverages, because they hold either that it is impossible to abolish the use of intoxicating beverages, or that it is even undesirable that their use should be abolished even if it were possible. If one takes this view it is clear that for him it is allowable to own intoxicating beverages and to deal in them so long as this is at the same time in accordance with positive statutes. It would be the duty of such a person simply so to exercise ownership and so conduct the traffic based upon it that it should afford the greatest benefits with a minimum of social injury. It might even be maintained that what would be ethically allowable at one time or in one place would be reprehensible in other times or in other places. Shall we say that the man who in Germany, where the practice meets with general social approbation, keeps a restaurant and supplies pure beer and wine to his customers, seeking to promote a temperate rather than an intemperate use of these beverages, may not be a Christian and a patriot? If in any country or part of a country there happens to be a very general effort to abolish the traffic in intoxicating beverages altogether and this traffic meets with social disapprobation, the conduct of the man who owns and deals in wine and beer may be judged differently. Clearly a traffic of this kind seems to exercise a different influence on the character in circumstances of the one kind from that which it exercises under circumstances of a different kind.

What shall we say about slavery? The time has come in the United States when we may discuss this institution of the past more calmly and dispassionately. It can scarcely be denied that there was wrong on both sides in the slavery struggle. It can scarcely be maintained that at all times and in all places slavery has been an absolute wrong. So long as the institution existed and was supported by the laws of the land it was not by any means always clear that a man who freed his slaves conferred a benefit on them. It is quite possible that the slave-owner who treated his slaves well and exercised his influence to render the institution a mild one was doing the best thing which could be done under the circumstances. Those slave-owners, however, were guilty who personally misused their slaves, or who endeavored by legislation to render the institution a hard one, and to prevent the elaboration of plans for the peaceful escape from this unfortunate institution. Let us always remember that a social institution is a social and not an individual product, and bear in mind what this implies in regard to individual conduct.

We may view this question of individual ownership from another standpoint. I am, let us say, a millionaire. A poor man comes to me and says: "You hold that property was instituted for social purposes; you claim that it is maintained as a social trust. You have much money, more than sufficient to satisfy your needs—and I have little and my needs are unsatisfied. Give me a portion of your property. I will be satisfied with $10,000. You will still have left more than you can possibly use for yourself and your family." What shall I reply? There can be little difficulty in regard to my answer. I say: "Not so fast, my good friend; it is very true that my property is a social trust. I received it as a trust from society, but not from you or from any other individual. It is my duty to exercise the trust in behalf of society. When I become convinced that the best thing I can do for society is to pass my money over to you, I will do so. Until then I will keep it myself and make that use of it which it seems to me is socially most beneficial."

THE venal character of the legislature at Albany is established on strong inferential grounds, and the stories that have come recently from the Capitol about the activity of the agents of the Manhattan Railroad Company among our immaculate "statesmen" need not be true to the letter to convince all but the very credulous that there is no hope this season for the passage of any rapid transit measure that creates opposition to the present elevated system. Moreover, it should not be overlooked that the cable companies are now intensely interested in preventing the construction of an underground or any other road that would share with them the "congestion" that now makes locomotion in New York a species of dirty disease. As an Eastsider expressed it lately, "the New Yorker moves about in a state of contagion." It is evident that the Chamber of Commerce people are not enthusiastic over the prospects for their bill and are continuing a controversy with the Mayor rather for their logics' sake than with any idea that they will proselyte in official quarters or stir a dense, indifferent public to perform its duty. The business of a prophet is a dangerous one these days for any one's reputation, nevertheless we hazard the prediction that New Yorkers will yet regret their supineness, if not in sackcloth and ashes, then in ashes and carburetted hydrogen, smells, noise, discomfort and under the contumely of a private corporation that has no respects for public rights. Serve the public right.

COXEY'S army, with its "Unknown" and other farcical elements, has sufficient of the absurd about it to raise a laugh. The trouble is, however, that this wholesale movement of idle and indigent tramps has something more than the ludicrous about it. The "army" is composed of unwholesome and dangerous elements who unfortunately having got to Washington cannot be dispersed by mere bidding. The novelty of marching and begging across the continent will be exhausted with the completion of the first trip, and as the gentry of the "Commonweal" are in few cases men of settled domicile or steady industry the question, what will become of these tramps when they reach their destination is really a serious one. Few of them have started with a return ticket. The world is not only very rapidly dividing into two parts—those who do possess, and those who do not possess, but are endeavoring to establish a claim without the payment of any equivalent upon what others possess—but people are organizing so that what would be pure covetousness, and highway robbery if practiced by individuals singly, may, in its collective form, be dubbed a social movement. Many a creed which a man would hesitate to preach for himself he will vociferate for for mankind—and incidentally for himself. Numbers seem to make right in these matters. Now, each idle private in Coxey's Army who has been well fed and expedited to Washington as comfortably as possible by the fools and the fearful along the route will feel that he has in some sense come into possession of a measure of established right to a comfortable idleness and will resent any harsh denial of free ease and plenty. Prescriptive rights are quickly set up. It has been said that any man who has once been permitted to cut across a lot feels a sense of injury when his trespass is prohibited. We may be sure organized ruffianism led by cranks at a time when press, public and pulpit are all preaching in one form or another the "rights of all in everything" is not likely to disperse as harmlessly as a street-corner crowd, when the junketing farce of "getting to Washington" is played out.

The Atchison Committee.

The result of the announcement that a Committee had been formed to reconcile all interests in the Atchison property must be somewhat chilling to the personnel of that Committee. Probably a better reception would have awaited it if the interests in question had first been consulted in its formation. As it is, the average security-holder cannot look upon it as anything better than a body formed at the instigation of the managers of the road from houses which, so far as any information is vouchsafed the public, only assume to represent the security-holders, and whose ultimate object is to make what they can for themselves out of a fat reorganization. The addition of expensive counsel and a railroad expert to the machinery of the Committee is more promising of expense than use. From another point of view the springing up of this formidable Committee is not assuring. Atchison security-holders have all along been led to believe that its insolvency is due entirely to the collapse of business last year, and that if given a little breathing spell it would come out all right and without any need of reorganization. Current reports of earnings bear out this impression. The net earnings for the first eight months of the fiscal year amount to $9,228,543; the entire fixed charges, including taxes, interest and guarantees amounted last year to $11,620,724. It is reasonable to suppose then that with the net earnings of the four remaining months and the income from investments, amounting ordinarily to about $800,000 a year, that the deficiency of fixed charges for the current fiscal year will be small, if any exist at all. Last December the floating debt, exclusive of interest accrued, was reported to be $6,300,000, against which the Company had the securities it was authorized to issue for betterments and equipment, but which it was not able to market owing to the bad times. As only three months' interests on less than half of its obligations has been paid this year the Receivers ought to be accumulating cash fast. With such a showing as this it seems hardly necessary that such on expensive Committee as the one now calling for support should have been appointed. If the facts and figures relating to the Company are not as stated and there is any suspicion of the truth of its receivers and officers, then even the method of creating the Committee is not the proper one. Presuming that the Committee does represent large individual interests it ought not to have been formed without previous consultation with the still larger, though perhaps more scattered, interests in the hands of the public. The London Committee for the protection of the second mortgage bonds was appointed at a meeting of between seven hundred and eight hundred bondholders, called by advertisement in the newspapers. The Committee on this side of the Atlantic seems to have been formed through the correspondence of a few banking houses and trust companies, all of whom will make more by reorganization than by the settlement of the Company's difficulties in any other way.

Legislation at Albany.

ALBANY, April 19.—Few Legislatures ever expire with "the order of sanctity" clinging to their vestments, and the present Legislature has not escaped the common fate of its predecessors. Both of its branches are now somewhat smirched with a scandal.

The Assembly was the first body to run into difficulty by attempting on Friday last to pass the bill authorizing the Mayors of New York hereafter elected to remove from office the heads of any of the city departments and to appoint successors to them. It is needless to say that the introduction of this measure had caused a good deal of agitation in the breasts of the chiefs of New York City departments, and no one was surprised to see Corporation Counsel Clark rush up here from New York, Richard Croker come home hurriedly from the West, and Dock Commissioner White, Health Officer Jenkins and other heads of New York city departments seek the climate of Albany. It had been the observation of the correspondent of THE RECORD AND GUIDE that no omnibus charter for the City of New York, affecting every department in the city government, ever was passed. It affects $17,000,000 in salaries, and that amount of salaries will not permit itself to be harmed. The correspondent therefore was not surprised, after Corporation Counsel Clark had been here for several days, to see a motion prevail in the Assembly recommitting to the Assembly Committee on Cities this wholesale Removal Bill of Mr. Sheffield. This recommittal was accomplished by Mr, Sulzer with the votes of nearly all the Brooklyn Assemblymen and by the convenient absenteeism of some moral Republicans.

This misadventure of the bill caused such a scandal that Speaker Malby called a caucus of the Republican Assemblymen and whipped all of them into line for Mr. Sheffield's bill. He also bound up the Republican Assemblymen to vote for that bill of Mr. Sheffield's which put the Sheriff of New York upon a salary, depriving him of his fees; and for the bill abolishing the present Board of Police of New York and substituting a new Board of two Republicans and two Democrats.

The Republican Assemblymen redeemed themselves to-day by passing both the bill authorizing the incoming Mayor to appoint new heads of departments and the bill cutting off the fees of the Sheriff of New York and putting him upon a salary of $20,000 a year—a princely one.

But in the meanwhile the Senate had fallen into disgrace. There yesterday the bill cutting off the Sheriff's fees and placing him upon a salary was defeated by a combination of four Republicans and twelve Democrats. It was pointed out by Senator Saxton, the Republican leader, that the Sheriff of New York now receives $60,000 in fees and a salary of $12,000; and that, owing to recent amendments of the Civil Code, the pecuniary risk of his position is very slight. But $60,000 a year is a big income, and the Sheriff of New York therefore succeeded in obtaining defenders in the persons of Senators Owens and Reynolds, of Brooklyn, and Senators Coggeshall and Donaldson, up-country Senators, all Republicans, and twelve Democrats. Lieutenant-Governor Sheehan told the correspondent of THE RECORD AND GUIDE that the bill would be killed, and his prediction came true. The same Senators doubtless will vote against the bill, although the Assembly to-day raised the salary of the Sheriff to $20,000 a year. No true servant of the people will vote against such a bill. Senator Saxton informed the correspondent of THE RECORD AND GUIDE to-day that he should have a caucus held on Monday night upon the bill, and also upon the Sheffield bill, authorizing new Mayors to remove the heads of departments.

The Assembly passed yesterday Senator Lexow's bill abolishing the present Board of Police of New York and substituting a new Board of two Republicans and two Democrats. All the signs point to some such bill as this becoming a law. The Tammany Hall Senators and Assemblymen have resisted the passage of the bill in a rather perfunctory manner. One of the chief Tammany Hall members of the Legislature said to-day to the correspondent of THE RECORD AND GUIDE: "Governor Flower will sign the bill, for Tammany Hall is tired of having to shoulder the responsibility of administering the Police Department of New York. It wishes to put half of that responsibility on the shoulders of the Republican party. In the opinion of the leaders of Tammany Hall no greater political blunder was ever made than when Mayor Grant made the Board of Police consist of three Democrats and one Republican."

Nevertheless it is not yet certain in what form the Police Department bill will finally pass. Tammany Hall is palpably dissatisfied with the Assembly amendment, clothing Superintendent Byrnes with the power of assigning all officers to duty below the rank of inspector. Whether the Republicans of the Senate will strike out this provision no one can tell until the Republican pilgrims return from their weekly visit to the City of New York, which will take place this Saturday.

Assemblyman Sheffield had a conference with H. H. Cammann here yesterday on the bill to send back the legal sales from No. 111 Broadway to the Real Estate Exchange. With so much Tammany Hall money in Albany as there is now apparently it will be impossible to pass the bill. Mr. Sheffield thinks it may pass the Senate, but he has no hope of its passing the Assembly.

Assemblyman Lawson said to-day: "I have no belief that I shall pass my bill regarding the contracts of the Dock Department, compelling the doing of all work by contract over $250 in amount. Dock Commissioner White has been here all the week and doubtless has been stabbing the bill in every direction."

The Senate has passed Senator Cantor's bill to extend Park avenue north of 106th street, New York City; Assemblyman Marrin's bill appropriating $1,500,000 for new school houses in New York City; Assemblyman McDermott's bill authorizing New York to expend $150,000 annually for her Normal School, and Assemblyman Ainsworth's bill creating a commission, of which Dr. Cyrus Edson will be a member, to investigate the construction of the tenement houses of New York, and report to the next Legislature whether or not they are built so as to insure the good health of their inmates.

The Senate have extended the time of the Lexow Police Investigating Committee until January 15, 1895, and have put the Department of Charities and Correction and the police courts also within the power of the committee to investigate their working.

The Assembly killed to-day the bill raising the salary of Superintendent Brady, of the Department of Buildings of New York.

Architects on High Buildings.

The recent discussion by the Architectural League of this city of the question, "Is it or is it not desirable that a law should be passed restricting the heights of buildings," developed an almost general condemnation of the high building pure and simple, the difference of opinion being chiefly as to whether legal interference is justifiable and what form it shall take if any should be had. Mr. Geo. B. Post, who originated the discussion on this subject, claims that the heights of buildings should be limited by law, that is, that there should be a limit of height at which a building might be occupied, but that freedom should be allowed the owner in the form of decoration with which he would surmount it. He holds that it is desirable that if an act be passed regulating the heights of buildings to see that it should be framed in such a way that all buildings would not be of an absolutely uniform height and that the city should not be cursed with an absolutely uniform tall style. This he believes can be accomplished. Mr. Post also pointed out a probable source of increase in the number of high buildings by the building of additions to existing ones of moderate heights. He said: "It is perfectly within the resources of engineering to carry the present ten or twelve-story buildings, supplying new foundations and a steel cage, to the height of the present high buildings. You must not think that because there are important structures, eight to twelve stories high, that they are going to remain so."

Mr. David H. Burnham, of Chicago, took quite a prominent part in the discussion. He said, taking first the question of valuation of property, he did not anticipate that a law restricting the heights of buildings would ultimately lower the cost of real estate. In New York to-day the price per square foot at which buildings are rented is higher than in Chicago. The price per square foot for first-class buildings in equally good positions in Chicago is higher than the price per square foot in Minneapolis, Omaha and Kansas City. The price per square foot in those localities in Chicago is higher to-day than it was some years ago. The price per square foot for office property of a given grade is higher to-day in New York than it was ten years ago. He presume the restriction to 150 feet from the bottom to the main height would operate very soon to increase the cost per square foot of the floors to be rented and did not think property would permanently depreciate. The immediate result would be depreciation of values; it had in some places been already. In regard to traffic on the streets: Every day in certain localities there was congestion. If two more or three more down-town cities be imposed upon the present height in New York the result is going to be very serious indeed, because it means two, or three or four times as many people doing business there. It would make the centres more intense in their business so that congestion is a pretty certain result. Already people are talking of doubling the heights of the streets themselves, by overhead sidewalks, etc. Schemes for doing this were being looked at seriously by men considered convervative engineers. Another proposition coming forward in Chicago to relieve the congestion of the streets, was to lease the space under the sidewalks for transportation. Congestion, the elevator trouble and windbracing were the three elements not theoretical, but absolute, which he thought were going to restrict the height of buildings. When you speak of the artistic aspect, he said, it is already abominable. The results are abominable, no matter how an individual may have a design curious in itself to jumble into an inharmonious ugly mass. The only way to overcome that would be to have an artistic commission to control the design as an element of the whole block or the whole neighborhood.

Mr. Adler, another Chicagoan, said he was on both sides of this controversy. There were certainly good reasons why the heights of buildings should be restricted, and equally good reasons why there should be no restrictions. In a general way he held the less legislation—the less number of laws—the better; that applied to the matter of buildings. Perhaps the only ground upon which, under our American system of legislation, any restriction could be imposed on the height of buildings is one that is derived from the laws of sanitation. If it is true, and, he thought, few could deny it, that narrow streets, having on both sides a succession of great high buildings, became canons, at the bottom of which there is no sunlight and through which the wind sweeps with almost irresistible force, that is a reason why the various legislative bodies had a right to require that the desire of the individual to gain the most possible revenue from whatever ground he may have shall yield to the requirements of the masses who have a right to sunlight and a reasonable degree of sanitary protection. Therefore the legislation would take the form of restricting the height of buildings to a certain ratio with regard to the width of the street.

Mr. Stone, Secretary of the Institution of Architects, objected to the high buildings because of increased danger of damage from fire they created. In this connection, he wished they could introduce into this country a law somewhat like the French law, making the owners of buildings somewhat responsible for the damage done by fires which originated on their premises. In a conference on the matter of practical methods of reducing fire risks Mr. P. M. Clarke, of Boston, had suggested that a man who built a building more than 75 feet high, with the undivided space of more than 5,000 feet, should be held responsible for all damage from a fire which might originate upon his premises and the damage done his neighbor from fires originating on his premises. Such a regulation would do more to restrict the erection of high buildings than anything he could conceive of.

Mr. Thomas Hastings, looking at the question from a purely artistic standpoint, held that some limitation of the heights of buildings would greatly improve the general effect of the city. From a practical point of view, it was a most important question that there should be some limitation as to the height his neighbor might be allowed to go. If he owned land in New York it seemed to him that he had a perfect right to demand that his sunlight be not taken away from him. From a purely artistic point of view, he did not think it is possible to build over ten or twelve stories high.

A Bill in the Interest of Elevated Railroad Litigants.

There will be a lining up of forces in the Assembly one of these days, on a bill in which the interests of owners of real estate along the line of the elevated railroads are deeply involved. The bill is Senate bill No. 865; it passed the Senate on Monday and was referred to the Codes Committee in the Assembly. It was drawn in the law office of Evarts, Choate & Beaman, of this city, with a view to the correction of a fault in the equity practice of the courts, which, under ordinary circumstances, would never have been considered a fault, but which, under the manipulation of the elevated railroad lawyers, has become an abuse of the powers of the judiciary. The bill is for an amendment to the code, requiring the consent of the court to the abandonment of condemnation proceedings.

Actions against the elevated railroads for damages to private property have generally been superseded by actions brought by the elevated railroad companies to condemn the easements which they invaded and took when they built their roads. Lately, to further embarrass and cripple property-owners, the companies, after having been forced to trial, if the judgments did not suit them, have abandoned the proceedings and begun the actions over again. They are privileged to do this under the present law, at any time within thirty days after the judgment is entered, upon payment of costs. By thus delaying and preventing the recovery of damages, the elevated railroad companies have forced many owners to compromise their claims on the company's terms.

The amendment is designed to prevent this abuse of the processes of the courts, and it will work no hardship in any other class of cases. The bill, as stated, has passed the Senate, and is now in the Assembly. Here the lobbyists for the elevated railway companies have begun to make war on the bill. Their warfare is of the system familiar to large and wealthy corporations dealing with venal legislators. Some specious argument will be framed against the bill, to supply the corrupted Assemblymen with an ostensible excuse for opposing it; but the argument relied upon to defeat the bill will be the usual kind—the only thing which goes with a corrupt legislator. The course of the bill will be watched with interest, and the roll-call upon its passage will be well worth the scrutiny of taxpayers.

Questions and Answers.

INCOME CAN BE REACHED.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

If money is left to a trustee the income of which is to be given to a woman, can that income be attached for debts incurred by that woman?

Answer.—Not the whole income, but where a judgment debtor is the beneficiary of a trust under and by which the trustees are required to pay over to him the income of the trust estate, an action may be maintained by a judgment creditor after the return of an execution unsatisfied to reach the surplus income beyond what is necessary for the suitable support and maintenance of the cestui que trust, and those dependant upon him.—LAW EDITOR.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

What commissions are three trustees (named in the will) entitled to for collecting rents amounting to over $10,000 annually? Is it 1 per cent for each trustee, making 3 per cent on the gross rents, or 1 per cent to be divided?

Answer.—The law does not speak of amount of income, but of the value of the personal estate; if that is over $100,000 (and surely, property that pays $10,000 annually must be worth over $100,000), then each one of the three executors, or trustees, is entitled to full statutory commissions: that is three commissions, to be divided among the three trustees. But if there were more than three trustees only three commissions could be divided among them all. The commission is not 1 per cent as you suppose, but it is 5 per cent on the first $1,000, 2½ per cent on the next $9,000, and 1 per cent on all above $10,000; and when the trustees come to account, it is reckoned on the principal and interest of the personal estate. Thus the commissions on a personal estate of $150,000 above debts, with, say, three years' income of $10,000 annually, making $180,000 in all, would be

5 per cent on first $1,000	$50
2½ per cent on next $9,000	225
1 per cent on rest, $170,000	1,700
Total	$1,975

to each of the three trustees.

Of course if you are a trustee it will pay you most to account once every year for the income, and let the principal estate go to a separate accounting: thus, in the above example, on one year's income of $10,000, the commissions would be

5 per cent on first $1,000	$50
2½ per cent on next $9,000	225
Total, each year	$275

or $825 for the three years; then on the $150,000 corpus or principal of the estate:

5 per cent on first $1,000	$50
2½ per cent on next $9,000	225
1 per cent on rest, $90,000	900
Total	$1,275

Add this to the commissions on the three years' income, makes a total of $2,100 to each trustee, instead of $1,975.—LAW EDITOR.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

(1) If a broker sends a borrower with a letter of introduction to a lender who accommodates him with a loan on real estate, what, in the absence of any businesslike understanding is the broker's position if borrower repudiates his claim for payment? (2) If a broker sends a lender to view property of a builder, having been simply asked by the builder to get him a loan on three houses, and the lender loans on one house and fails to notify the broker, supposing three years to have elapsed before the broker learns the fact, what is his remedy against the builder who would evade payment? (3) If broker A gives broker B particulars of loan wanted or property for sale has B a right of action against A? Should he place the loan or find a buyer on terms stated by A in the event that through fault of A or his principal the transaction fails? I assume here also, as in both previous instances, the absence of any definite agreement in accordance with nineteenth century style of doing real estate business.

ISHMAEL BROKER.

Answer.—(1) He will have to sue the borrower for his commission. (2) His remedy is to sue the builder for his commission. Such a claim is good for six years. But what kind of a nineteenth century broker does not keep track of the mortgage records published in THE RECORD AND GUIDE, and get's left for three years? (3) No, we think not, as we understand your statement of the facts.—LAW EDITOR.

DIVISION FENCE.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

I am the owner of a piece of property on the north side of a street and have a fence at the end of my lot on the line. My neighbor in the rear built after I did and filled up his yard (which, like mine, are lower than the street level, about 4½ feet), without building a retaining wall or anything else. He simply put earth up against my fence, which is putting me to considerable expense of keeping my fence in repair. Am I obliged to retain my neighbor or can I compel him to protect my fence.

Answer.—Your neighbor can be compelled to pay one-half of the cost of keeping your fence in repair.—LAW EDITOR.

Real Estate Market.

The reports of brokers and operators this week have been full of complaint of the exceedingly slow movement of real estate. But when the general conditions of business throughout the country are considered and proper allowance has been made for these and for their effect upon investments, it will appear that the New York realty market has fairly held its own. In the auction market two more choice pieces of property were taken out of the market, not to appear in it again except under extraordinary circumstances. One was the northeast corner of Liberty and Cedar streets, that was absorbed by the Brooklyn Life Insurance Company, and the other was the corner of Grand and Allen streets, that Ridley's, the dry-goods men, bought for their own occupancy. At one of the sales, where some up-town property was offered, not a bid could be obtained. A prominent operator explained, that there was nothing to be gained in buying up-town property, even at bargain prices, until there was some assurance of improved rapid transit. In the private sales branch, the sale to a building loan operator of a block on Washington Heights, and to a syndicate of theatrical and other airy people calling themselves the Ærial Advertising Company, of the Fourth Presbyterian Church and adjoining property in 33d and 34th streets, are the significant features. The last transaction has about it an unsubstantial air that will hardly be removed until the deeds are filed. Outside of these special cases the market remains about as rigid and inflexible in tone and as inactive as it has been ever since the 1st of January. These are comparative expressions, of course. A large amount of business has been—is being—done, but in the universal opinion of brokers and operators it is 50 per cent less than it ought to and would be if the general business of the country were set free from the doubts and uncertainties that hang about the tariff legislation. If the investing classes were better acquainted with New York City real estate there would doubtless be a more liberal feeling on the buyers' side, for if anything has been demonstrated by the course of the financial and general business disturbances, following the 1st of June last, it is that New York City real estate is as safe a medium of investment as any form of property, and that, its stability considered, it is the best paying form of investment that can be found. Small investors can readily obtain 5 to 6 per cent for their money on mortgages, but of course they cannot expect Broadway or 5th avenue property as security. The larger incomes—7 to 12 and 15 per cent—will be obtainable only from straight investments. Responsible brokers can point the way to such investments, the chief inducement to which is that so sure as the country continues to thrive and increase in wealth and population the investments will increase in value. Buyers ought not to act, however, except on competent advice.

The following are the comparative tables for New York Conveyances, Mortgages and Projected Buildings for the corresponding weeks of 1893 and 1894.

A DECISION INTERESTING TO BROKERS.

The case of Knauss against Gottfried Krueger Brewing Company decided a few days ago by the Court of Appeals, involves principles of special interest to brokers.

It seems that the plaintiff introduced the president of defendant to a Mr. Bliss, with whom, or with whose assigns, the defendant subsequently completed a sale of its brewery at Newark for $1,822,000. The plaintiff brought the action in the Supreme Court to recover $45,000 for his services, to which claim the defendant set up as a defense that plaintiff was in the employ of the purchaser without defendant's knowledge, from whom he recovered $2,500 commissions.

The trial court dismissed the complaint and its judgment was affirmed by the General Term.

The Court of Appeals reverses the Supreme Court and lays down the rule that where the broker's engagement is to bring the principals together to make their own bargain and such a bargain is made he may recover compensation from either or both, although neither had knowledge of his employment by the other. This ruling is based upon the ground that such a relation does not involve the exercise of discretion or judgment in behalf of either party, hence neither can be prejudiced by the broker's relation to the other.

Mr. Andrew Wesley Kent argued the case for the appellant and Mr. Louis Marshall (of Guggenheimer, Untermeyer & Marshall) for the respondent.

It transpires that J. Delmage Trimble, of No. 111 Broadway (Trinity Building) was the broker who successfully negotiated the exchange of the Jex estate lots, on the northwest corner of Broadway and 49th street, for the Barrington apartment house on East 22d street. The sales, exchange and lease of these lots figured together about $1,000,000, and could only be completed by a skillful negotiation. Mr. Trimble is a stock member of the Real Estate Exchange and is well known as an appraiser, which line and the management of estates are features of his business. At the present he has a large amount of trust funds to loan on good property at 4½ per cent.

Messrs. J. Romaine Brown & Co. announce that (owing to the large amount of property under their control lying north of 59th street) they have, for the better convenience of their customers, decided to open a branch office on May 1st, at No. 245 Columbus avenue (at 72d street elevated railroad station), and have made arrangements to place the branch office under the management of Mr. James Van Dyck Card, who has made a specialty of operations in West Side realty for the past twelve years, and is thoroughly familiar with the entire West Side section.

The old-established firm of A. M. Johnson & Co., mortgage brokers, at No. 66 Liberty street, has added a department for the sale of realty, with the junior partner, Arthur G. Johnson, in charge. The firm have excellent facilities for placing mortgage loans, and the sales department commences business under very favorable conditions, with an energetic and successful negotiator at the helm.

At the commencement exercises of the Trade Schools, at 1st avenue and 67th street, last week, 328 young men were graduated, who have chosen the building trades for their life work. Among them the plumbers are most numerous, with 154 to their credit; carpentry came next with 57, and the rest in order as follows: bricklaying, 45; house and fresco painting, 35; blacksmithing, 14; sign painting, 10; plastering, 10, and stone-cutting, 3. Thomas Morgan, manufacturer of Improved System Dumb-waiters, recently finished three waiters for Mark Ash in the new building on 125th street, next to the Police Station. They run seven stories and give great satisfaction. Mr. Morgan invites the attention of architects, builders and owners to his dumb-waiters, which he claims possess advantages—the advantage of superiority and cheapness over the old style. Mr. Morgan's new shop, at No. 493 East 139th street, near 3d avenue, is now in good shape and he is quite busy with orders.

One of the most commendable forms of decoration for walls, ceilings and exteriors of houses is the beautiful relief work that, from its general origin and style, has come to be popularly known as French applique relief. Home builders would be surprised to know how easily and at what little expense they could avail of its manifest advantages. It is genuinely artistic, and everybody admires it when seen in place. It can be obtained of the manufacturers in either papier mache, carton pierre, or plaster, ready to be applied to an outside panel or facing, or an inside wall or ceiling. Halbert Bros., the manufacturers, whose office and salesroom is at No. 455 Fulton street, Brooklyn, publish an illustrated catalogue showing some sixty of the many designs they have in stock. But they are prepared to make estimates for the modeling and setting of work from new designs, no matter how elaborate the scheme may be. Home builders and designers will find it to their advantage to inquire into the merits of this article.

Many new specialties in building materials have been put upon the market during the last ten years. The competition between them has been furious, for the great increase in building made the prize of success one greatly to be desired. When under the circumstances an article has achieved a permanent and continuous preferment among architects and constructors it means that its merits are no longer doubtful—its success is deserved. Such an article is King's Windsor Cement, of which J. B. King & Co., at Nos. 21 to 24 State street, are the sole manufacturers and patentees. The best sort of testimony to the position it occupies among the wall finishes is a list of the leading buildings that have been plastered with it. We give some of them, we have not space for all: Cornelius Vanderbilt's residence, 5th avenue and 58th street; the Bloomingdale Asylum; Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard's residence, at Scarborough; the Mutual Life Building (new); the Mutual Reserve Building; the Continental Life, Postal Telegraph, Lawyers' Title Insurance and Brooklyn Savings Bank buildings; Park & Tilford's new store, at Columbus avenue and 72d street; the Post-office, at Troy; the Pennsylvania State Insane Asylum, at Wernersville, Pa; and the great addition to the Pennsylvania R. R. Co. Building, at Philadelphia, where over 4,000 barrels of the material was used. It is equally advantageous for dwellings, small or large.

In times like the present, when competition is so keen, particularly in all material that enters into the construction of houses, it speaks volumes for such goods as find an increasing sale among the best builders. Such goods are the Moist Warm Air Furnaces, manufactured by Thomas Nugent, of No. 214 East 80th street, which always give satisfaction and are used by such builders as Charles Buek, James Livingston, John Casey, T. Farley's Sons, Dr. W. E. Diller, G. C. Edgar's Sons, F. Crawford, A. G. Nason, J. C. Umberfield, P. Farley & Son and J. R. Breen & Son. Mr. Nugent has orders ahead for furnaces for thirty new houses.

The season is near when builders and constructors will be placing orders for the materials they will need in their work. A word, therefore, will not be inappropriate about the Goss & Edsall Company. Every builder knows that this company is one of the largest dealers in masons' building materials, including brick, lime, cement, lath, nails, etc. Their offices and supply depot are at Nos. 358, 359 and 360 West street, but the way to get quick communication with them is by telephone, to No. 895 Spring. Nothing in the line of masons' materials used in the construction of a model building, however extensive, is missing from their stock. It is the aim and a dominant principle of the company, that every contract made by it shall be carried out, both in letter and spirit, with the utmost exactness. As an indication of the range of their work we mention the following buildings: The Manhattan Life; Industrial, at 43d street and Lexington avenue; the Cable railroads, for their cable construction; the Grant Monument at Riverside Park; the hotels Marlborough, Vendome and The New Amsterdam; the Mutual Life Insurance Co, building on Liberty street, near Nassau; New York Buiscuit Co's stables, 14th to 15th streets, near 10th avenue; the immense Central Stores Building, extending from 27th to 28th streets, and from 11th to 12th avenues, and the Broadway Cable Road's power houses on Houston street and on Front street.

Among the indispensable parts of a building is a roof. These are of great variety, but in New York City, and especially in all construction classed as modern, substantial and generally fire-proof materials and construction are required. Whatever the style and material a well-known and experienced specialist in this branch of construction is D. K. Martin, of No. 522 East 20th street. Whether it be brick, tile, gravel or metal roofing, Mr. Martin has all the equipment and mechanical skill required for perfect work. Among the brick and tile roofs built by him we may mention as examples of his handicraft the Cooper Institute, the Bowery Bank in Grand street, near the Bowery; Buchman & Deisler, architects; the private mansion, No. 933 5th avenue, J. H. Duncan, architect; the Home Life building, Broadway, near Warren street, N. Le Brun & Son, architects; the Corn Exchange Bank building, William and Beaver streets, R. H. Robertson, architect. Mr. Martin is an expert constructor also of water-tight cellars, floors and roofs, some specimens of such work being the John Jay mansion, 72d street, near Madison avenue, Rose & Stone architects; the Stern mansion, 5th avenue, near 67th street, Wm. Schickel & Co. architects; the Sloan stables in West 13th street, and the Hughes & Hilton stables in Christopher street.

North Side Happenings.

The corner stone for the first building of the University of the City of New York was laid at 175th street and Sedgwick avenue, on Wednesday last, with appropriate ceremonies. Some of the stones from the old building on Washington square were carted up. The North Side Board of Trade have issued in pamphlet form the inaugural address of J. C. De La Vergne, the president, calling attention to the advantages and opportunities for development presented

Out Among the Builders.

Seven architects have been invited to submit plans for the new building of the Clearing House Association, to be erected on the site acquired toward the close of last year in Cedar street. They are: Messrs. George B. Post, Cyrus L. W. Eidlitz, R. W. Gibson, R. H. Robertson, McKim, Mead & White, Peabody & Stearns and Ernest Flagg. Designs are to be submitted by the 24th inst., Thursday next. It is understood that the new building is to have accommodations for a bank in the first story and that all above shall be used exclusively for the purposes of the clearing house. Vault accommodation and fire-proof construction are also to be important features of the new edifice; the first is made absolutely necessary as a result of the system adopted last year of issuing clearing house certificates against deposits of gold for the accommodation of the members of the association, and the second is a matter of course in a modern building erected for such a purpose. The problem presented to the competing architects in the present rage for high buildings is a very interesting one and the solutions offered will be closely studied.

Clarence True is preparing the plans for eight four-story American basement houses, to be built by Jacob Skinner, on St. Nicholas place, near 153d street. The fronts of these houses will be of limestone and specially made brick. The same architect has also the plans for two five-story limestone and light brick American basement houses, to be built by George J. Cohen, on the north side of 94th street, between 8th and 9th avenues. The last two will be 13-foot front houses and treated somewhat in the same style as other small houses designed by this architect. Mr. True will build for himself three five-story American basement limestone front houses on the south side of 78th street, near the Riverside Drive. All the houses are to contain what is latest and best in the way of finish and fittings, and the 78th street houses are to be particularly high-class.

Daniel Hennessey will improve the newly-excavated plot on the north side of 82d street, 210 east of 5th avenue, by the erection of four elegant English basement private dwellings. Each house will have a frontage of 25 feet and be 65 feet deep, with large pantry and bath-room extensions. The exteriors will be simple and dignified, the material blue Indiana limestone, white mottled brick and terra cotta. The houses will be equipped with passenger elevators and the interiors will be finished in marble and choice hardwoods throughout. The sanitary arrangements to be of the highest grade.
